6401 Found Tuberculosis Victims in D. C. Survey

Some 6401 local residents have learned through the Washington chest X-ray survey that they have definite symptoms of tuberculosis.

As a "by-product" of the survey, other chest ailments were discovered in 2269 persons, while 1540 were informed of heart conditions of which they were unaware.

About 100 of the 6401 are already in hospitals. Ninety other actively ill patients in advanced stages are waiting for hospital facilities which are not available here.

These preliminary results of the Washington chest survey were announced yesterday at a meeting which reviewed the survey's accomplishments of X-raying 466,604 persons. Other agencies cooperating with the survey reported X-rays which brought the District total to 503,398.

The follow-up program of medical care, nursing and hospitalization for the tuberculosis patients uncovered by the survey will cost from $100,000 to $125,000 per year. It was estimated by Dr. A. Barklie Coulter, director of the District Health Department's Tuberculosis Control Bureau.

The TB cases represent 1.5 per cent of the 440,491 X-ray photographs thus far analyzed, according to Owens Billows, health department statistician.

Dr. Howard M. Payne of the survey's medical and technical committee, explained later that the 190 TB sufferers already hospitalized or waiting hospital space roughly represent those who should be treated immediately.

Another 10 to 20 per cent, he estimated, would benefit from hospital treatment, if the District could provide it. And until all the cases can be studied more closely, there is no way of knowing how many more will soon be sick enough for hospitalization.

"Wise to Spend Now"

Most important, he warned, is that all the cases must be kept under medical and bacteriological surveillance.

The medical and technical committee, headed by Dr. Arthur C. Christie, warned that wise spending now for assistance to these cases can save many tax dollars later "to support orphans, broken families, and hopelessly ill patients . . ."

The survey results were reported at a meeting with the District Commissioners in the District Building.

District Health Officer George C. Ruhland stressed that the survey marked only the "first step" in the drive against tuberculosis. Despite science's success in reducing mortality from the disease by 36 per cent in the last 10 years, he said, the problem is "still a sizable one."

William E. Leahy, chairman of the survey, reported that all but $2750 of the $66,000 congressional appropriation for the survey had been spent up to June 30, when the study was ended. In addition,

Collapsing Wall Crashes Roof of Picture Theater

St. Louis, July 8 (AP).—A brick wall collapsed and fell through the roof of a small motion-picture theater in downtown St. Louis this afternoon, but only 9 of some 150 persons watching the show were injured.

It happened at the Senate Theater, Broadway and Market st.

The falling wall opened a hole in the roof about 15 feet across, directly over the balcony.

The crash coincided with the sound of an explosion in the movie. It was "Boothill Bandit," starring "Crash" Corrigan.

Md. Slayer Questioned on Bardwell Case

Washington detectives spent 3½ hours last night questioning the confessed slayer of a Baltimore child in connection with the unsolved rape-murder of Carol Bradwell in Rock Creek here June 27.

The investigators withheld comment, however, saying only that the suspect would be questioned again today.

The suspect, Eugene H. James, 31-year-old janitor and former convict, admitted the slaying of Marsha Brill to Baltimore police during the afternoon and was formally charged with that murder at 7:30 p. m.

Because of the similarity between the two cases, Washington detectives were rushed to Baltimore to question the man.

Sent to Baltimore were Capt. Robert V. Murray, assistant detective chief; Lieut. Edgar Scott, former homicide ace, and Detective Sergt. John L. Sullivan of the homicide squad. They began questioning James immediately after their arrival.

At 12:30 a. m. today, after the prisoner had been taken to the Northern Police Station for the night, Captain Murray said he was returning to Washington, but would again go to Baltimore today at 11 a. m. to continue the questioning.

"We must dig into the case further," the detective said.

The prisoner, who appeared calm after 3½ hours of questioning at Central Police Headquarters, will be arraigned on the Baltimore charges at 9 a. m. today before a magistrate in Northern Police Station.

Earlier in the day, before the Baltimore murder was solved, Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett told Washington newsmen he was "convinced" the same man killed both girls.

McGrath Invites Roosevelt, Others To Talk Things Over

Philadelphia, July 8 (AP).—The Democratic Party leadership waggled an olive branch toward anti-Truman forces today.

The temporary emphasis was on peace and harmony four days before the Democratic National Convention gets going.

But fights over a presidential candidate and a civil rights plank in the party platform could explode all over again by Saturday.

National Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath billed preconvention conferences with James Roosevelt and other discontented party officials. The idea was to try to smooth away some of their opposition to nominating President Truman for another four years in the White House. They have been eyeing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

McGrath and other Truman backers were going on the assumption that Eisenhower has said "no" often enough and loud enough so that there is no chance of his being drafted as a nominee.

Yet some Democrats who like Eisenhower refused to give up hope. In Washington, for instance, Senator Olin Johnston of South Carolina said:

"I expect to see General Eisenhower nominated on the first ballot in Philadelphia. If he won't accept the draft, then we can nominate Senator Barkley (Kentucky) or Jimmie Roosevelt."

At Hartford, Conn., John M. Bailey, Connecticut Democratic chairman, said he would "work to draft and elect" Eisenhower.

Sparkman said, too, there is some mention of House Democratic leader Sam Rayburn of Texas who will be permanent chairman of the convention.

But among Truman supporters, such statements were widely re-

Platform Writers Are Warned Against Giving In to South

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Philadelphia, July 8.—Spokesmen for more than 21 national Negro organizations warned the Democratic Resolutions Committee against a compromise with the South on the civil rights issue and labeled "unsatisfactory" the 1944 Democratic plank.

One of the witnesses predicted a Negro vote bolt to Henry Wallace unless the committee backs up President Truman's Commission on Civil Rights.

The platform drafting group, itself sectionally riven by the party-splintering issue, listened mostly in stony silence.

The committee's own clash on this convention's sharpest single disagreement will come behind closed doors over the weekend

Pepco Rate Increase to Boost Home Bills 10 Cents a Week

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

A $2,750,000 increase in electricity rates here was authorized yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission.

This will boost the average home owner's electric bill nearly 10 cents a week. Actually monthly rates remain to be worked out, but will apply to meter reading on or after July 21, payable on August billing, as forecast yesterday in The Washington Post.

The increase approved by PUC allows rates that will bring the Potomac Electric Power Co. $2,750,000 more in revenue, on the basis of sales of electricity in 1947. Pepco had requested a three million dollar boost in rates, on the same basis.

During hearings, witnesses for the District and the Bureau of Federal Supply estimated that increased power consumption at Pepco's proposed rates would actually bring the company about $3,250,000 in 1948. They made a counter-proposal to raise the company's rates by $2,633,000, based on estimated 1948 power consumption.

PUC, instead chose to allow the $2,750,000 increase on the basis of past performance, in a decision reached within 24 hours after hearings ended.

This amount said PUC, "is necessary to maintain the company in a sound financial position and to provide it with the heretofore determined fair and reasonable return of 5½ per cent on its investment devoted to the furnishing of electric service."

PUC thereby indicated its belief that with the new rates Pepco would earn a 5½ per cent return in the future. Left unanswered, for the present, was the question of any action to recoup income that Pepco seeks for the past portion of 1948 when its investment return was less than 5½ per cent.

This issue will come up again in the fall, when Pepco's finances are

15-Cent Hike Settles Rail Controversy

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The 18-month-old railroad wage dispute was settled last night. The roads, now operated by the Army, will be turned back to private management "within a day or so."

Announcement of the settlement was made at the White House after a full day of negotiations in the office of John R. Steelman, presidential assistant.

The agreement calls for the original terms offered by the railroads of 15½ cents an hour or $1.24 a day increase in pay. The increase will be retroactive to last November 1.

Several Unions Involved

The unions involved are Brotherhoods of Engineers, Switchmen and Enginemen, and Firemen.

Other terms in the settlement are retroactive to last January 1. They include 12 rules changes. The terms are the same as those recommended by a presidential fact-finding board.

The unions had demanded a $3-a-day increase in pay and 44 changes in working rules. The three brotherhoods represent 125,000 members.

The same terms had earlier been accepted by 18 other rail brotherhoods.

President Truman received word of the settlement in his office.

"I want to congratulate you gentlemen on this settlement," he told the negotiators and Steelman.

"It is great for our country.

"I wanted to see this thing settled as it should be done, by bargaining and not in any other way. You did this on your own hook, and I feel very good about it.

"I am satisfied that you would like to have this publicly known as a settlement on your own hook, and I am going to ask you gentlemen to go out of here and tell the press exactly what happened and what the agreement is."

The White House entered into the dispute last May 7, when President Truman ordered Steelman to try to negotiate a settlement. Three days later, on May 10, when negotiations failed, Mr. Truman seized the lines.

He turned them over to the Army to operate. When the unions threatened to strike anyway, a Federal court injunction forbidding a walkout was obtained.

Alvaney Johnston, president of the Engineers Brotherhood, and Daniel P. Loomis, chairman of the Western Railroads Committee, agreed that the final settlement was along the lines of the fact-finding board's recommendations.

The settlement was reached after 300 hours of conferences with Steelman. Steelman submitted the peace proposal to the negotiators at midnight Wednesday. It was finally agreed upon at 6 p. m. last night, and signed half an hour later.

Steelman told newsmen that the roads would be returned to private management "as soon as we can draw up the papers." Other sources said acceptance of the terms by the brotherhoods policy committees, which probably can be accomplished today, is the only obstacle to the Army relinquishing control.

Asked how long it would take, Steelman said:

"Oh, about a day or two."

17,250 Per Diem Workers In Services Get Raise Here

By Jerry Kluttz

Pay raises that range from 3 to 15 cents an hour were approved yesterday for upward of 17,250 per diem employes of the Navy, Army and Air Force in the Washington metropolitan area.

The wage boost will average 9 cents an hour, or about 6½ per cent on present salaries.

Only employes whose salaries are fixed by wage boards are covered by the joint order which was released by the Navy Department. It will not benefit classified employes whose flat $330 increase will go into effect on Sunday.

It's planned to make the per diem increase effective as of next Monday for most of the 12,750 Navy Department employes. The commanding officers of the various naval establishments have 30 days to put the new rates into effect. However, they have promised to do it as soon as the pay schedules can be changed. Army and Air Force also plan to make the higher wages effective as of early next week. They have 3900 per diems between them in this area.

The increases were recommended by a joint Navy, Army, and Air Force wage board. Wages for similar work paid by private industries in this area were considered in making the adjustments. The new rates are aimed at making salaries of the per diems uniform in the three military services and comparable with those paid by private industry.

These were among the increases ordered by Navy:

Electricians will get a 12-cent increase, from $1.45 to $1.57 cents an hour; machinists will get 9 cents, from $1.45 to $1.54 (intermediate rate); rigger also 9 cents, from $1.42 to $1.51; pattern tool and modelmakers will get 12 cents, from $1.60 to $1.72; instrument makers also will get 12 cents, from $1.51 to $1.63; painters will get 9 cents, from $1.39 to $1.48; pipefitters, also 9 cents, from $1.42 to $1.51; welder to get 6 cents, from $1.45 to $1.51; the big helper group also will get 6 cents, from $1.09 to $1.15, and laborer will get the smallest Navy raise, from $1.00 to $1.03.

The pay raises will cover per diem employes in these Naval and Marine establishments here and nearby:

Anacostia Air Station, Hydrographic Office, Marine barracks here and in Arlington, Naval Code and Signal Laboratory, Communications Annex, Dispensary, Gun Factory, Observatory, Ordnance Laboratory, Alexandria Ordnance Plant, Ordnance Stock Office, Anacostia Photographic Center, Radio stations at both Arlington, Va., and Cheltenham, Md., Anacostia Receiving Station, Arlington Rec-

On 'Technical' Grounds

Communists' Boycott of Tito Extends to Oil, River Service

London, July 8 (U.P.).—Romania has cut oil exports to Yugoslavia and Danube River boat service has been suspended in a steadily tightening Communist boycott of Marshal Tito, it was disclosed today.

A United Press Bucharest dispatch said that one of Romania's largest oil companies stopped shipments of oil to Yugoslavia last week.

Today, the dispatch said, the Soviet-Romanian Transport Co. suspended boat service on the Danube to Belgrade and other Yugoslav points.

The Bucharest dispatch said it was not known whether all Romanian oil companies had joined in the boycott. But as the entire industry has been nationalized, it was assumed shipments had been stopped completely.

Suspension of river service was for "technical reasons," it was announced in Bucharest. Technical reasons are frequently pleaded by the Russians in their attempt to harass their wartime allies in Germany.

No reason was given for suspension of oil shipments. Presumably they were stopped by government order.

The western powers are watching three events this month which may throw light on the split between Marshal Tito and the Communist Bureau of Information and may do a lot to clarify the situation:

1. The expected trial of Andrija Hebrang, former chairman of the Yugoslav State Planning Ministry, and Sreten Zujovitch, former Finance Minister. Their dismissal was a chief point of complaint by the Cominform.

2. The first postwar congress of the Yugoslav Communist Party, to start July 21.

3. The 10-country conference on Danube River navigation which is to start in Belgrade July 30. This will give the western powers a chance to look inside Yugoslavia.

Goldsborough Acts to Halt Coal Strike

Federal Justice T. Alan Goldsborough took steps yesterday to end the strike in the captive coal mines by injunction.

The jurist ordered John L. Lewis to appear before him at 10 a. m. Wednesday to show cause why an injunction to halt the strike should not be issued.

The court's order came upon request of Eugene A. Curry, acting regional director of the Baltimore region of the National Labor Relations Board. Curry was represented by Associate General Counsel David P. Findling of NLRB.

Findling's action came as a surprise. Most observers thought he would request a restraining order to halt the strike at once, pending a hearing.

Denham Files Complaint

The strike, in which about 52,000 employes of the captive mines are engaged, is now expected to last until after Goldborough's ruling following Wednesday's hearing.

Findling appeared before Goldsborough immediately after NLRB General Counsel Robert N. Denham filed a formal complaint on behalf of 19 captive mine owners—chiefly steel companies, before the NLRB. Such a complaint is required by the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The complaint contained two charges:

1. That Lewis and his United Mine Workers have refused to bargain with the captive mine owners unless the new contract contains a union shop provision.

Contend Eelection Is Required

The owners contend that such a provision is a violation of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, which requires a NLRB-supervised election of the miners before a union shop can be legal. Such an election cannot be held unless the UMW officials sign an anti-Communist oath and publish a financial statement. Lewis refuses to do either.

2. That by insisting on the union shop provision without an election, Lewis and the UMW are attempt-

Allies Order Drastic Power Cuts in Berlin

Berlin, July 8 (AP).—The three western occupation powers today ordered drastic electric power cuts in Russian-blockaded Berlin.

Col. Frank L. Howley, United States commandant, said in a statement to Berliners that the restriction will pass on to them inconveniences, economic privation and personal suffering which are direct results of the Soviet blockade.

Effective Friday Midnight

Effective at midnight Friday, the new cuts completely withhold power from certain small industries. They include reductions for occupation, municipal and medical authorities. Homes are limited to four hours of electricity per day. Transport is affected. Street lighting is cut 75 per cent.

The order envisaged the complete shutdown of the S-Bahn, the elevated railroad. A few hours after the announcement, however, the Soviet sector rail administration, which runs the elevated, said this service will be kept operating through power supplied from the Russian sector.

[The United Press quoted a report on the Northwest German Radio that Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet commander in Germany, left for Moscow Thursday.—Editor's Note.]

Colonel Howley said the Allied order was expected to reduce by one third the amount of coal used to generate power. At the same time it raised the specter of mass unemployment.

Work Projects Planned

To combat this, Allied authorities worked on a project to put 10,000 people to work immediately cleaning rubble and tearing down bomb ruins. They hoped they could put as many as 40,000 people to work on this in a couple of weeks.

Howley said the "greatest airlift in peacetime history" could not at present meet all the requirements of the people of Berlin.

This was due, he said, to the Commons Told Malay Revolt Is the Work of Gangsters

London, July 8 (AP).—Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech-Jones told the Commons today Britain is "mobilizing in all possible ways" to put down the jungle revolt in Malaya.

The terrorists outbreak, he declared, "is not a movement of the people of Malaya. This is the conduct of gangsters who are out to destroy the very foundation of human society and orderly life."

Official government sources have attributed the uprising, which cost 52 lives during May, to Communist forces.

Dispatches from Singapore said British forces killed two Communist leaders today in a gunfight with guerillas in central Johore State. One British officer was wounded.

Creech-Jones' statement came after the beginning of a British military campaign against terrorism was announced by Malcolm MacDonald, British commissioner for Southeast Asia.

Police in Malaya have arrested more than 1000 persons thus far under emergency regulations.

Creech-Jones did not directly mention the Communists in his speech, part of a Commons debate on colonial affairs. But he did mention Moscow in connection with the Malayan violence.

"I would say," he declared, "particularly in view of the vilification of Britain and willful lies in regard to the Malayan situation which have been put across from Moscow, that this is not the emergence of a nationalist movement which Britain is engaged in putting down."

"We do not take this challenge lightly," the colonial secretary said. "We are determined that this evil in Malaya shall be eradicated and every step possible will be taken to destroy the gangsters and discover their sources of supply."

Bernadotte's Appeal for New Truce Is Rejected

Cairo, July 8 (AP).—The Palestine war was on again tonight. The United Nations' mediator gave up hope of stopping it and tried instead to spare Jerusalem's holy places from destruction.

Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden, the mediator, announced at his Rhodes headquarters the "war is on again." The truce had only a few hours to run until it expired at 2 a.m. (EDT) Friday.

He said the Jews agreed to extend the truce 30 days; the Arabs replied "No."

The Arabs flashed orders to their soldiers to prepare for action when the truce ended. The secretary-general of the Arab League, Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, said the Arab nations are passing through a big test.

The Jews said in Tel Aviv that the Arabs already had started fighting, using planes, tanks and armored cars. They said the Egyptians took the offensive south of Tel Aviv.

Other top developments of a tense day were:

1. The United States Navy announced American military and

United Nations personnel are being evacuated from Palestine. The United States carrier Palau was in Haifa to take them out. Bernadotte asked both sides to hold up hostilities in Haifa and Beirut, Lebanon, until U. N. officials and guards could leave the war zone.

The Arab League announced at a news conference that it accepted under certain conditions Bernadotte's request for demilitarizing the Haifa refinery and pipeline terminus and Jerusalem's holy places. Bernadotte may talk to the Jews later but he does not expect agreement on Haifa. He does hope for agreement on Jerusalem.

3. Arab Legion artillery and armor moved up to Jerusalem from the Jordan River base, expecting to resume fighting Friday. A few shots were heard in Jerusalem.

Truman Receives Convention Badge He Wore in 1900

President Truman got a badge to the Democratic convention yesterday—one that he had at the convention in Kansas City in 1900 when William Jennings Bryan was nominated for his second race.

The badge was presented to Mr. Truman by Clinton P. Anderson, former Agriculture Secretary, on his way to the Philadelphia convention. Anderson got it from Thomas Price of Albuquerque, N. Mex., but who in 1900 was a resident of Godman, Mo.

It was a "special officer's" badge, admitting the wearer to the floor of the convention.

Price found it recently, Anderson said. In the box with it was a notation that it had been given to him by a boy named Harry Truman.

Mr. Truman remembered it, Anderson said. The President, then 16, was an usher at the convention.

Wallgren Confers With Truman Here

By The Associated Press

President Truman conferred for an hour and 15 minutes late yesterday with Gov. Mon C. Wallgren of Washington State, one of those mentioned as a possible Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Wallgren, long a friend of the President, said they did not discuss the vice presidential nomination.

He is not a candidate, Wallgren said, but "would be available" for the nomination.

Wallgren is going to Philadelphia today in advance of the Democratic National Convention.

He said that he felt sure that President Truman, as the Democratic presidential nominee, would carry Washington and a majority of the Western States.

During the day, Mr. Truman also had a talk with Clinton P. Anderson, former Secretary of Agriculture. Anderson said they discussed the general political situation.

Anderson, now Democratic nominee for the Senate from New Mexico, is on the way to Philadelphia to discuss a farm plank with the party platform drafters there.

He told reporters he expects Mr. Truman will be nominated for President "in the course of the first ballot" of the Democratic Convention.

Former Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio said after a call at the White House that he believes President Truman will be reelected in November.

Lausche, Governor of Ohio from 1944 to 1946, is the Democratic nominee for the office again this year.

He said he believes Mr. Truman will carry Ohio this fall.

Lausche did not disclose his conversation with the President other than to say the "political situation" was discussed briefly.

He said he would not actively participate in convention activities because he had no official standing. He said he had been "deliberately omitted by local leaders from the Ohio delegation" to the convention.

The White House said earlier that Mr. Truman is "giving consideration" to visiting the convention in event it does nominate him.

Truman Relies on McGrath

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross also said Mr. Truman is relying on Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island to be his personal representative at the convention. McGrath is chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Another White House caller was Dean Alfange, a prominent figure in the Liberal party of New York.

After talking with Mr. Truman, Alfange told reporters he was "hopeful" the President will call a special session of Congress to deal with housing, price control and displaced persons.

He would not say what Mr. Truman told him in response to the recommendations, but asserted:

"Speaking for myself, I don't think they are going to be thrown into the waste paper."

Alfred Schindler of St. Louis, former Undersecretary of Commerce, another White House caller, said he is "strong" for the nomination and election of President Truman.

Teachers Shelve Move to Censure Dewey

Cleveland, July 8 (AP).—National Education Association delegates today shelved a move to censure Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, then ran into new controversy over excluding a Henry A. Wallace spokesman from tonight's program.

With President Truman, the conventioners got along fine. He sent word to tonight's session pledging continued support for Federal aid to education.

The Dewey matter was referred to the NEA executive committee by a big majority vote. It overrode the desire of most of the New York State delegation for representative assembly action critical of the Republican presidential nominee.

The 2700 delegates from every State and Territory voted after NEA President Glenn E. Snow of St. George, Utah, read telegrams from Dewey and Columnist Drew Pearson.

Pearson reaffirmed his published report Dewey tried to get other Governors at last month's conference in Portsmouth, N. H., to break the teachers' lobby.

Dewey termed the reports "completely false," adding: "In fairness to all, suggest convention representatives contact Governor Hildreth of Maine, president of the 1948 Governors' Conference.

Gov. Horace A. Hildreth, who was chairman of the Governors' Conference, told the press in Augusta, Me., late today he wished to "emphatically deny" that Governor Dewey or any Governor at the meeting "made any motion to break up the so-called teachers' lobby."

Except for most of the New Yorkers," the NEA delegates welcomed the motion by Archer L. Burnham of Lincoln, Nebr., to pass the dispute to the executive committee.

A motion by Cyril Graze of Forest Hills, Long Island, High School, to invite a Wallace spokesman was killed by NEA delegates when they voted this noon to adjourn instead of considering the matter. Snow explained then that original plans to include a Wallace representative were abandoned because a fourth party (Socialist) also wanted an invitation and the time allotted was too brief.

Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) stressed Federal aid to education and Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah) hammered at the "negative" record of the Republican Congress in speeches tonight.

Morse said the "primary cause for the great disparity in educational opportunities in this country is the failure of the Congress to recognize the importance of passing a fair and adequate Federal aid to education bill."

Thomas, sidestepping the education issue, said "we are witnessing today the efforts of the Republican reactionaries and isolationists to discredit and nullify the far-sighted statemanship and programs in our own self-interest in international affairs, offered by a Democratic Administration."

Negroes Warn Democrats Not to Compromise With South

after formal hearings on the platform close tomorrow.

Liberal Democrats, led by Minneapolis' Mayor Hubert Humphrey, hold the voting-edge in the 18-man subcommittee and are balking at a "State's rights" trade with the South. If beaten in the subcommittee, the Southerners said they will carry their fight to the more evenly balanced full committee next week. One of the stakes is a threatened convention "walk" by some of the Southern delegates.

Democratic national chairman J. Howard McGrath had emissaries at work on several projected compromises but so far no "working paper" has yet reached the committee. Party spokesmen conceded Frankly that whatever is done will be first cleared with President Truman.

Walter White Appears

The civil rights row temporarily overshadowed the now slowing "draft-Eisenhower" drive and the only other big unanswered convention question: "Who will Mr. Truman choose as a running mate."

Walter White, of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, and Dr. Channing H. Tobias, who served on the President's Civil Rights Commission, were among the first witnesses for an unqualified civil rights plank.

They said they spoke for 21 national Negro groups representing a combined membership of 6084.

White called the 1944 Democratic plank, with its general declaration for congressional action to maintain racial and religious minority rights an "evasion of this basic issue of human rights" and "wholly unsatisfactory."

He asked the committee to "indorse without equivocation the entire program of the President's Committee on Civil Rights, and especially those provisions to suppress lynching and mob violence, to ban the poll tax as a voting requirement, to afford equality of job opportunity, and to abolish discrimination and segregation in the armed services, education and transportation."

Quoting the late Wendell Willkie, Dr. Tobias said "nowhere in the Constitution is there any provision for first- and second-class citizens." He hit particularly at segregation in the armed services, saying: "Our Negro Americans cannot be expected to look with indifference on defense regulations that single them out as no other Americans are singled out."

Truman's Stand Lauded

But it was Guy R. Brewer of the National Non-Partisan Committee for Passage of Civil Rights Legislation who suggested the bolt to Wallace.

Said Brewer: "I warn you that if the Democrats pussyfoot on civil rights as the Republicans did, our people will say 'a plague on both your parties' and flock in great numbers to the new third party."

A strong thread of praise for President Truman ran through all of the civil rights testimony, and one of the witnesses, Edgar G. Brown of the National Negro Council, said: "He's the greatest President on civil rights we ever had" and "I hope we keep him."

When the committee failed to question Brown, he called it a "moratorium of silence . . . Nobody is willing to come out in the open against this program." The committee continued silent.

It was evident, however, that the compromise plan to retain the wording of the 1944 plank, and mollify the South with added States rights language, was running into behind-the-scenes trouble.

Mayor Humphrey and Representative Celler (N. Y.) told reporters they wouldn't take less than a declaration for the "high spots" of the Truman civil rights program.

"I don't care if they (the Southerners) do walk out," said Celler.

CIO Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey led off the day's witnesses with a call for a plank demanding repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and adoption by the Democrats of a "Roosevelt platform."

As part of it, he said the convention should adopt the Truman civil rights policies, saying, "We must not seek to evade responsibility for this minimum program of civil rights by placing blame on a small minority of willful men."

Wears Repeal T-H Act Scarf

Carey wore a scarf bearing the slogan "Repeal the Taft-Hartley Act," over a workers' tableau.

Mrs. Frances G. Adams was scheduled to testify for home rule for the District of Columbia, but she was not in the room when her name was called. The Republican platform carries a home-rule plank and the Democrats were expected to vote a similar indorsement.

Among other witnesses:

Joseph A. Beirne of the Communications Workers of America, asked repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, elimination of child labor, Federal aid to education and adequate housing and anti-inflation programs.

Representative Clarence Lea (Calif.) asked the Democrats to be more specific than Republicans in calling for abolition of the present electoral college "incumbrance" and a system of direct voting that would make every vote count for a candidate.

Would Revise D-P Act

Morris Llewellyn of the Committee for the Nation's Health, urged the party to pledge itself to a national health program with national health insurance as it core.

Mrs. Erwin K. Guttman of the National Committee on Education and Social Action urged elimination of discriminatory features of the Displaced Persons Act. She called the bill passed by the last Congress the "nearest approximation to Hitler's Nuernberg laws that we have yet seen here."

Loyalty Order Target of D. C. Wallaceites

Abolition of the "loyalty order," an end to racial segregation, and home rule for the District are demanded in the platform of the Wallace "New Party" here, it was announced yesterday.

The platform will be presented at the New Party's convention on Saturday at Hotel 2400. New officers will be elected at the meeting and delegates chosen to represent the District at the Wallace party convention in Philadelphia July 23-25.

District planks, apart from the home-rule and segregation issues, include a demand for strengthening of the D. C. rent-control law, "cessation of police brutality," opposition to sales tax and advocacy of a District bonus to war veterans.

As far as national issues are concerned, the platform urges repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and reenactment of the National Labor Relations Act; repeal of compulsory military training; enactment of a Federal fair employment practices law; abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities; price control.

In the field of foreign policy, the platform demands an end to "the cold war against the Soviet Union"; world disarmament through United Nations; European aid through United Nations and support of the state of Israel.

South Carolina Court Moves in Negro Enrolling

Charleston, S. C., July 8 (U.P.)—United States District Judge J. Waties Waring today ordered South Carolina Democratic leaders to show cause July 16 why they should not be permanently restrained from preventing Negroes from enrolling in the party.

Waring also enjoined the defendants until then from "denying the plaintiff the right to enroll in the Democratic Party on the same terms as white Democrats, and from denying the plaintiff full and equal participation in the Democratic Party primary."

Kefauver Will Quit Race if Crump Proves Him Red

Memphis, Tenn., July 8 (U.P.)—Representative Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) counter-challenged political leader E. H. Crump today with an offer to quit the Senate race if Crump could prove him "a Red."

If he gets a clean bill from a "fair committee," he said, then Crump should buy newspaper advertising space to publicly apologize for his charges that the Congressman has Communist connections.

Kefauver intervened for Editor Edward J. Meeman of the Memphis Press-Scimitar, who has been backing his senatorial candidacy.

Crump, who supports Judge John A. Mitchell for the job, had proposed that either he or Meeman leave Memphis "never to return" when the "facts" were established as to Kefauver's alleged Communist ties. Meeman's paper has supported Kefauver.

Texas Candidate Shot to Death at Gate of Home

Weatherford, Tex., July 8 (U.P.)—A State legislative candidate died today of bullet wounds, declaring he was the victim of "left wingers" but unable to name his assailants.

The victim was Eugene Miller, 49, former State Senator and member of the Texas House of Representatives.

Three bullets from a .45-caliber pistol struck the bachelor-attorney as he advanced, hand extended in friendship, to greet three men who halted their automobile at the gate of his Parker County farm home last night.

Police Won't Halt 'Ike' Demonstration

Philadelphia, July 8 (AP).—Joseph Nachman, the Republican blouse manufacturer who heads a draft-Eisenhower movement here, had assurances from the police department today that it would not stop any demonstration for the general's choice at the Democratic National Convention.

Nachman talked to Assistant Police Superintendent Guy E. Parsons after a supporter of President Truman reported from Democratic headquarters that a police detail would be on hand to prevent a gallery "stampede."

"Philadelphia police will not be used to stop any demonstration for any candidate at Convention Hall," Parsons told Nachman. "We are furnishing the same number of police used at the Republican convention and they will be used in the same manner. That manner is merely to protect the people at the convention."

Philip Murray Declines To Address Convention

Pittsburgh, July 8 (U.P.).—Philip Murray, president of the CIO, today rejected an invitation to address the Democratic National Convention.

Murray sent a telegram to J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, saying that "unfortunately, urgent business of the CIO makes it impossible for me to accept and to attend the convention sessions. Please convey my regrets."

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Tsainmen (Ind.) is the only labor leader invited to address the convention who has accepted. AFL President William Green and Teamsters' President Daniel J. Tobin have turned down bids.

Some Kentucky Leaders Start Barkley Boom

Louisville, Ky., July 8 (AP).—Some Kentucky Democratic leaders voiced support today for Senator Alben W. Barkley for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Two delegates to the Democratic National Convention opening Monday reported they would go to Philadelphia to work for Barkley. They were John Y. Brown, a candidate for the praty's nomination for United States Senator, and a former Congressman, and Ray H. Kirchdorfer, United States commissioner here.

Edward H. Weyler, secretary of the Kentucky Labor League for Political Education, said he had rejected an Americans for Democratic Action invitation to support Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court for the Presidency. Weyler said he urged ADA to get behind Barkley.

Arvey, O'Dwyer Agree To Issue Statement

Chicago, July 8 (U.P.).—Jacob M. Arvey, Chicago Democratic leader, returned tonight from a conference with New York Mayor William O'Dwyer and said he would issue a statement tomorrow on the position of the two in the draft Eisenhower movement.

Both Arvey and O'Dwyer were supporters of the drive to make Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower the Democratic presidential nominee.

"We see eye to eye," Arvey said tonight.

'Eisenhower' Missing, Atlantic City Reports

Atlantic City, N. J., July 8 (AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—in full uniform and in wax—was missing today from his accustomed niche in the Steel Pier Museum.

The life-size wax figure disappeared during Tuesday morning's fire on the pier. Some youngsters had been seen in the area with stencilled "We Want Ike" signs on their polo shirts.

Police wondered if the "general" would show up at Philadelphia Monday.

The Gallup Poll

Republican Platform Read by 7%

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., July 8.—Although the Republican platform adopted at Philadelphia won a good deal of favorable comment in the press, comparatively few voters have thus far read any part of it or can remember what is in it.

Throughout the voting population as a whole 7 per cent claim to have read all of it and 21 per cent say they have read some part of it, making a total of 28 per cent—or less than one voter in three. Among Republicans the ratio who have read all or part of the GOP platform is a little higher—35 per cent.

But important parts of the platform apparently did not leave much impression even on those who took the trouble to inspect the document. For example, when asked what it says about the part which the United States should play in world affairs, nearly half of the people who claimed to have looked at the platform could not remember.

Even fewer were aware of what the platform said about two other important issues — housing and prices.

It is possible, of course, that the idea in the GOP platform will be given wider circulation and will penetrate deeper into the minds of voters during the campaign months ahead. But so far the platform has not made as much progress, in terms of penetration, as did the 1944 GOP platform at a comparable point in the campaign. Three weeks after the 1944 Republican convention, the Institute found that 36 per cent of all voters had read some or all of the platform. In 1940 the readership was 26 per cent.

From this record it would appear that the majority of American voters do not put much stock in presidential party platforms, being suspicious perhaps that they contain much vague double talk promising all things to all groups.

One supposed function of platforms, besides keeping regular party stalwarts happy, is to win over independent voters. But today's survey finds that among people who classify themselves as independents politically, seven out of every ten said they had not read any part of the Republican platform.

A NATIONAL cross-section of voters was asked a series of questions about the Republican platform, as follows:

Did you happen to read the Republican Party platform drawn up at their convention in Philadelphia?

The vote:

	All Voters	GOP Voters
Yes, all of it	7%	12%
Yes, only part of it	21	23
No, not any of it	72	65

The 28 per cent who voted "yes" were then asked a series of questions about various parts of the platform, as follows:

Will you tell me what the platform says about the part the United States should play in world affairs?

Don't know	12%
Should take part, no more isolationism	7
Favor aid to Europe	5
Peace, unity, understanding U. S. be firm, keep Russia in place	3
Miscellaneous	1
	29%*

(*Totals more than 28% because some named more than one item.)

The specific items named by voters in the above table are essentially correct as a description of what was in the platform, which pledged the Republican Party to a continued participation in world affairs and in the United Nations.

The next question dealt with housing.

Will you tell me what it says about housing?

Don't know	15%
Get more houses	7
Encourage better homes at less cost	1
Private financing best	1
Federal aid for slum clearance	1
Miscellaneous	3
	28%

The GOP plank on housing reads as follows in its entirety: "Housing can best be supplied and financed by private enterprise; but Government can and should encourage the building of better homes at less cost. We recommend Federal aid to the States for local slum clearance and low-rental housing programs only where there is a need that cannot be met either by private enterprise or by the States and localities."

The final question was:

Will you tell me what it says about prices?

Don't know	14%
Don't say anything about prices	2
Says prices are too high	10
Miscellaneous	3

(*Totals more than 28% because some named more than one item.)

Actually the platform plank dealing with prices, which it described as "cruelly high," pledged action against the causes of inflation on a number of specific counts, including reduction of waste in Government spending, stimulation of production "as the surest way to lower prices," a sound currency, reduction of the public debt, fiscal policies to provide increased incentive for production, and thrift, and general tightening up and improved efficiency in the operations of Government.

Town's Only Doctor Quits in Protest of Race Discrimination

Palmer, Tenn., July 8 (AP).—The only doctor in this East Tennessee coal-mining community has closed his clinic in protest against "racial discrimination" that recently denied Negroes the right to work on his new home.

About 3000 persons, mostly miners and their families, are without medical protection, county and mine officials said today.

Dr. Oscar H. Clements, 38, a practicing physician here for the last 14 years, has moved his family from Palmer and stored his clinical equipment at Chattanooga.

The doctor confirmed his construction foreman's statement that five men came to the house site after the foundation had been finished and warned four Negro bricklayers from Chattanooga not to begin work.

The foreman, Joe Creighton, said one of the men told the Negroes "we won't even allow Negroes to come into Grundy County, much less work here."

Mine officials and citizens said the Negroes were forbidden to work because of "racial discrimination," and not because of any union trouble.

28 Boys and Girls Leave as Residents Call for Eviction

Edgefield, S. C., July 8 (AP).—A group of 28 Northern white boys and girls left the Bettis Negro Academy today after indignant white residents of the community called on the sheriffs of two counties to evict them.

The 22 girls and 6 boys came to the Negro junior college June 29 from the American Friends Service Committee of Philadelphia to build a new dormitory wing.

Sheriff A. J. White of Edgefield County said he learned Saturday that the white youths had been staying at the academy.

White said he and Sheriff Price Fallaw of Aiken County made four visits to the school and urged the group to leave because they were "in the wrong place and it would be best to get out."

He said he did not try to invoke a South Carolina law that forbids mixing of the races at meals or in living quarters.

Bettis Academy, a private school, lies partly in Edgefield and partly in Aiken County.

Anti-Truman Democrats Get Overtures From McGrath

garded as grasping at straws in an attempt to keep a sinking Eisenhower campaign afloat.

On Saturday, Democratic Party leaders who want to nudge Mr. Truman out of the presidential picture are planning a caucus.

The meeting was called by James Roosevelt, son of the late President, chairman of the California Democratic organization and a leader of those who wanted to draft Eisenhower.

McGrath told a news conference so far as he knows the caucus will be held. But he said, "I'll see Roosevelt as soon as he arrives in the city."

And with a blanket reference to "all of these men" who have set up a clamor against Mr. Truman, McGrath said he would invite them to confer with him also.

Hannegan Urges Renomination

In St. Louis, Robert E. Hannegan got out a statemnet:

"Harry Truman has been a good President for all of the people of America. He should be renominated and reelected."

The statement apparently was designed to counter rumors that the former Postmaster General and Democratic national chairman felt the President should get out of the race.

Even a Republican Senator, William Langer of North Dakota, told an interviewer at Spokane, Wash., that Mr. Truman is a "friend of the common people." Langer had no comment on GOP Presidential Nominee Thomas E. Dewey but said Vice Presidential Candidate Earl Warren is a "top-notch leader."

Up in New York James A. Farley, another former Postmaster General and national Democratic chairman, said he had "talked politics" briefly with Eisenhower.

That was in advance of a luncheon for Eisenhower as honorary national chairman of the American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children.

Farley said he thought those promoting the general as a presidential candidate figured eventually on swinging Eisenhower support behind U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

James Kroll, director of the CIO Political Action Committee, accepted a bid to the Saturday night caucus of anti-Truman Democrats.

Kroll said in a wire to Roosevelt that the CIO-PAC isn't committed to any candidate but favors an "open convention."

Laney Boosted for 2d Spot

At Houston, Tex., two Texas delegates to the convention said a movement is growing rapidly for the nomination of Eisenhower for President and Governor Ben Laney of Arkansas for Vice President.

Robert W. Milner, jr., and J. Brown Cutbirth, Houston oil operator, said the Eisenhower-Laney ticket proposal has met with enthusiastic response throughout Texas and the South.

At St. Augustine, Fla., Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal was boomed for President by Frank D. Upchurch, chairman of the Florida delegation.

Upchurch said "it is extremely doubtful that President Truman would carry a single State if he is nominated." He opposed drafting Eisenhower "until his political views become better known."

Upchurch said he liked for Vice President, Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi, Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia or Senator Walter George of Georgia.

Senator Claude Pepper of Florida came to town still plugging Eisenhower.

The Senator told reporters that he, himself, will nominate the general if Florida gets a chance. But he said he fully expects Alabama—first state on the list—to nominate Eisenhower or yield to some other State for that purpose.

Then, he said, the general will get "terrific support."

Asked about a running mate for Eisenhower, the Senator mentioned Senator Francis Myers of Pennsylvania and Roosevelt.

Truman backers also were sizing up vice presidential possibilities to run with the Chief Executive. The talk revolved around numerous men.

Among them Barkley, Rayburn, Governor Lane and Senators Tidings of Maryland, Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York, Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, Senator Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and McGrath.

O'Mahoney has a headquarters in operation here.

McGrath said today he is not a candidate for the vice presidency, is not available, and cannot be drafted. One of his callers this afternoon was Lucas, who also has said he doesn't want second spot on the ticket.

Reciprocity Meeting

The board of directors of the Reciprocity Club's Washington section will meet Monday at 7 p.m. at the Rock Creek Parish Rectory, Webster st., and Rock Creek Church rd. nw. A buffet supper will be served.

Tuck Waits Out Boom for Ike

Richmond, Va., July 8 (AP).—Governor Tuck today adopted a wait-and-see attitude on what would be the outcome of the stop-Truman Democratic caucus at Philadelphia Saturday night.

At his office after a five-day stay at Virginia Beach, Tuck said he did not care to say whether the Eisenhower boom had become a bust in view of the general's statement saying he could not run.

From another Democratic source however, came the prediction that Southern Democrats probably would settle on Senator Barkley (D., Ky.) as their candidate for the nomination. This source said he felt that President Truman was going to get the nomination and the Southern vote for Barkley would be more in the light of a protest against Truman.

The Governor and other Virginia organization leaders did not even care to mention whether General Eisenhower's name would go before the convention. Last Friday's convention instructed the delegates to Philadelphina to work for Eisenhower and Virginia's National Democratic Committeeman G. Fred Switzer said later that the State's 26 votes would be cast for the general.

There was considerable doubt among Virginia Democratic politicians whether harmony could long prevail among those who will attend Saturday's stop-Truman caucus.

Marshall Plan Pact Ratified by Turkey

Ankara, Turkey, July 8 (U.P.).—The Turkish Parliament today unanimously ratified the Marshall Plan agreement signed here last week under which the United States grants this country 10 million dollars and aid in obtaining industrial and agricultural machinery for a five-year modernization program.

Filmland Dreams Are Double Rich

By Richard L. Coe

THE HOLLYWOOD FETISH that anything so literary as a play must be made louder and broader for the movie masses, keeps the Warner's "Dream Girl" from being the blithe amusement it might have been.

Betty Hutton is now Elmer Rice's daydreaming heroine, and while her fans will no doubt feel that Betty is something terrific and that her movie is "cute," the fact remains that "Dream Girl" should have been a good picture.

Hollywood's attitude toward a Broadway success is invariably childlike. It gobbles up anything that is considered good enough for Broadway, no matter how bad it actually may be. The film colony will pay enormous—outrageous—sums for a Broadway success, at the same time flaunting a thoroughly patronizing attitude toward the stage.

Once the script is in its grasp, "improvements" are likely to set in. In the case of "Dream Girl," Hollywood's affection for riches outpours. No longer is the Rice heroine the daughter of an average suburban family. Her folks are Big Rich and live in that world of handsome halls and luxury surroundings which may be the simple life to Southern California but it's another world to most of us.

Anonymous Adaptation

Consequently, Betty's dream life is hardly any more dreamy than the one she actually enjoys. The newspaperman who ultimately captures Betty's daydreams and spins them into reality is made to appear as an oaf among the elegant. Why the Allerton family has been brought to this dizzy stratum of life isn't clear and Paramount evidently is reluctant to assign the blame to any writer. For the first time in a long while, the screen credits have nothing whatever to say about "Screen play by" or "Adaptation by" or "Additional dialogue by." You are told simply that it's "From the play by Elmer Rice."

Then, too, some of the events in our daydreamer's real life are either as broad or improbable as those in her dreams. One of the funniest scenes in the picture finds a heavily padded opera singer, amusingly played by Zamah Cunningham, giving Betty a lesson; it has the dream quality, but is part of the reality. Betty's imagined affair with her brother-in-law (Patric Knowles) becomes the familiar unhand-me-beast stuff of the usual movie triangle.

Don't ask why all this trumped-up finery has been added to a script that should have been a simple job to transcribe to celluloid. It's just the way it always seems to be. Here was the easy outline of an average girl and her daydreaming spurts into elegance; there was no need to fear comparisons with Ginger Rogers' amusing "Tom, Dick and Harry" of some years back, for the dreams in that one were cubistic in their handling.

Miss Hutton's antics are sometimes fun, but she seems naturally stumped as to when she's really dreaming and when she's living in the equally dreamlike world of Hollywood's idea of Big Rich. Macdonald Carey is the newspaperman, and I suppose he's all right. Peggy Wood is amusing as the mother and Miss Cunningham is funny in her grotesque spoof.

"HARVEY" is in his last three performances, and if you've by any misfortune missed him, you should make a strong effort to bestir your bones . . . Tonight, Saturday afternoon and evening are your last shots for this one, and a record-breaking run it's been in more ways than one . . . There is something strongly ironic that it has taken the last few weeks of the National's current life as a legitimate theater to prove that even an eight-week run isn't impossible in the National Capital . . . True, it's taken a crack comedy to prove we'll go all-out for a good play down here, but no so long ago a two-week run at the National was considered Big Stuff . . . Now we pull off a two-month run and the prospect is we'll have nothing next season . . . Life's crazy, wot? . . . Anyway, don't miss Frank Fay and his brilliant performance as Elwood P. Dowd.

TODAY: Lenore Lonergan and the "Hand in Hand" cast take part of the show to Walter Reed Hospital from Olney . . . The Pix gets a double bill of first-runs: "A Scandal in Paris" and "Who Killed Doc. Robbin?"

Woman Named To Immigration Appeals Board

Appointment of Miss Louisa Wilson, a native of Gastonia, N. C., as a member of the Board of Immigration Appeals was announced yesterday by Attorney General Tom Clark.

Miss Wilson, who has been with the Department of Justice seven years, has for two years been executive assistant to the board, a quasi-judicial body in the office of the Attorney General. It hears appeals in alien exclusion and deportation cases and in cases of penalties imposed against carriers for violation of immigration laws.

Miss Wilson, whose home is in Charlotte, N. C., is the daughter of the late George W. Wilson, a former assistant general counsel at the department. She was admitted to the District bar in 1939 and to practice before the Supreme Court this year.

Final Plan Being Made for Hospital On Nevius Tract

Final arrangements for construction of the 750-bed veterans' hospital on the Nevius tract, Arlington County, are under way, it was learned yesterday.

Col. Donald S. Burns, chief of the engineering division, military construction, Corps of Engineers, said that on the basis of a letter received from the Veterans Administration he was issuing instructions for the District area engineers to proceed with architectural arrangements for the hospital.

Louis Justement, Washington architect who is working with York & Sawyer of New York on the plans, said it would take six months or more to complete the final plans.

The hospital was authorized by Congress in the final hours before adjournment and will cost an estimated $15,000,000. The site is on Lee blvd. and Ridge rd. near Arlington National Cemetery.

Big 3 Ready to Talk On Berlin Blockade

London, July 8 (U.P.).—The United States, Great Britain and France have offered to reopen talks with the Russians on all questions regarding Berlin if they lift the blockade of that city at once, well-informed sources said tonight.

The official texts of the three Allied notes differ in language but really are almost identical.

Original plans were to release them for publication in tomorrow morning's papers.

Plan Canceled

For some reason this plan was canceled this morning and the publication date is now definite.

[The Associated Press said in a London dispatch that a 24-hour delay had been agreed upon.—Editor's note.]

However, leaks started soon after the notes were delivered to the Russian ambassadors in the three Allied capitals.

The French permitted an "authorized version" of their text to be circulated today in Paris. American and British sources here, though still maintaining secrecy about the actual working of their notes, then admitted that all three were almost identical and that they could not deny that the French version was correct.

Shipped by Sea

As regards the cutting off of German reparations to Russia, the western allies had continued to ship them by sea even after Russia cut railroad, highway and barge traffic.

Now, however, the Allies have decided to suspend all reparations shipments by sea until the Russians permit resumption of land transport.

Further, the foreign office spokesman said, the western powers have offered to allocate Russia a surplus of German peacetime industrial plants for the first time since May, 1946, if the Berlin restrictions are lifted. Such allocations already have been made to other powers.

The United States forced suspension of allocations to Russia in 1946 on the ground that Germany must be unified.

France Plans to Stay In German Capital

Paris, July 8 (U.P.).—Reliable sources said tonight the recent French note to Moscow demanded that Russia restore traffic into Berlin immediately and warned that France does not intend to pull out of the German capital.

The foreign office announced that the American-British-French notes to Moscow would not be published today as originally planned. A foreign ministry source said, however, that France reminded Russia that western powers were invited July 7 1945 to take care of western Berlin. The French note reportedly said France entered Berlin as a result of a four-power agreement, and that she would be willing to accept any four-power settlement of the entire Berlin problem.

German Rule Plan Drafted

Coblenz, Germany, July 8 (AP).—German political leaders were reliably reported today to have drafted a plan for a western German government that avoids the appearance of creating a separate state.

The leaders met here to draft counter-proposals to the suggestions of the American, British and French military governments for formation of a federal type of west German government.

A conference of 11 state presidents discussed a draft of German counter-proposals prepared by a committee representing all major parties. The draft was reported to include these recommendations:

1. Any new German political structure in the west should avoid both the name and significance of a government. West German leaders fear the effect of such a step on the population in Russian-occupied Germany.
2. Western Germany should get an "administrative statute" instead of a constitution.
3. Germany should get more foreign representation, including "economic consulates" abroad.
4. The problem of adjusting internal State boundaries should be postponed.

Leaders of all major political parties have been outspoken in opposition to the proposals of the Allied military governors, which were based on recommendations of the recent London conference of the western powers.

U. S. Urges 'Tough' Palestine Action

Lake Success, July 8 (NYHT).—The United States told the United Nations Security Council today that if the Arabs have rejected extension of Palestine's truce, the Council must get tough and declare the Holy Land situation a formal threat to peace, subject to economic sanctions and possible U. N. military intervention against the Arabs.

Syria, speaking for the Arab states, virtually challenged the United States and other big powers to try strong action in the Middle East.

"The Arabs," said Syria's Faris el Khoruri, "are ready to be killed by your atomic bomb even. If you want to destroy all principles of humanity and justice, go ahead and act."

Israel Urges Action

The third principal speech of today's emergency meeting came from the provisional government of the Jewish state of Israel, which asked for strong Security Council action against alleged Arab aggression and then summarized with the following words its determination to exist:

"If the Arab states want peace with Israel, they can have it. If they want war, they can have that too. But whatever they have, they can have it only with the state of Israel."

On the basis of the information before it today, the Security Council appeared to be convinced that efforts to prolong the four-week Palestine truce past Friday's deadline, have utterly failed and that the Holy Land will erupt with new violence.

Council Still Hopes

But, also, on the basis of the official and far from complete information before it, the Council found it possible to entertain one last wishful hope that truce extension might still be possible.

Two documents were before the Security Council today. One was from the State of Israel and it registered Jewish agreement to prolongation of the truce for 30 days provided substantially the same truce conditions should prevail as have prevailed for the last four weeks.

The other was from Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. mediator. It said that the Arabs would not agree to truce extension, and then it spoke of "apparent rejection" by the Arabs.

It bemoaned that Palestine hostilities "are to be resumed" but it also said Bernadotte was not abandoning his peace efforts because of "this temporary setback."

Egyptian Attack Charged

The cause of today's session was a cable from Moshe Shertok, Israel foreign minister, who asked what the Security Council would decide to do about an alleged truce-busting Egyptian attack today on Jewish positions in southern Palestine.

When the meeting convened, the council's July president, Ukraine Delegate Dmitri Z. Manuilsky, read the Shertok message and also the Bernadotte report.

Palestine War Breaks Out Anew

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

FIGHTING REPORTED — In the waning house of the Palestine truce, Egyptian forces yesterday opened an attack on the Jewish settlement of Beer Tuvia (A). Shifts Made In Two High Envoy Posts

By The Associated Press

President Truman ordered shifts yesterday in two high diplomatic posts, but he still had some important administrative appointments to decide upon.

Griffis

He named Stanton Griffis, who has been Ambassador to Poland, as the new Ambassador to Egypt.

Waldemar J. Gallman of New York, a career diplomat, was appointed to succeed Griffis at Warsaw.

Both appointments are subject to Senate confirmation.

Mr. Truman still must choose a Secretary of Labor to succeed the late Lewis Schwellenbach.

Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) told reporters he has suggested John F. Shelley, head of the San Francisco AFL council.

Charles G. Ross, Mr. Truman's press secretary, acknowledged that Shelley's name had been suggested, but he said the position has not been offered to anyone.

William Green, AFL president, has recommended former Governor Keen Johnson of Kentucky. Other men talked of as possible nominees for the labor post include Ellis Arnall, former governor of Georgia, and Robert Ramspeck, former Georgia congressman.

Shelley is chairman of the California delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

One of Shelley's associates, Patrick McDonough, has demanded that James Roosevelt, who is opposing the nomination of Mr. Truman, resign as a convention delegate as well as California Democratic chairman.

Palestine War 'On' Again After Arabs Reject Truce

tions with Britain will depend on Britain's loyalty to treaties with the Arabs during this crisis.

The Jewish high command said the Egyptians were hitting at Beer Tuvia, 23 miles south of the Israeli capital.

The attack apparently was aimed at Isdud, where an Egyptian force was trapped temporarily before the truce began.

In his statement at Rhodes, Count Bernadotte said he did not consider his mission as mediator at end because of the "temporary setback."

Bernadotte Disappointed

"I am disappointed that the hostilities are to be resumed in Palestine," Bernadotte said. "I will now concentrate my efforts during the next few days on obtaining a cease-fire in Jerusalem and its ultimate demilitarization. I will do my utmost to save Jerusalem and the holy places from further destruction."

He said he would continue to work as mediator between the Arabs and Jews "with a view to attaining at the earliest possible day a peaceful adjustment of the future situation in Palestine."

Bernadotte said the Jews agreed to prolong the truce, but flatly rejected his peace suggestions as a basis for a talk on the final settlement of Palestine.

He declared the Arabs made some counter proposals concerning permanent peace, but rejected a truce extension.

Doesn't Expect Lucky Break

He said he saw no hope that "something would come up to prevent a resumption of fighting before the truce officially ends."

In the peace terms, issued Sunday by the U. N., Bernadotte suggested Jews and Arabs in the territory of the old mandate of Palestine form a union, with a council directing its affairs. This union would be bound by economic ties, but each state would direct its own foreign policy. He suggested immigration be based on the capacity of the state to absorb newcomers.

He also suggested that Jerusalem be put in Arab territory, with autonomy for Jews living in the Holy City.

Bernadotte said both Jews and Arabs were asked to grant at least a three-day extension of the truce to permit evacuation of U. N. personnel and equipment.

3-Day Extension Rejected

"The Jewish reply accepted this proposal," he said. "The Arab reply makes no specific reference to it and it is apparently rejected."

The United States, France and Belgium each have 21 military observers in the Holy Land, supervised by a small staff of Swedish officers. The U. N. recently sent about 50 armed guards to aid the truce workers, along with communications and staff personnel.

U. N. secretariat members and the 50 guards arranged to leave by air for Beirut during the day.

U. N. employes headed by John Reedman, representative of Secretary-General Trygve Lie, were ordered to remain in Tel Aviv.

Gallegos Lays Wreath On Roosevelt Grave

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—President Romulo Gallegos of Venezuela, accompanied by a party of about 50 persons, today laid a wreath on the grave of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Afterwards President Gallegos and his party inspected the Roosevelt home and memorial library.

The wreath the President placed on the grave in the name of his country was composed of orchids flown especially for the occasion from Venezuela and American lilies and carnations.

Paris Faces Gaining Civil Service Strike

As Strike Looms

Italian Red Labor Heads Will Parley

Rome, July 8 (AP).—Italy's Communist labor bosses agreed today to sit down with big business and discuss terms to end the threat of a general strike.

The Communist-dominated executive committee of the powerful Labor Confederation (CGIL) accepted a peace bid by the Industrialists' Confederation. They will discuss union demands for a general round of pay boosts.

The latest in the recent series of brief layoffs occurred today when 700,000 metal industry workers quit for a half-hour. Friday, workers in glass, pottery and saccharine are scheduled to stage similar strikes.

The object of these strikes is to win wages raises for skilled workers proportionate to those already gained by unskilled. If the strikes fail in their purpose, CGIL officials said, Italy's organized labor will be called out next week on a nation-wide strike.

A few incidents involving strikers were reported during the day. In Milan, police ejected 30 strikers from a food factory, where they had sat down for 18 hours.

Paris, July 8 (NYHT).—The French government tonight again faced the recurring price and salary problem. With 60,000 of its civil servants under the Ministry of Finance already on strike, the employes of other ministries were threatening to follow their example.

The Finance Ministry strike, which was general in Paris and spread rapidly to the provincial cities, brought the country's financial and fiscal administration almost to a standstill. Tonight Premier Robert Schuman received several union delegations in an effort to bring the movement to an end.

The strike order was given by the non-Communist Force Ouvriere trade union federation, which until now had been counseling patience upon its member unions to give the government a chance to put its proclaimed lower-price policy into effect.

The Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor (CGT), which for months has been proclaiming that the government is unable to exercise any effective control on mounting prices, has abstained from formal strike calls. But today, it called upon the civil servants belonging to its member unions to manifest their solidarity with the Force Ouvriere strikers in "every practical way." The result was that about 15,000 other civil servants from other ministries quit work today.

21 Perish as Plane Crashes in Indo-China

Saigon, Indo-China, July 8 (AP).—All 21 persons aboard an Air France Dakota plane were reported today to have perished when the plane crashed yesterday near Djiring, Indo-China. Wings of the plane were severed but apparently it did not burn.

Chinese Claim Great Victory

Nanking, China, July 8 (U.P.).—Government troops in eastern Honan Province today were pursuing Communists "retreating in disorder" toward southwestern Shantung and south Honan, government reports claimed.

The official Central Daily News placed Communist casualties in the eight-day battle on the Honan plains at 100,000. Military spokesman Chang Liu-shu said the triumph was the greatest Nationalist success since the civil war resumed after VJ-Day.

Chang said the battle would show far-reaching effects on the Communist campaign south of the Yellow River.

Government reports conflicted with Communist radio broadcasts, which claimed the "annihilation" of several Nationalist regiments.

Folsom Cleared In Paternity Suit

Cullman, Ala., July 8 (U.P.).—Circuit Judge James H. Crow, jr., today dismissed the paternity suit to declare Gov. James E. Folsom the father of a divorcee's 2-year-old son.

The ruling apparently ended the three-month-old suits against the Governor. Last week the judge dismissed a companion suit that sought to establish the Governor as the common-law husband of Mrs. Christine Putman Johnston, 30.

Mrs. Johnston had petitioned the court to drop both suits.

EJECTED FROM HEARING—Jack Paley (center), voicing protest, is ushered from a House Subcommittee hearing in New York City into Communist activity in labor unions. ing to cause the mine owners to discriminate against their employes by insisting that they be union members.

Capitve mines are mines owned by steel companies that use all their output. The companies involved and Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., Bethlehem Collieries Corp., Minds Coal Mining Corp., Republic Steel Corp., Standard Fire Creek Coal Co., Buckeye Coal Co., Youngstown Mines Corp., Olga Coal Co., Armco Steel Corp., Wheeling Steel Corp., Consumers Mining Co., Inland Steel Co., Weirton Coal Co., Crucible Steel Co. of America, H. C. Frick Coke Co., United States Coal & Coke Co., Geneva Steel Co. and Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railway Co.

These companies agreed to all the terms of the contract signed by Lewis and the commercial mines June 25, except the union shop clause. If the steel companies' contention that that clause is illegal, the ruling may upset the recently signed commercial contract. In that contract the men got a pay increase of $1 a day. The contribution to the miners' welfare and retirement fund was increased from 10 to 20 cent a ton royalty on all coal produced. The new royalty is expected to bring 100 million dollars a year.

In his rule to show cause yesterday, Goldsborough gave Lewis until Tuesday to file an answer to Denham's complaint.

In his petition to Goldsborough, Findling declared that a "continued cessation of the production of coal" in the captive mines would result in "substantial and irreparable damage" to the coal companies.

He added that it would force a "serious curtailment of operations of the mills of the vast majority of the iron and steel companies of the country.

"It will seriously curtail the flow of iron and steel from said mills to the various processors and manufacturers dependent upon said steel for the manufacture of goods and materials essential to the welfare of the Nation," he said, "and will disrupt or impede the free flow of commerce among the several States and with foreign countries, thereby causing immediate, substantial and irreparable injury to the Nation."

A hearing on Denham's formal complaint to the NLRB will be held in Washington July 22 by a trial examiner still to be named. If Goldsborough should issue an injunction halting the strike it would be effective until after the ULRB hearing.

The captive mine strike has been in effect since last Tuesday. Members of the UMW ended their 10-day annual vacation with pay on that date. All but about 25,000 of the 350,000 miners employed in the commercial mines are back in the pits, it was said yesterday. Some of the 25,000 are believed to be staying out in sympathy with the captive mine workers.

Lewis' appearance before Goldsborough will be his fourth in the last year before that jurist. Twice Goldsborough punished Lewis for contempt of court, levying a total of $2,130,000 in fines against UMW for failing to heed the court's injunctions halting walkouts.

Labor Chiefs Shout Defiance Over Issue on Communism

New York, July 8 (AP).—Labor union officers shouted defiance, sat grimly silent or tried to talk wages and working conditions today when a House subcommittee asked whether they are Communists.

Lewis

It was the second day of hearings by a subcommittee of the House Education and Labor Committee, held to probe what it termed Communist influence in New York locals of the CIO department store union.

Representative Fred A. Hartley, jr. (R., N.J.), member of the subcommittee, had expressed the hope that today's sessions would show more "decorum" than yesterday's, when three union leaders loudly refused to answer the Communist question.

But as witnesses paraded to the stand today each refused to answer the questions of the committee chairman, Representative Charles J. Kersten (R., Wisc.).

When the committee insisted on "yes" or "no," most of them tried to talk about conditions in the department stores, or what they thought was the real purpose of the hearings.

Several were dismissed from the stand in the middle of their speechmaking. Two had to be forcibly put out of the hearing room, one shouting, "Don't push me around; take your hands off me!" to the United States marshal.

Most voluble was William Michelson, business manager of Local 2 of the CIO Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union.

After Kersten asked if he were a Communist, Michelson started to talk about his Army record. He said his service in the Army's indoctrination program had been the subject of a "contemptible, unwarranted reference" by a Gimbel Brothers official at a hearing in Washington last month. Michelson said the Army had given him "most laudatory" ratings.

When Kersten returned to the Communist question, Michelson started to say: "Mr. Kersten, when I go in to vote . . ."

Kersten demanded a yes or no answer. Michelson's answer was: "I consider inviolate my rights to exercise my judgment at the moment I enter the polling booth and the screen is closed behind me."

When Michelson was questioned concerning membership in an organization which the Government has labled "subversive," he launched into a demand that the committee investigate "wages and working conditions" and "the record of democracy in our union."

Nicholas Carnes, president of Local 1250, almost screamed his answer to the question "Are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist Party?"

"This confirms my opinion," he shouted, "that these hearings are intended to do the work the employers have not been able to do—to frame union leaders and send them to jail. I stand on my rights under the first and fifth amendments to the Constitution."

Warned Several Times

Committee members warned him several times that he was there "not to make speeches but to answer the questions."

But Carnes countered by describing his first job in 1933 at Orbach's department store, "where the salary was $8.95 a week and we worked 75 hours weekly."

One union official whom marshals had to usher out, Samuel Lewis, business manager of Local 3, earlier had been asked about three Bloomingdale employes expelled by the union. The three had described themselves as anti-Communists and later were reinstated by the parent union.

Rail Rate Inquiry 'Block' Investigated

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

A congressional subcommittee yesterday asked the Justice Department if Attorney General Tom Clark stopped an investigation of "possible criminal activities" of Army and Navy officials in connection with fixing wartime freight rates.

George Bender

Frank L. Barton, 8221 Larry pl., Chevy Chase, Md., a former Justice Department official, told a House Executive Expenditures subcommittee yesterday he had started such an inquiry, but was "called off" by the Attorney General.

Chairman George H. Bender (R., Ohio) promptly shot an inquiry to the Justice Department.

"There is a suspicion here of criminal activities and we want to know what the department has done about it," Bender said.

Begun in 1945, He Says

Barton, now employed as a transportation expert by the Budget Bureau, said he opened an inquiry into the military rate negotiating officials in the spring of 1945, when he was with the department. On orders of the Attorney General, he said, he dropped the investigation.

The committee has been told by Federal transportation experts that the railroads "gouged" the Government of at least one billion dollars in excessively high wartime freight rates.

Meanwhile the Department of National Defense yesterday assured Bender that it was checking the background and postwar jobs of four former Army officers who arranged wartime freight rates for the Army with the railroads.

Spokesman for Secretary James V. Forrestal was Col. E. B. Gray, chief of the movements division, United States Army. Gray said the Army Department is now "determining the data" on the four officers as requested by the subcommittee.

Witnesses have told the subcommittee that the four Army officers were "furloughed" from the railroads to become Army officers, and later returned to the industry at greatly increased salaries.

Competition Eliminated

Barton told the subcommittee yesterday that the railroads set up a wartime rate bureau that eliminated competition that might have lowered the Government's freight charges.

He was critical of the Interstate Commerce Commission because it had not on its own authority initiated an inquiry into "unjust and unreasonable" wartime freight rates to the Government.

His own preliminary inquiry, he said, showed grounds for a further investigation.

Demanding to know why the Justice Department had not proceeded with a study of the situation, Bender declared:

"We want to know whether such an investigation was begun and whether it was called off. If it was called off, we want to know why and we want it prosecuted vigorously."

Rail Dispute Is Settled

outside of the wage increase, announced by the White House, included:

1. Through freight rates for Diesel locomotives shall apply to firemen (helpers) in yard service.

2. Yard conductors and yard brakemen will be granted an additional 15 cents a day basic pay.

3. Negotiations will continue on a rule so train crews will not be forced to lay over at points where eating and sleeping accommodations are not available.

4. To negotiate a rule covering conversion to local freight rates and a rule covering the time limit on processing pay claims.

Two Held for Grand Jury

Two persons, one the victim's father, were held for grand jury action in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday in the fatal shooting of Basil Duvall, 35, at his Mitchellville, Md., home June 19.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Johnson, 38, of Mitchellville, who is accused of the actual shooting, was held without bond on a charge of murder, while Phillip Duvall, 64, father of the slain man, was held under $1000 bond as an accessory to the slaying. Both pleaded innocent before Judge Alan Bowie.

Mrs. Johnson is ac[illegible]f shooting Duvall with a 16-gauge shotgun following an argument at the home, where she was employed as a housekeeper. The elder Duvall, police charge, attempted to conceal the slaying and reported his son had committed suicide.

Mrs. Hutchins Awarded Uncontested Divorce

Chicago, July 8 (AP).—Mrs. Maude Phelps Hutchins today obtained an uncontested divorce from Robert Maynard Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago, on ground of desertion.

Judge George Fisher of the Superior Court awarded her alimony of $1,250 a month. She alleged Hutchins deserted her after 26 years of married life.

Mrs. Hutchins, sculptress, painter and poet, is the former Maude Phelps McVeigh. She and the educator married September 10, 1921. They have three daughters.

Arlington Accepts School Work Bids

County Accused

Decision Due In Contempt Case Today

Whether or not the Arlington County government is in contempt for failing to grant a building permit to a District real estate company will be decided today in Arlington Circuit Court.

The contempt order is being sought by the Garfield I. Kass Realty Co., which requested the permit February 16 to erect a building at 3006 Wilson blvd. The permit was denied, however, when the county claimed building plans specified less than the required 40-foot setback from the center of the street.

Kass took his case to Circuit Court, which declared the Arlington building code had a loophole and ordered the county to grant the permit. This, Kass attorneys argued yesterday, the county has refused to do.

President to Attend Legion Convention

Miami, Fla., July 8 (AP).—President Truman has promised to attend the American Legion convention here in October, Joe H. Adams, chairman of the Convention Corporation, told a meeting here tonight.

The President, Adams said, accepted the invitation extended through Representative George Smathers (D., Fla.)

The Arlington County School Board last night tentatively accepted bids for the painting of four schools and installation of steam heat radiation in another at its meeting in the James Monroe School, 2400 Key blvd.

The low bids for the painting were accepted subject to a check as to compliance with specifications by all the bidders. There was some doubt in the minds of board members that all bids were submitted on the same basis, because of the wide variance of the bids.

The low bids for the Patrick Henry School, $498, and for the James Monroe School, $452, were submitted by Roy Crabill. H. A. Jones was low bidder for work on the Thomas Jefferson School, $1248, and the Woodrow Wilson School, $3375.

Dan Wilson, Inc., was awarded the contract for installation of steam radiation in the auditorium and library of the Hoffman-Boston School, also subject to a check of the specifications.

The board authorized the purchase of 50 teachers' desks and 50 small tables for use in primary grades from the Virginia State Penitentiary for approximately $4300 and a panel pickup truck for a price not to exceed $1700.

The offer of the Rosslyn Gas Co. to install 15 gas ranges in home economics classrooms at no cost to the county was accepted by the board.

In other business, the board set the salary of Dr. T. W. Pumphrey, school dentist, at $5300 plus $300 expenses; appointed Miss Lena Wolf, principal of the Claude Swanson Junior High School, to formulate plans for guidance programs for junior high schools, and reappointed Van Lier Lanning as music teacher for the county schools.

Pepco Granted Rate Increase

reexamined under the PUC modified sliding scale plan, to determine whether Pepco will need to use all or part of a $713,311 reserve fund, to bring its full yearly return to 5½ per cent.

Revision Under Way

Pepco now is revising the proposed rates it submitted May 17 in its application for three million dollars in additional revenue, to make those rates conform to the quarter-million-dollar lower figure approved by the commission.

The commission, in granting a rate increase, disapproved a proposal to permit a new special rate discount of one half cent a kilowatt hour to benefit customers using electric water heaters. Testimony showed that this involved $48,000 a year, which, in effect, allows Pepco that much more money to use in adjusting rates.

The water heater discount was challenged during hearings by PUC Counsel Lloyd B. Harrison, who asked, "Wouldn't that have the tendency to promote the sale of electric water heaters?" A Pepco official replied that if the discount were not given, "a higher rate might price electric water heaters off the market." He said there were 4000 to 5000 such heaters in the District.

During the rate hearings, both CIO and AFL representatives were among those who strongly opposed a rate boost, disagreeing with Pepco's contention that higher rates were necessary to attract investors for an 86-million-dollar expansion program.

District Detectives Question Admitted Slayer Of Baltimore Girl on Bardwell Rape-Murder

tacked. Both were killed in unfrequented locations. And both were slain with knives.

Before he was formally charged with the murder of the Brill girl, James was taken in handcuffs to the scene of the murder where, according to Baltimore Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson, he reenacted his crime.

Then he led police to the spot where he had buried the death weapon, a black-handled butcher knife with a 6-inch blade.

Baltimore police also charged James with the assault, robbery and rape of a Baltimore woman on June 15.

Capt. Oscar Lusby of Baltimore's Northern District Police Station had the suspect brought in for questioning Wednesday after he recalled the man had been convicted eight years ago of a series of knife attacks on white women. The man was sentenced to prison for 10 years and was released only last December. He is single and has been living at 3311 Paton st. in Baltimore, police said.

The alleged rape and knife attacks reportedly took place in the same general area where the Brill girl was slain.

Marsha Brill was fatally knifed Tuesday afternoon while bicycling with two playmates in a sparsely settled area in Baltimore's outskirts.

The companions, Barbara Lee Sapperstein, 11, and her brother, Alan, 8, told police a tall Negro wearing a blue shirt and dungarees jumped from the underbrush and stabbed Marsha.

Earlier, in commenting upon the similar points in the Brill and Bardwell murders, Major Barrett told reporters he was certain that they were the work of one man.

Meanwhile, Washington police were not overlooking the possibility that the prowler glimpsed three times within 24 hours in Rock Creek Park and fired upon twice by police could be considered a strong suspect in the rape murder of Carol Bardwell.

The man was first sighted at about 10 p. m. Wednesday in the Piney Branch rd. section of Rock Creek Park. Special Investigator Karle E. Howe fired two shots at the man as he fled. The man apparently escaped through a tightly drawn police cordon under cover of darkness.

The excitement was repeated four hours later when Pvt. Eugene A. Gross, a park policeman, fired several shots at a man, believed to be the same one, near the Park rd. bridge in the general area of Tilden st. and Adams Mill rd. Again police mobilized at the scene, but the fugitive escaped.

At about 11 a. m. yesterday police rushed to an area in the park near Linnean ave. and Broad Branch rd. after they received a report of a "suspicious" man in that vicinity. Again no man was found.

In all cases the description tallied with that given out on the man who was fired at by Howe Wednesday night. Police said the description also could fit that of a man who accosted a woman in the park on Saturday night and ripped part of her clothing from her.

Supplies Flying In

The Americans yesterday flew a record total of 1001 tons of food and coal. The American lift dropped today to 719 tons, including coal, and 1870 gallons of cylinder oil, which was put into the air lifeline for the first time.

The Americans flew 182 sorties from Weisbaden and Frankfurt bases in 24 hours.

The Royal Air Force in a noon-to-noon count flew 163 flights, six of them by Sunderland flying boats.

At Least 2 Americans Killed in Air Crash

Berlin (Friday), July 9 (AP).—A United States Air Force plane, flying food to Russian-blockaded Berlin, crashed last night near Frankfurt, killing at least two Americans.

Three persons were reported in the only Air Force plane listed as missing, but Army search parties said only two bodies were found at the crash scene, deep in the Taunus Mountains.

Garbage Man Given Life In Rape Case

Joseph (Dupe) Ross, 54-year-old Takoma Park garbage collector, was sentenced to a life term in the Maryland State Penitentiary yesterday for raping a 72-year-old partially blind widow last May 12.

Ross

In imposing sentence, Chief Judge Charles W. Woodward, of the Montgomery County Circuit Court, strongly castigated Ross for the "brutal and vicious" crime.

"There is no place in civilized society for a man that will commit such a crime," Judge Woodward declared. Apparently referring to Ross' steadfast claim of innocence, the jurist added: "The testimony showed beyond a doubt that you committed the crime."

Read into the record during the trial last week and again yesterday were statements by psychiatrists that Ross is "feeble minded, imbecilic and moronic."

Judge Woodward said, "The evidence showed you are a responsible man in the eyes of the law, but we feel you are so close to being irresponsible that we should not sentence you to hang."

During the sentencing, Judge Woodward ordered that the record show all three judges are opposed to a parole. "This means," he told Ross, "that under no circumstances can you ever be freed." Also presiding were Associate Judges Stedman Prescott and Patrick J. Schnauffer.

After the sentencing Ross was led away, smiling broadly. His attorneys said they would not appeal. The convicted man was taken to the penitentiary in Baltimore yesterday afternoon by three deputy sheriffs.

Evidence was introduced yesterday showing that Ross had been previously sentenced to a total of 23 years in Maryland prisons for offenses ranging from housebreaking to assault with intent to kill.

When arrested, Ross was working as a garbage collector for the town of Takoma Park. Police said he was arrested on a "perfect" description given them by the almost blind victim who was dependent upon her sense of touch for identification.

D. C. Man Drowns On Fishing Trip

Julian Smith, 21, of 1520 Gales st. ne., was reported drowned last night in Kingman Lake.

His wife and brother told police they were fishing about 100 yards north of Benning rd. ne. at 8 p. m. when Smith fell in. They said he decided to take a short swim, since he was wet. He removed his shoes and then sank, they related.

Police dragged the lake for the body without success late last night.

Western Union Finds New Use For Facsimile

New York, July 8 (AP).—Western Union gave a demonstration today of a new machine that gives the businessman a telegraph office on the corner of his desk.

Called "Desk-Fax," the compact fascimile transmitter and receiver is not quite as wide as a portable typewriter but slightly taller.

To send a telegram, you type it or write it in pencil on a special blank furnished with the machine, wrap the telegram around a cylinder and press a switch. The rest is automatic and the machine cuts itself off, after the message has been transmitted into the nearest Western Union central office.

When there's an incoming telegram, a buzzer sounds. You turn on the switch and the machine receives and shuts itself off automatically but the buzzer sounds again until you press a button acknowledging the telegram.

Western Union officials said that even more important than the convenience of the machine was the elimination of messenger travel time at both sending and receiving ends.

They said the new device, in conjunction with the automatic switching system being installed, ultimately would make it possible for a telegram to reach the desk of the addressee in San Francisco in less than 10 minutes from the time it was put in the machine by the sender.

Deer Crashes Store

Portland, Me., July 8 (AP).—A deer was captured yesterday behind the soda counter of a department store in the heart of Portland's business district.

Cabbie Since 1911 Claims Distance Record

You think you have a good job Husky, ruddy-cheeked Bernard L. Henning, 802 4th st. ne., will tell you any day in the week that when it comes to working—well, brother, there's nothing like hacking.

And Henning thinks very frankly that he ought to know—he's been at it since 1911.

Yesterday the 58-year-old, 6-foot cabbie put in a bid for the city's "long distance driving record," claiming 1,350,000 miles "at least" in 37 years and 3 months of hacking.

And in so doing he explained why it's such a "swell job." The "main thing," he said, is that "you're your own boss—you can tell the boss to go where ice is unknown." And, he added, as if it were necessary "you can't do that on many jobs, can you?"

Henning, who took the wheel of a three-cylinder Elmore back in the days of Taft, recalled that in those days "horse hackers" were in vogue and auto cabs were considered strictly "new-fangled."

"I have seen new drivers, not yet onto the ropes, attempt to start their motors . . . work for an hour, cranking, without getting the motor to run," Henning said. "This used to greatly amuse the 'sophisticated veterans' and they would gather around offering all kinds of advice—none of it sincere."

In that era, Henning said, cab riding was only for the rich and "of course, the tips from this class of patrons often amounted to more, in the course of a day's work, than fares amount to today."

Despite what he considers an outmoded fare system in the District now, Henning plans to go on hacking because, just like the stage, "it gets in your blood."

Code Drafted For Broadcasts In Hemisphere

Buenos Aires, Argentina, July 8 (U.P.).—Plans for adoption of uniform legislation governing radio broadcasting in the American republics were completed yesterday by the judiciary committee of the Inter-American Association of Broadcasters Congress.

Covering 12 basic points, the uniform code is designed to guarantee freedom of expression over the air. It defined broadcasting as a service in the public interest and otherwise it tended to limit government interference with the industry.

To become effective, it must be ratified by a majority of the American governments.

It limits official censorship to cases of foreign attack or serious internal disturbances, in which other means of expression, such as newspapers also would be censored.

Japs Warned on Prices

Tokyo, July 8 (NYHT).—A warning to Japanese merchants not to raise the prices of goods or services because of the change in the military exchange rate of the yen from 50 to 270 to a dollar was made today by T. E. Beplat, of the finance division of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters.

Coast Guard Rescues 7 From Burning Tanker

Ludington, Mich., July 8 (U.P.).—Seven injured seamen were transferred from a burning, gasoline-laden tanker to a Coast Guard flying boat in heavy seas 23 miles south of here on Lake Michigan.

The blaze, of unknown origin, broke out in the aft end of the tanker. Heroic efforts by the 29 crew members kept the flames from the cargo of 30,000 barrels of gasoline.

Reds Work Laborers 'To Death,' AFL Charges

New York, July 8 (NYHT.).—Charging that "laborers are literally worked to death" in Russian-dominated countries, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, announced here yesterday the A. F. of L. has requested a United Nations investigation of alleged violation of trade union rights in the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia.

Railroads War on Jars, Jolts

Chicago, July 8 (AP).—They're planning to give pigs a smoother ride on the railroads.

But that is just one small part of a project aimed at protecting all kinds of freight from jars and jolts.

Swaying and bumping can scatter loads. Continued vibration can bruise soft fruit and vegetables. Cattle may break legs on rough trips.

So the Association of American Railroads and Car Manufacturers have joined in a research program to prevent damage to cargoes.

They will make road tests of various kinds of trucks (carriages made up of a frame, wheels and springs) and snubbers (devices that check motion).

The tests will start about mid-July. A rolling laboratory will be used. It will consist of five cars. Three of them will carry scientific recording instruments.

The train will roll back and forth over 68 miles of Illinois Central tracks between Clinton and Gilman, Ill. Different types of equipment will be tried. Metal blocks will be put on board to simulate light and heavy loads. Speeds will vary and will range up to 80 miles an hour. The trials may last four months.

KILLS INSECTS
No Spray! No Powders! No Bombs! No Muss!

PROTECTION FOR A FULL SEASON!
AMAZINGLY SIMPLE TO USE..NO BOTHER!
Just snap it over any light bulb... heat from the bulb vaporizes crystals over a wide area in room
KILLS MOTHS..MOSQUITOES..FLIES SILVERFISH..GNATS AND OTHER FLYING AND CRAWLING INSECTS
HERE'S HOW INSECT-O-LITE WORKS
Insect-o-lite is a remarkable new insect killer which works on a very simple principle. It is a light shade impregnated with powerful insect killing DDT crystals which vaporize from the heat of an ordinary light bulb and are spread invisibly through the room. Just snap it on any light bulb and Insect-o-lite goes to work in these two simple ways:
First: All light attracted insects which come near the shade absorb the DDT and soon die.
Second: Heat from the lamp bulb inside the shade vaporizes the insect killing crystals which are distributed by air currents to ceilings and wall surfaces. In this way even the insects that do not contact the shade can touch the invisible crystals in other parts of the room and die.

EFFECTIVE ANYWHERE: LIVING ROOMS . . BEDROOMS DENS . . KITCHENS . . CLOSETS . . PORCHES . . PATIOS!
for only 97¢
JUST THINK OF IT!
With Insect-O-Lite, you can solve your insect-killing problems for a complete season merely by snapping the shade on your light bulb —and forgetting it!
HOW EFFECTIVE IS INSECT-O-LITE?
It has been proven by exhaustive tests in the nationally known testing laboratories of Triplett & Barton, Burbank, California, that when the Insect-o-lite is properly used DDT is distributed to all surfaces of the room. Dr. C. H. Curran of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, has pointed out that the amounts of DDT distributed by the Insect-o-lite are lethal to insects and yet harmless to humans and warm blooded animals. These invisible crystals will not injure even the most delicate fabrics.

3 N. Y. Women Guilty on Morals Counts

New York, July 8 (AP).—Mrs. Nancy Fletcher Choremi, beautiful brunette who says she is the daughter of a U. S. career diplomat, tonight was found guilty of loitering for purposes of prostitution.

Mrs. Choremi

Two codefendants, Madeleine Blavier and Mrs. Margaret Starr, also were found guilty of charges relating to prostitution.

Magistrate Arthur Markewich did not announce the date of sentencing.

Gabriel Mosner, police legal bureau representative, who prosecuted the case, said the three may receive terms of up to three years each.

The prosecution's case was based primarily on wiretapping reports by patrolmen assigned to listen to the telephone conversations of the three women.

Mrs. Choremi says her father is Dr. C. Paul Fletcher, U. S. Consul-General in Casablanca. She is 27 and is married to George Choremi, a wealthy cotton broker reported to be in Egypt. They have a 5-year-old son.

C. S. Lawrence Sworn as U. S. Commissioner

Cyril S. Lawrence, 46, yesterday was sworn in as United States Commissioner here.

The oath was administered by Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws of District Court.

He will replace Needham C. Turnage, who is taking a prolonged leave of absence because of illness.

Lawrence is expected to take over his duties after July 13, when Turnage is to leave for the Veterans' Administratoin Hospital at Oteen, N. C.

Lawrence has been a lawyer since 1926, and was a special assistant to the Attorney General at one time. He lives with his wife at Dorchester House, 2480 16th st. nw.

Police Chief Seeks Men

Police Chief Charles M. Orme of Montgomery County appealed yesterday for more applicants to fill 16 vacancies on the police force.

He said 16 men showed up last week to take the county civil service examination, but that only three to five of these would probably be considered eligible. The private's positions pay $2600 to start with ...tomatic yearly increases to a top ...f $3000 for that grade.

Lack of applicants for the va...ncies was attributed by Chief ...rme to easier working conditions ...n private employment.

The county force now has 114 ...fficers and men to care for a popu...tion of about 145,000 persons. A ...oliceman for every thousand of ...opulation is generally considered ...e proper scale, according to ...hief Orme.

Applicants can obtain forms at ...y precinct station or apply at ...e office of the Civil Service Com...issioner at Rockville, he said.

Screening Center Is Set Up For WAC and WAF Officers

A screening center has been set up at South Post Fort Myer, Va., for active and inactive officers in the Wac and the new "Women in the Air Force" seeking Regular Army commissions.

The center will process women within the Military District of Washington, which includes Washington, Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax, Stafford, Prince William, King George and Westmoreland Counties in Virginia, and Montgomery, Prince Georges, Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's Counties in Maryland.

A bill passed near the end of the last congressional session and signed by President Truman June 12, made the Wac part of the Rugular Army and created the Waf.

A total of 500 Wac officers throughout the Nation will receive commissions in the new corps, the Army said, but must first pass physical and character tests. There are 688 officer Wac's at the present time. Active Wac and Waf officers may apply for new commissions through their commanding officers. Former and inactive Wac officers should file applications through the Adjutant General's office.

Furniture and personal effects, appraised at $1500, are to be divided equally among the three daughters, Mrs. Ida Hoeber, 4942 N. 26th st., Arlington; Mrs. Mary B. Wright of 2119 R st., nw., and Miss Elizabeth Clagett of the Westchester Apartments.

The remainder of the personal and real property is to be put in trust. From the income, $50 a month is to be paid to Miss Susan C. Hacker of West River, Md., a close friend with whom Mrs. Clagett resided at the time of her death July 1.

The remainder of the net income is to be divided equally among the three daughters until 20 years after the death of the last daughter, at which time the estate is to be divided equally among their descendants.

The will makes no provision for a son, C. Thomas Clagett of 101 East Melrose st., Chevy Chase, Md., at his own express request.

Mrs. Clagett was the widow of Charles Thomas Clagett, who was assistant to the general manager of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

he said, the District Tuberculosis Association provided more than $47,000 and the Public Health Service about $125,000.

Meanwhile, the Arlington Tuberculosis Association reported that 23,297 persons were X-rayed in Arlington in its survey, besides an estimated 25,000 Arlington residents covered in the Washington survey.

Those whose X-rays show signs of TB are being re-X-rayed and follow-up work is being done by the chest clinic of the County Health Department.

Montgomery's Welfare Fund Reported Low

A total of $303,025 was spent for Montgomery County needy during 1947-48 by the county welfare board at an average cost per case of $49.66 monthly.

At the end of the fiscal year June 30, according to William J. Royer, director, 508 persons were receiving public assistance.

In a report made yesterday Royer stated the welfare board is "gravely concerned about the effect of insufficient funds on the local welfare program."

Due to a shortage of State welfare funds, Royer said, it had been necessary to cut back expenditures to the April, 1948 level. There will be "no appreciable change in the county welfare program," he said, but added that no new cases will be taken unless they are replacements for closed cases.

It also was announced that Adolph Gude of Rockville, has been elected chairman of the welfare board. Other new officers are Mrs. Lillian W. Smith, Chevy Chase, vice chairman, and Mrs. Louis Gravelle, Bethesda, secretary treasurer.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of Kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Gas Centenary

In celebration of the centenary of the Washington Gas Light Co. which occurred yesterday, Robert R. Hershman and Edward T. Stafford have prepared a short history of the company, which is in effect a history of Washington itself; hence the title, Growing With Washington. It is of special interest as a revelation of how slow was this growth in the earlier decades of the nineteenth century and how long it has taken the Capital to attain the metropolitan status envisaged by its founders. Gas, as a means of interior illumination, had been in use in Baltimore more than three decades earlier, in Boston more than two decades earlier, and in Philadelphia more than a decade earlier.

But, despite its relatively late advent into the field of public illumination, the Washington Gas Light Co. has a good many distinctions. It was the first public utility to be chartered by an act of Congress. Thus, since it has preserved its corporate entity throughout the vicissitudes of a whole century, it is the oldest utility in existence now under Federal regulation. But about a year before the organization of the gaslight company, Congress, it seems, had given a contract to one James Crutchett of Dayton, Ohio, for the lighting of the Capitol grounds with gas manufactured in a small plant on grounds of his house on North Capitol st. Among other things Mr. Crutchett built a sort of beacon lantern on the then unfinished dome of the Capitol, in about the position now occupied by the Statue of Freedom. On calm nights, it is said, this light could be seen for many miles; but on windy nights it was often blown out and for this and other reasons was soon abandoned.

The lighting of the Capitol grounds was taken over by the new company and before the end of the year (1848) it had also taken over the illumination of the White House. But it was not until three years later that gaslight was made generally available to householders. By that time, mains, which had been built at the expense of the Government, had been taken over by the Government.

For perhaps the latter half of the company's hundred years, gaslighting of course has been as obsolete as the primitive methods it supplanted, and the name of the company is therefore an anachronism. Thus its survival, and the astonishingly healthy financial condition which has characterized it throughout most of its life, must be attributed not merely to the slow growth of Washington from a straggling village into one of the great cities of the world, but also to its adaptability to rapidly changing conditions. The decline of gas as a means of illumination was, of course, accompanied by the steady multiplication of its uses as a fuel. And at the point where the cost of manufactured gas seemed to indicate that its use as fuel might soon become uneconomical, the danger of obsolescence was again removed by the piping of natural gas from the fields of Kentucky and West Virginia. Thus it is probably not without reason that the company looks forward with optimism to another century of activity.

Tennessee Duel

Mr. Edward H. Crump, the satrap of Tennessee, has resorted to a novel sort of bludgeon in his all-out fight to deny the Democratic senatorial nomination to Representative Estes Kefauver. Mr. Crump charges Mr. Kefauver with the heinous crimes of opposing the filibuster and voting on some issues on the same side as Representative Vito Marcantonio. Because the Memphis Press-Scimitar has dared to support Mr. Kefauver on this "shameful record," Mr. Crump has challenged its editor, Mr. Edward J. Meeman, to a showdown. If the "charges" can be proved before a committee of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, Crump says, Meeman should leave Memphis permanently. If they are proved false, Crump himself agrees to pick up his hat and go into exile.

Mr. Kefauver's real sin, of course, is that he has had the courage to invade Mr. Crump's political empire, which is ruled with a velvet tightness and dispatch that would do credit even to a Caesar. Kefauver is contending for the seat to be vacated by Senator Tom Stewart, a former Crump luminary who has fallen from grace. Crump is supporting his own man, Judge John A. Mitchell. Mr. Kefauver's audacity has of course brought forth some choice Crumpian smears—a field in which Mr. Crump is a master along with his crony, Senator Kenneth McKellar.

What is interesting about the Crump "charges" is the premise on which they are based—that it is somehow un-American to vote for anything that the Communists and fellow travelers favor, no matter how worthy the cause. Many Congressmen up for reelection are caught in the same box. Indeed, this ridiculous standard of comparison gave rise to a situation during the last months of Congress in which the criterion of an issue often was not its intrinsic merit, but whether Messrs. Marcantonio and Isacson, the representatives of the extreme left, planned to vote for it. The situation put a premium on pusillanimity, and gave the New York pair a standing and an influence that astonished gallery onlookers.

Congressman Kefauver's record has been, by most objective standards, outstanding, and he was one of the top half dozen members of the House in the Eightieth Congress, in our opinion, in public service. By no stretch of the imagination can he be tagged a fellow traveler. On the contrary, he is a man of sufficient courage and honesty, as well as independence of mind, not to allow a fear of labeling to deter him from an enlightened and progressive stand. There is no doubt that his brand of statesmanship would be vindicated in any impartial judgment. At the same time it is impossible not to feel a little concern over the position of Editor Meeman in the verbal duel which Mr. Crump has proclaimed. For the suspicion arises that Mr. Crump, who is "solid" with the Memphis business community because of his ability to keep taxes down and labor in line, would not have issued his challenge unless his jury had been pretty well stacked.

Union Investigation

Representative Fred A. Hartley says that the investigation into communism in labor unions by a House Subcommittee which he heads is not a witch hunt. Rather, his aim is to assist labor unions in dealing with their problems of Communist infiltration. That aim has not been advanced by the sessions which opened this week in New York. There are some disquieting indications that, in spite of his announced intention of keeping the investigation on a high plane, Mr. Hartley may be seeking something more than information. Indeed, there is a considerable similarity between the conduct of these hearings and those into the movie industry by the Un-American Activities Committee.

Mr. Hartley is asking a large number of labor leaders if they are Communists. So far they have refused to answer. If they continue to refuse to answer, he says they will be cited for contempt of Congress. This method might presumably be employed to lodge large numbers of Communists or recalcitrant fellow travelers in jail. Any such approach might easily defeat the purpose of the subcommittee if indeed it did not redound to the discredit of the investigators. The implication is that Mr. Hartley intends to use the congressional investigation as an instrument of persecution—a wholly illegitimate use—instead of a means of informing the public and the unions as to the work of Communists in their midst.

As we see it, the question is one of technique. Where Communist terrorism or dictation exists in labor unions, it ought to be exposed no less thoroughly than were the brass-knuckles tactics employed by some big corporations in the days before enactment of the Wagner Act. Congress and the public are entitled to know the facts. Indeed, Congress would be remiss if it closed its eyes to the seeds of revolution within our own country. At the same time it would be intolerable to launch a campaign for the wholesale punishment of a dissident minority through the contempt powers of Congress when no violations of law are involved.

In a series of editorials a few months ago this newspaper came to the conclusion that the chief aims of every congressional investigation ought to be "maximum enlightenment of Congress and the people . . . and protection of the rights of individuals against unreasonable and undemocratic encroachments." The two aims are not incompatible. On the contrary, any investigation which fails to give due regard to personal rights—which permits persecution to take the place of legitimate and skillful inquiry—is likely to fall from the weight of its own abuses. Mr. Hartley may be little concerned over his own political future, since he is retiring from Congress, but for the sake of making his work useful to his successors he ought to give skillful investigation precedence over the brute force of contempt citations.

Tourism

The head of an American hotel chain who is planning to buy or build hotels in Europe is reported to have said that the tourist business there "looks tremendous." But for the ever-present threat of war, which the American hotel owner is disposed to discount, tourist trade should provide a large and increasing flow of dollars to supplement the funds provided for European recovery during the next few years. The foundation for a flourishing trade of this kind rests, of course, on the prosperity prevailing in the United States. Vacationers have plenty of money to spend, and after years of war and political turmoil that have limited sightseeing to their own country are eager to revisit or make acquaintance with the world overseas.

While acute food shortages prevailed in Europe, it would have been detrimental to recovery to have encouraged any large amount of tourist trade. Now, however, with food pressures easing and recovery plans under way, development of the tourist industry will become an increasingly welcome feature of recovery programs. Tourist trade has the further advantage of enabling comparatively poor countries rich in scenery and in relics of the past to sell these intangible goods to foreigners without loss of possessions. Moreover, if American capital is used to buy or build more hotels abroad, that capital inflow will supply additional dollars for use at a critical time, not only directly but indirectly by attracting travellers who might be scared away by inadequacy of housing and service accommodation.

Bombing Roles

Defense Secretary Forrestal was quite right in deploring the use of the word "strategic" to describe bombing missions in any future conflict. The word, as he said in his press conference Wednesday, has created a psychosis among Air Force and Naval Air partisans—a psychosis that has tended to obscure the nature and function of mass bombing. Indeed, the continuing squabble between the Air Force and Navy, even after the Key West decision, has been the most significant example of the failure of real unification to date. Until there is an agreement on missions respected by all parties, the achievements in unifying procurement and common services are reduced to mere eyewash.

Mass bombing, Mr. Forrestal reiterated, is an Air Force responsibility. This does not mean that carrier-based bombers will have no role; surely in the initial stages of any war, and especially in the interim period until long-range bombing from land bases becomes a practical possibility, they will have an essential job even in attack. But by the same token it would be foolish to assign to the Navy the responsibility for the kind of mass, saturation bombing that it is not set up to do. The direction of such a program properly belongs to the arm which will have to carry it out. What Mr. Forrestal's statement means in this connection is that our primary instruments of attack are to be superbombers of the B-50 and allied types. But, selfish assumptions to the contrary notwithstanding, no one force can win a war by itself, and there will be plenty of tasks to go around.

It would be too much to expect the simple reiteration of the Key West decision to silence all the dissension. Mr. Forrestal will have to keep at it, spelling out precisely what he means, and if the sniping continues he will have to crack some heads together. This much is certain: the instruments of modern war are far too expensive for the country to be able to afford a duplication of missions, with the separate forces bedeviling Congress on matters that it is Mr. Forrestal's job to settle within the military establishment.

Now It's Sugar

Sugar prices are going up, housewives are again complaining of shortages in the stores and showing a tendency to hoard. Yet Cuba has a record sugar crop and is worrying about the disposal of her surpluses. The explanation is, of course, that the United States is much more interested in maintaining high prices for agricultural products than in lowering living costs, in spite of protestation to the contrary. Only a few weeks ago the Secretary of Agriculture decided to reduce the domestic sugar-consumption quota a half million tons below the figure set at the end of February, with the result that imports from Cuba will be reduced by an almost equivalent amount. Sugar prices were then showing a tendency to slump, and his action has had the desired effect of reversing the trend.

Of course it is the consumer who loses and the producer who gains by this kind of Government intervention to create artificial scarcities. Business Week suggests that beekeepers, if not housewives, may have cause to thank the Government for helping to boost sugar prices, for higher sugar prices and induced scarcities, should bolster up sagging honey prices.

Idle Idlewild

During the first week of its operation as New York's new international airdrome, the 66-million-dollar Idlewild Airport has been all dressed up with virtually no customers. This is explainable by the fact that the foreign-flag airlines, which will be the first principal users, will require some time to change their bases from LaGuardia Airport. Even when they do, however, there is not much relief in sight for the overburdened LaGuardia, since international flights constitute only a small proportion of the air arrivals and departures handled in New York.

New York's problem in this respect illustrates perfectly one of the growing complexities of the air age. LaGuardia Field is so busy that even the slightest delay throws matters into a hopeless tangle, as anyone who has had experience there in bad weather well knows. Even though expanded use of the Newark Airport has taken away some of the immediate congestion from LaGuardia, the air-traffic pattern over New York is one of unbelievable intricacy, requiring the closest figuring. It simply is not possible under present conditions for LaGuardia to accommodate much increase in traffic.

Until electronic landing aids and navigational equipment are in general use, thus facilitating both bad-weather operation and a more exact calibration of schedules, more airports will have to be the answer to expanded traffic. The traffic density at the Washington National Airport is rapidly approaching the point where it will be necessary to start thinking of auxiliary fields. For such additional measures to be fully effective in relieving congestion, however, it will be necessary to devise regulations to insure that traffic is divided up with, say, north-south flights going to one airport and east-west to another.

"Make Each Vote Count"

In your editorial of July 6, you present two arguments for the Lodge proposal to amend the Constitution so as to distribute the electoral votes of each State in proportion to the popular vote.

You say that under this proposed amendment "candidates for the Presidency would have only such strength in electoral votes as they could win in popular votes in each State." This is true if each State is considered separately. But the Lodge Resolution preserves the inequality of voting power among the States.

This inequality arises from two features of our electoral system. First, the electoral vote of each State equals the number of representatives (who are apportioned according to population) plus the number of Senators (two from each State regardless of population). Nevada has 23,442 potential voters for each electoral vote, while New York has 177,182. Thus, a Nevadan has 7½ times the voting power of a New Yorker in presidential elections.

Suppose we take a number of small States with the same population as a large State. Suppose the small States cast the same popular vote for candidate A as a large State casts for candidate B. Candidate A will receive a larger number of electoral votes. Therefore, if we take groups of States or the Nation as a whole, candidates for the Presidency would not necessarily have the same strength in electoral votes as they would have in popular votes.

Secondly, under the electoral system inequality of voting power arises from the fact that each State casts its full electoral vote regardless of its popular vote. Connecticut and South Carolina, for example, have the same number of electoral votes (8), but they usually show a striking difference in total popular votes. If such a difference should persist under the amendment proposed by Senator Lodge, a large popular vote for a candidate in Connecticut might produce no more, or even less, electoral votes than a much smaller vote for the opposing candidate in South Carolina. Whether the Lodge amendment would cause a better turnout of voters in the South is problematical.

You say that under the proposed amendment, "the danger of electing a candidate with a minority of the popular votes would disappear." The amendment might conceivably reduce the chances of electing a candidate who receives fewer popular votes than his principal opponent, the kind of thing that happened when Harrison defeated Cleveland in 1888. But a far more frequent occurrence is the election of a candidate having a Plurality, not a majority, of the popular vote in the Nation. The Lodge amendment would in no way prevent minority elections of this kind. They would probably become more frequent, since it seems fairly certain that the proposed change would encourage third parties.

Senator Lodge's proposal may be a step in the right direction, but its limitations and possible effects should be understood.

Yugoslav Smokescreen

In the current Cominform-Tito "controversy," why does The Washington Post persist in taking at face value the assertions made by accomplished liars? After all our sad experience, why do Americans continue to believe what any Bolshevik says any place, any time?

The Cominform is composed of liars who have made dishonor a career. The Yugoslav tyranny is more of the same. They hurl "charges" at one another. We believe them. We think these sinister people are really mad. Nothing could be further from the truth.

The Red gentry are not out for each other's scalps. The scalps they covet are located west of the Iron Curtain. They aim at continuous and increasing division of western world opinion. Behind the Tito smokescreen they are getting it.

All the racket they make in this fake battle of stand-ins leaves the Yugs free to engage in some "independent" adventures of Moscow's contriving. Perhaps a little wholesale murder is contemplated in Greece, Italy or Austria. Perhaps they plan an intricate triple-crossing deal with us western heretics. Maybe all they want is a nice juicy chunk of American dough. The prospects are innumerable.

Meanwhile, the Kremlin and its familiar, the Cominform, view this apostasy with "alarm," and scold noisily. We in America look wide-eyed upon this made-in-Moscow drama, this combat of shadows, and believe it real.

Good Old Joe chuckles in his mustache. He planned it that way.

Constitution Hall Ban

At Washington's Watergate on the evening of Independence Day, Dorothy Maynor, one of this Nation's and the world's great artists, united an audience of Americans of all faiths and races in a celebration of that day on which each year the American dream becomes most nearly articulate. Twice earlier this year Roland Hayes, a man whose diminutive stature cannot begin to suggest the spiritual depth of his music, sang to mixed Washington audiences. Some years ago, after her cause had been championed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the great contralto Marian Anderson sang a token performance at Constitution Hall, again with an unsegregated audience.

Yet, to our Capital City's undying shame, Miss Anderson has not been permitted to return to Constitution Hall; and neither Miss Maynor nor Mr. Hayes has been allowed to sing there at all.

The bar against Negro artists at Constitution Hall is only symptomatic of deeper bias and a more malignant problem. Nonetheless, it is long past time for the citizens of Washington to present the Daughters of the American Revolution with a clear choice: Either remove the ban at Constitution Hall, or the citizenry of Washington will provide another place where music can be heard without discriminatory restriction.

A Job For The Vice President

There has been talk—there is always talk in this delightful but carelessly vocal land of ours—of our needing a "great administrator" to take over the modest quarters at 1600 Pennsylvania ave., in Washington. That nicely rounded out address is, of course, that of the frequently repainted Georgian residence (with out buildings and balconies) more familiarly known as the White House.

The White House is the heart of the greatest corporation in the world; a world-wide corporation which has had thrust upon it the leadership of the world. And the leadership of the world is not limited to the "democratic half" of the world but applies to the whole world. The whole world needs leadership as a whole.

A very large portion of the world—well over one-sixth of its entire land area—has direction, to be sure. But direction is not necessarily leadership. In the case of the one-sixth of the world within the iron curtain, the contrary is true. The people of the Soviet State and its satellites are being driven toward the desired accomplishment of the direct control of the entire Eurasian land mass and its surrounding oceans and seas, and the indirect control thereafter, of the entire world.

This drive can be halted and then reversed only by the outstanding leadership which American statesmanship is now called upon to furnish. And the American statesmanship required is not the normal equipment of a mere administrator, however great he be as an administrator.

Why cannot our great USA corporation apply in its management the same sort of common sense which great private corporations—after much trial and error— have evolved for the management of their vast affairs? Our President, rather than being required to be a great administrator, must be relieved of all administration and freed from all administrative shackles, so that he can devote his talents and his energies to determining policies and exercising leadership in the carrying through of his determined policies.

Somebody in the highest echelon must handle the tremendous administrative chore which our greatness has built up to the proportions of a Frankenstein. Somebody with top authority must chain and control this monster. And the man for the job is right at hand in our constitutional pattern. He is the Vice President!

Our Constitution has little to say about the Vice President, beyond providing for his election and charging him with presiding over the Senate and casting the deciding vote in case of a tie. Not much of a job for a man who is reckoned to be at least the second best man in one or the other of the two major parties. The sessions of the Senate occupy but a small portion of the working day of a conscientious public servant, and the Senate meets only for a part of each year. Also, the Constitution provides for the contingency of the Vice President's being absent (or otherwise engaged) by authorizing the selection of an incumbent pro tempore to wield the gavel and cast that deciding vote in case of a tie.

The competent and thoughtful Mr. Monroney has proposed that there be a second Vice President to relieve the President of the more harassing and time-consuming of his detailed responsibilities. This is an excellent proposal, but it would require a constitutional amendment and the process of constitutional amendment is painfully and expensively slow. In the readjustment of the President's loads, time is of the essence. It is much simpler, as well as much more economical of highest level manpower, to charge the already constitutional Vice President with the administrative direction of the executive branch and provide that the Senate gavel be wielded and that rare deciding vote be cast, by the pro tempore gentleman who can be chosen, as often as one likes, from the promising field of 96 eligibles.

Thus, the time-honored tradition of selecting a Throttlebottom to preside over the Senate, cast the deciding vote in case of a tie, and deciding vote occasionally to the White House through no fault of his own, can be thrown out the window and into the everlasting ash can. Thus, each major party will be free—as the Republican Party has just freed itself—to select one of its very best men for the Vice Presidency. And the man so selected can then be put to work!

Washington Calling

O'Mahoney's Chance

ONE OF the tough jobs confronting those who are trying to bring about Mr. Truman's nomination with as little damage as possible to party harmony is the selection of a vice presidential candidate. Under normal circumstances a sufficient number of eligible seekers are out for the office so that some kind of compromise ultimately can be worked out.

But these are not normal circumstances for the Democrats, and the office is today seeking the man. In fact, it may be a hot chase through the highways and byways of Philadelphia before the individual who is tapped can be persuaded to say yes.

As of the present moment, the most likely choice is Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming. There are many reasons, related both to the campaign this year and to 1952, why O'Mahoney should be selected.

To begin with, he is the ablest and the best-informed spokesman of the basic philosophy of the New Deal that has widest acceptance within the Democratic Party; that is, opposition to monopoly-cartel controls and in favor of competition and opportunity for small business.

The Senator from Wyoming conducted the impressive Temporary National Economic Committee inquiry into the way in which big business has absorbed a greater and greater share of the American economy. Moreover, he knows how to translate the facts into language the ordinary person can understand, showing how, if big business takes over entirely, the next step will be complete control by the state with all the evils that means.

O'MAHONEY voted against the Taft-Hartley Act and he has consistently fought for price controls. Organized labor would approve of his selection.

At the same time he would be accepted by those who look with dark suspicion on the labor-liberal wing. O'Mahoney is of the Roman Catholic faith, but it is not believed that the prejudice prevailing in some parts of the South would work against him in this connection. His religion might well be a positive political factor in Northern cities where the Catholic vote, if such a vote can be said to exist, is important.

But the primary consideration is that O'Mahoney would conduct a forceful and intelligent campaign, helping to lay down a direction and a goal for the party after the expected defeat in November. He would help to hold together as many of the dissident elements as possible.

While the absurdities and the follies of the stop-Truman campaign have gained the headlines, a group of political realists here in Washington never have been deceived by these noisy antics. They knew that so long as General Eisenhower was certain to refuse a draft and so long as the President was determined on renomination, it would be impossible to substitute another candidate.

THESE MEN are not necessarily pro-Truman. They are not taken in by the strange and rosy clouds of optimism that the President manages to generate around his person. But they do recognize the harsh imperative of the facts, knowing that the more the party is torn to pieces now the more difficult it will be to form ranks to fight again.

They also are aware of certain realities behind the move to shunt the President onto a siding. The drive to supplant him with Justice William O. Douglas does not have the active support, in spite of rumors to the contrary, of Thomas G. Corcoran, the No. 1 New Deal spark plug.

Four years ago Corcoran was the behind-scenes director of the attempt to obtain the vice presidential nomination for Douglas. That drive might have succeeded if it had not been for the adamant opposition of bosses, such as Frank Hague of New Jersey, who are now trying desperately to ditch Mr. Truman.

Now, however, Corcoran is said to feel that Justice Douglas should save himself for 1952, since a substitute—short of Eisenhower—would have only a slightly greater chance of winning than the President. In the 1940 convention, Douglas got 3 votes, in 1944 4 votes. A recent Gallup Poll of Democrats showed that only 2 per cent favored him over Truman.

If the kicking and the biting at Philadelphia become too general, then 1952 may mean as little to the Democrats as 1948 seems to mean at this writing. That is the dominant thought in the group trying to steer the President, a cheerfully determined candidate, through the shoals and the eddies of party strife.

Discrimination Corrected

May we take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the fine editorials which appeared in The Washington Post in July, 1946, and April, 1948, urging Congress to enact legislation authorizing the adjudication of evacuation claims for loyal American citizens of Japanese ancestry who were removed from their West Coast homes in the spring of 1942?

On July 2, the President signed H. R. 3999, authorizing the Attorney General to adjudicate these evacuation losses. We believe that your editorials were instrumental in securing the passage of this important legislation which demonstrates again that democracy corrects its mistakes.

Dondero's Attacks

A Communication

WHEN Congressman Dondero attacked your editorial "Trial by Whimsy" of October 5, 1947, I wrote an immediate rejoinder. I was persuaded not to submit it by friends who thought that this might stir up trouble for anyone who had the courage and integrity to come to my defense and to the defense of democratic governmental policy and procedure.

This advice proved wrong, for Congressman Dondero on April 6, 1948 (Congressional Record, p. 4241), slandered two more Government officials and renewed his attacks on The Washington Post and the Stars and Stripes. Mr. Dondero reproaches these papers for giving space to reply to his attacks on me and on others. Perhaps he does not realize that freedom of the press implies the right of even the humble to reply to Congressmen.

Now we can understand why Mr. Dondero seizes on the names of persons as handles for his attacks on policies he dislikes. Of the 10 people whom he attacked in his speech on July 9, 1947, seven were connected with the war crimes trials and with the investigation of the vast IG Farben Cartel, two of us were connected with denazification and one with the publication of a liberal democratic newspaper in Germany. All supported the policies of the late President Roosevelt in regard to Germany and in particular the basic policy of the Potsdam Agreement signed by President Truman in 1945.

Mr. Dondero has called these "discredited" policies. They are not discredited in the eyes of those who know the history of Germany and continue to oppose the rebirth of German militarism. How many world wars will it take to teach the lesson that German cartel owners and militarists are not friends of democratic America or for that matter of the German people?

The misrepresentation of my background is part of a misrepresentation of the issues before the United States and in that light the distortions in my particular case are enlightening. As a result of such speeches as Mr. Dondero's, the Civil Service Commission held a full hearing on my loyalty and I was cleared. The slanderers were not content and the case was reopened. Again I was cleared—then the Congressman not only rejects these clearances, but hints that the editors who uphold the decisions of duly constituted governmental bodies must themselves be subversive.

My personal fate may not be of great importance, but the administrative policies advocated by Congressman Dondero are. In order that democratic institutions may thrive, personal opinion must not be substituted for decisions of governmental agencies such as the Civil Service Commission and the military government loyalty committees. The usual opinion is that these committees often are illiberal in their standards of clearance, but Mr. Dondero evidently does not want them to clear anyone.

IN HIS reply to your editorial "Trial by Whimsy," Congressman Dondero says that he "would like to make the entire record (in my case) public." I would like nothing better, and I mean the entire record, including the names of my anonymous accusers together with their unsworn statements.

That record shows that no specific charge of disloyalty was made. On the contrary, all the evidence in the case shows that I have consistently supported our fine American tradition of democracy and its institutions and as consistently opposed those who would undermine them. The record further shows that, far from being "stampeded" as the Congressman charges, the Civil Service Commission rendered the only possible decision on the basis of the evidence.

In my 13 years of Government service I wrote dozens of memoranda and made hundreds of recorded decisions on policy matters. I challenge Congressman Dondero to produce one subversive statement or evidence of any subversive act in this public record.

The most recent addition to the record is a letter from my administrative officer in Berlin, a conservative Regular Army colonel. It is dated March 10, 1948: "His (Wheeler's) policies and plans have been found democratic and practicable in this difficult situation. We have had little necessity to alter these initial policies in the development of long-range policy . . . Final studies, as a result of above, could be depended upon to give an accurate estimate of the situation and to prescribe the action most likely to lead to a suitable policy."

My efficiency ratings have always been "excellent," and the latest (September, 1947) rating added that I was "outstanding in initiating policy" and in "adapting policy of branch to the general policies of the United States Government in Germany."

A few days after Mr. Leo Werts, my division chief, gave me this high praise, I received notice that my contract would not be renewed. My first impulse was to fight the slanders leading to this action in the courts. This, however, is a time-consuming and costly procedure which I cannot afford. I do have four children to support. I do not have the forces massed in my support which Mr. Dondero alleges.

CONGRESSMAN Dondero's attacks on the Stars and Stripes on February 26, 1948 (printed in the Congressional Record) should be enough to discredit the remainder of his charges. Surely no one takes seriously his statement that this Army newspaper is Communist-dominated or that the newspaper coverage of occupation policies has been "a veil of secrecy of highly colored reports" and pro-Russian.

In the course of this speech, Representative Dondero asks what I am doing in Prague and "how I got in." The answers are simple. I "got in" last November the way thousands of other tourists got in and the same way Mr. Dondero could have if he had wanted to. What I am doing is lecturing in English to college students in the field in which I am trained—classical, liberal economics.

Contrary to Mr. Dondero's implications, however, I did not get my job from the Communists, but from the National Socialist (Benes' party) administration of the Ministry of Education last December. Since the February changes the new dean has reaffirmed the policy of the university of giving some courses with an American viewpoint, and has pledged full academic freedom. The Congressman assumes that my living in a country means that I approve of all that happens in it and is "complete confirmation" of his charges! Such consistently has been the level of his "proof."

I am enjoying the opportunity of using my background in American universities to give courses to students of other countries. To them our methods of free and casual discussion are an interesting innovation. In addition, there are at least two important considerations — living costs are low here ($21—sic—per month for a beautifully furnished five-room apartment), and secondly I have a chance to earn a living for my family while continuing travel and study. Is that such a mysterious course for one who has been forced out of his profession?

THE OTHER charges are on the same level, and most of them have already been overly dignified by full and complete answers at the hearings. In his April 6, 1948, attack, the Congressman in two successive paragraphs attributes my "clearance for service in Germany" to two different men.

Actually, the first-named—Stone—was in London and as far as I know was in no way responsible for my being sent overseas. The second, David A. Morse, simply had been my supervisor after I had been sent overseas. At the time of the Civil Service hearing I requested evidence from all of the agencies for which I had worked and he gave the facts under oath as to my conduct. His testimony did not differ substantially from all the rest of the sworn testimony.

In fact, Commissioner Flemming of the Civil Service Commission wrote letters to other witnesses giving them the credit for my clearance. These other witnesses Mr. Dondero calls my "cronies." I would indeed be honored if I could use this intimate term for General Flemming, General McSherry, Senator Wayne Morse, Dr. H. A. Millis, Judge Madden and the score of other persons who wrote or spoke for my record.

This, then, is the written and sworn record. Why does Mr. Dondero distort it? Has he forgotten the fundamental American and English concept that a person is premised to be innocent until proven guilty?

I am proud of my record. It is that of an educated and liberal American who cherishes the American traditions of progress and freedom, and who believes that this freedom is n[illegible] promoted by indiscriminate character assassination, from the protection of congressional immunity.

Congressman Dondero asks, "Will anyone pay for the damage that has been done?" What damage does he have in mind? The damage done by slander to the livelihood and security of loyal but dismissed employes of the Government? The damage done to the morale of Government employes still at work but afraid to support democratic activities? The damage done by intimidation of the press and other organs of free expression? The damage of the "road to the right" which leads to inflation and repressive measures at home and finally to war? We join in asking who will repair the damage?

Matter Of Fact

Thorez Feels the Whip

A FEW WEEKS ago, something happened secretly in France which has a parallel significance to what has happened so publicly in Yugoslavia. At a secret meeting of the top leadership of the French Communist Party, Communist leader Maurice Thorez received the same sort of tongue-lashing from the Kremlin as Marshal Tito was enduring at about the same time.

The difference is that whereas Tito has now boldly defied Moscow, Thorez knuckled under. Yet it is believed that the episode in France may have much the same meaning for Communist leaders in the non-Soviet world as the Tito revolt has had for the Soviet Union's satellite chieftains.

The tongue-lashing was administered directly by an emissary of the Kremlin, dispatched from Moscow to France for this purpose. Before the entire high command of the French Communist Party, the bluff, burly Thorez was forced to eat humble pie. He was flatly informed that the Kremlin was deeply displeased with the quality of his leadership.

The charges leveled at Thorez were precisely the same as those hurled at Tito before he decided to defy the power of Moscow. He had been pursuing a hateful, un-Marxist policy, which, if not corrected, would make the French Communist Party a "bourgeois" party, a tool of imperialists. Above all, he had been consistently and dangerously "nationalist"—which of course means simply that he had been too independent of the Kremlin, too much a Frenchman and too little an obedient servant of his masters in Moscow.

THE KREMLIN emissary then issued an ultimatum. Either Thorez must confess the error of his ways and henceforth give adequate proof of his loyalty to the Kremlin, or he would be cast into outer darkness and replaced. The Moscow man even designated his successor. Surprisingly, the inheritor of Thorez's mantle was not to be Jacques Duclos, always regarded as next in line of succession and considered the chief Stalinist theoretician in the non-Soviet world. Instead, the choice of the Kremlin was Andre Marty, usually believed to occupy a subordinate position in the French Communist hierarchy.

Thorez obediently performed the required Communist rite of confession of sins and promised his colleague and the Kremlin to follow the path of true righteousness in the future. Unlike Tito, with his 36 divisions, Thorez had no real choice. As pointed out in a recent report in this space, the Communist Parties outside the Soviet sphere are tightly controlled by Moscow's power of subsidy and by the whole party "apparatus." Groveling submission was thus forthcoming from Thorez, and he has been allowed to continue as titular hear of the French Communist Party.

Yet his position has long been considered insecure, and certainly this secret, icy blast from the Kremlin has done nothing to strengthen it. Therefore the Kremlin's choice of Marty as his successor is particularly interesting. Marty, an unlettered, violent man, given to sudden, alcoholic rages, is the leader of the extremist wing of the French Communist Party. He is known to be feared and distrusted by Thorez and Benoit Franchon, of the so-called "moderate" wing. Yet as a result of frequent trips to Moscow in the 30's, and a four-year stay during the war, he is a Kremlin favorite, and the moderates have never dared to challenge him. His closest political ally is Laurent Casanova, a violent Stalinist who is believed to have been given the mission of organizing an armed French underground in constant readiness for war.

AS FAR as France is concerned, the Kremlin ultimatum to Thorez undoubtedly means that the extremist Marty is now already the real power in the French Communist Party. But the significance of the Kremlin's denunciation of Thorez certainly extends well beyond the borders of France.

According to the most likely interpretation, the building of a mass popular following for the Communists, for which Thorez has always stood, will no longer be a primary objective outside the Soviet sphere. Instead, absolute obedience to the Kremlin will be demanded. No heresies, however minor, which conflict with Soviet foreign policy, will be tolerated, whatever the local political disadvantages of such open subservience to the Kremlin. In the words of a leading Kremlin emissary to Bulgaria, Chervenkov, in a significant recent speech addressed to all loyal Communists: "One cannot warmly love one's own country if this love, no matter to what extent, is opposed to love for the Soviet Union."

The mission of the Communist leadership in all countries, according to this interpretation, will now be to build an absolutely loyal Communist hard core, rather than a mass base. This hard core must act, first, as an entirely reliable instrument of Soviet policy, and second, as an effective fifth column in case of war. If this intepretation is correct, it would seem clearly to suggest that the Kremlin is now consolidating its forces against the possibility of a final showdown with the West.

U. S. Ships to Get Bonus Aid Rates

Higher freight rates will be paid to American ship operators than to foreign-flag companies carrying Marshall Plan shipments.

The Economic Cooperation Administration notified European shipping officials to this effect yesterday.

The differential is needed to meet the requirement of law that at least 50 per cent of American-produced recovery goods be moved in American vessels, Arthur G. Syran, ECA transportation director, told a meeting of the foreign government representatives.

He said some countries—not identified by name—have failed to use American cargo ships to the required extent in bringing home their United States financed recovery purchases.

The cost of operating an American flag vessel is considerably higher than for ships of other nations, Syran said. If ECA paid the world-wide "market rate," he said, American companies would be forced to turn back their chartered vessels to the Maritime Commission.

This would bring about "a prompt shortage of ships in the world market with a very sharp corresponding rise in the market rate," he said. "Such abnormal fluctuations in the rate can only mean a waste of ECA dollars and a lack of an adequate number of ships to move the essential cargoes."

Record Food Prices Likely To Rise Higher

Prices of many food products are not only at an all-time high but probably will go higher, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported yesterday

"Meat and meat animals are at new highs," BAE said, and then added they "may increase further this summer and early fall as meat production declines seasonally. Meat output is expected to continue running about a tenth below a year ago.

"Strong demand for milk and milk products also is being reflected in record prices.

"High consumer demand for cigarettes and an improved outlook for exports under the European Recovery Program are expected to increase the price of tobacco.

Other predictions of BAE include:

"Egg prices in June were slightly higher than last year. Prices for the remainder of the year are likely to continue higher than a year ago.

"Egg prices for the first quarter of 1949 are likely to be higher than this year because of decreased supplies.

"Turkey and chicken prices in June were higher than in any previous June.

"Turkey prices in the 1948 holiday season are expected to be at least 10 per cent higher than last year—and a new record. Supplies will be about 20 per cent below last year.

"The wholesale price of butter averaged slightly higher in June than in April and May."

Wool showed a sharp increase in price. In June, BAE said, farmers were getting 49.5 cents a pound for wool—or 7.7 cents more than in April.

"Prices received by farmers in July for snap beans, cucumbers, lettuce, green peas, tomatoes and watermelons probably will be moderately to considerably higher than a year ago," BAE predicts.

"On the other hand lower prices are expected for cabbage, carrots, celery, onions, green peppers, and midsummer crop of cantaloupes.

"On the average, prices received for fresh market commercial truck crops are expected to be near those of a year ago in July but moderately lower in August."

The report states tha the Government is buying large quantities of potatoes under the price-support law, with the support price about 15 cents a bushel above a year ago.

Average prices for the last quarter for wheat, corn, tobacco and cotton are higher than a year ago, but wheat and cotton are down from their midwinter highs.

Fruit prices averaged one third lower than a year ago.

"Prices of most textiles continue to decline with the result that demand for forward delivery is slow and actual purchases are on a day-to-day basis," BAE said.

"Although crop prospects indicate another year of heavy production, price declines as harvests are gathered are likely to be small. If the corn crop is much larger than last year as prospects indicate, feed prices are likely to drop substantially."

Agriculture Department sugar specialists see no reason for trade predictions of an increase in the retail price of that commodity.

Sugar is now a world surplus.

Recently prices of raw sugar dropped from $6.32 per 100 pounds to $5. No accompanying drop took place in retail prices. Raw sugar has now gone up to about $5.65, but not enough to warrant any change in retail costs, experts say.

Rail Yards Jammed

Wheat Cars Pouring Into Grain Centers

Kansas City, July 8 (AP).—A new wheat flood struck grain centers today as the southwest's harvest ran at its fastest clip in history.

Railroad yards here were choked with carloads of grain. Sidings had car after car lined up. Grain elevators were hopelessly swamped with the task of unloading them.

The largest number of cars of wheat ever to arrive here in one day—1945—piled in to add to a jam that began last Saturday. Since Saturday, 8091 cars have been received.

Railroad officials today called upon country elevators and growers to slow down shipments or face a shipping embargo.

Ralph E. Clark, manager of Box Car Distribution for the Association of American Railroads, said unless the situation could be ironed out on a voluntary basis definite action would have to be taken to "regulate the movement."

Clark estimated 7500 cars of wheat are on terminal tracks here now and that the most the 17 elevators here could unload in a day was 1300 cars.

"We cannot continue to receive several hundred more cars daily than we are unloading," he added.

The big crush was hitting other Southwest grain centers, too. Wichita, Kans. received 377 cars of wheat today; Enid, Okla., 394 and Hutchinson, Kans., 283. Their facilities were taxed to the limit.

At Houston, Tex., port officials faced a large accumulation of loaded grain cars and adopted a permit system on additional shipments there. Port Director William F. Heavey said it wasn't a complete embargo but simply a means of control.

There are about 1400 unloaded cars, about 2,500,000 bushels, at Houston.

Despite the heavy rain, the wheat market held fairly steady here. July wheat on the futures board was bringing $2.21 ¼-3/8 a bushel.

Grainmen explained there was a good floor under the wheat price; that the Government loan was about $2.24 a bushel here; that much of the grain was going into storage and not being dumped onto the open market.

The peak of the wheat harvest appeared to be passed.

The big crush wasn't due so much to the heavy yield. The crop may make 200 million bushels in Kansas. That's up considerable from the low Government estimate of 125 million bushels last May but still far below the 287-million yield last year.

What happened is that the wheat harvest, delayed by a couple of weeks of rain, came all at once.

Export License Racketeering Attacked by Commerce Dept.

By The Associated Press

The Commerce Department yesterday stepped up efforts to smash racketeering in export licenses, now being granted at a four-billion-dollar-a-year rate.

As one move, its Office of International Trade (OIT) announced a regulation setting up "ethical standards of conduct" for persons who undertake to get license grants "expedited." The regulation will become effective August 1.

George Bell, associate director of OIT, told a news conference that "we're really going to get going" against racketeering. He said punishment for violations of export laws and regulations will be "swift and severe."

Racketeering through forging licenses and selling altered documents was spotlighted by a Senate Small Business Committee investigation. It chiefly explored illicit activities in the New York area. After that, Congress provided more funds for it's anti-racketeering work.

Bell told reporters that the "ethical standards" regulation is aimed at license "expediters" who claim they can help exporters through use of asserted "pull" with OIT officials. Among other things, such a claim of "pull" will be regarded as "unethical."

Punishment for violations of export laws and regulations, Bell said, can include disbarment from the privilege of getting licenses, criminal penalties ranging up to $10,000 fine, and two years imprisonment, and seizure of shipments.

The OIT official said that illicit activities have thus far touched much less than 10 per cent of the four-billion-dollar a year export license business, but that in order to wipe them out altogether these steps will be taken:

1. Special paper, typewriters and perforating machines will be used in making out future licenses to prevent forgeries.

2. The staff to investigate violations has been enlarged from one man to 24, and will be increased to about 60.

3. The Custom Service, which will get $1,300,000 of four million dollars Congress provided for export control work, will intensify spot checking in United States ports of export shipments.

4. License "expediters" who act as exporters' agents in dealings with OIT will be barred from the business if OIT finds them guilty of violating the "ethical standards" code.

The code defines the following as unlawful practices:

"Attempting to influence any action of OIT, customs or post office officials through gifts, promises, bribes or any other means.

"Claiming special influence over OIT employe and soliciting business on such basis.

Charging a fee which is wholly contingent on the granting of an export license.

"Intentionally violating export control regulations, including any false representations which would result in illegal export shipments."

Persons to whom licenses are issued are prohibited from transferring their licenses to others, and exporters are forbidden to accept transfers.

Bell said:

"Advertisements offering or soliciting the sale or purchase of goods for exports are banned if the advertised offer is conditioned on the seller's or buyer's furnishing a license to export the goods."

Another prohibition is directed against falsifying the country of destination or name of the ultimate consignee for export goods.

Bell said the illicit business in export licenses has centered around shipments to countries where dollars are readily available, notably Latin America and more particularly to Cuba, Ecuador, Brazil and Venezuela.

U. S. Steel Price Goes Up $6.52 A Ton in D. C.

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington customers of the U. S. Steel Corp. will find the price of steel increasing an estimated $6.52 a net ton. That's because U. S. Steel has announced it will let customers pay the freight.

Here it costs $9.40 a net ton to bring steel from U. S. Steel's mills in the Pittsburgh area. But Bethlehem can ship the steel here from Sparrows Point, Md., at $2.88 a net ton.

Under the old basing point system, both steel firms sold in the Washington market at about the same price. Now Big Steel, bowing to Supreme Court rulings against the basing point system, will price its product at the Pittsburgh mills. Washington users will pay the freight differential.

Of course, Big Steel's customers here could turn to Bethlehem. But that won't work out these days. It's a sellers' market. All steel companies are so pressed by old-time customers for more steel, that they are likely to turn a chilly eye to overtures from any new customer wanting to change source of supply.

Buyers will just have to pay the freight. Also higher base prices are in prospect. Rising steel production costs and impending wage hikes have made a price increase imminent—under any pricing system.

Today the cement companies also bow to the Supreme Court ruling and the Federal Trade Commission's deadline. They start selling cement F. O. B. mill. This means that local wholesalers who buy from distant mills will have to charge more than those whose mills are closer.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Lloyd H. Nichols, formerly with the Labor Department, has organized a new firm of Government relations consultants. Associated with him is Harvey B. Storch, former Commerce Department economist . . . Tom Amatucci and Richard L. McKeever have been added to the directorate of the Guardian Building & Loan Association of Silver Spring, Md. . . . In recognition of 36 years' continuous service to the Rufus H. Darby Printing Co., Charles E. Hayden has been presented with a diamond-studded pin by President Otis H. Johnson. Thirty-nine other employes with five or more years' service also were honored . . . P. M. Petersen, vice president in charge of sales at S. C. Johnson & Co., Inc., wax manufacturer, has retired after 40 years of service.

Shenango Furnace Co. of Pittsburgh has raised pigiron prices $4 a ton in an independent move . . . Robert T. Maynard has been appointed Mid-Atlantic sales-manager of the Thaw Shovel Co., with headquarters in Washington . . . Security Mutual Life Insurance Co. has established a Washington agency and appointed Joseph S. Kessler and Irwin B. Lipman as general agents.

TREND REVERSED: The declining trend in sales of Peoples Drug Stores, Inc., was reversed in June. Treasurer W. H. Churchill reported June sales totaled $3,760,202, a gain of 4.6 per cent over the same 1947 month. However, sales for the first six months aggregated $22,001,106, a dip of $80,091, as compared with like 1947 period. During June the chain operated 138 stores against 135 in the same period last year.

New York Cotton

New York, July 8 (AP).—Cotton futures turned weak in late dealings today under pressure of liquidation and closed 15 to 85 cents a bale lower. Failure of the market to respond sharply to a lower than expected Government cotton acreage report, liquidation in nearby July, and the dull situation in exports caused traders to turn to the selling side.

Fraud Total On Idle Pay Is $96,658 in Decade Here

90 Pct. Recovered; But Board Director Says Staff Is Short For Adequate Check

A total of $96,658.60 has been paid out here in the past 10 years in unemployment compensation claims later found to be fraudulent—but 90 per cent of this has been recovered.

District Unemployment Compensation Board Director C. A. Wharton, who earlier this week declared that reduced operating funds are hampering detection of fraudulent claims, released these figures yesterday.

Wharton said that although some fraud exists in claims, easy-money ideas do not pay off very well for the few larceny-minded persons who see a "soft touch" in getting illegal benefits.

"We are definitely short of personnel to check adequately on fraud—but we are far from ignoring the investigation of fraud," he said.

1,307,918 Checks

Since 1938, when the payment of unemployment benefits began, the District office has paid out 1,307,918 checks involving more than 16 million dollars in benefits.

Of that, $96,658.60 is listed as "overpayments" due to later discovered frauds. And of that sum, in frauds, a total of $84,434.10 has been collected by the board in recovered payments for illegal claims.

"As you see," said Wharton, "we do have a pretty good record for getting such money back. Besides, many of these people have gone to jail for deliberate fraud, or paid court fines."

Penalty for making a fraudulent claim is a maximum of 60 days in jail or a $100 fine for each offense, and each check paid on a fraudulent claim constitutes a separate offense.

Double Fraud

One case of fraud involved a man who was drawing $20 a week in unemployment benefits under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act, through the District Unemployment Compensation Board, which dispenses such funds here, receiving full subsistence benefits from the Veterans' Administration as a GI student, and working under an alias in private industry.

He did not realize that his unemployment check and his subsistence check had to clear through the General Accounting Office, where the fraud was discovered.

A similar discovery was made in the case of a man who got away—for a time—with several hundred dollars through the maximum unemployment compensation benefit of $20 a week, at the same time he was employed at the Civil Service Administration.

Recently, a man filed for compensation in the District while being employed in Maryland. The state line did not prevent his apprehension. In this case, said Wharton, the "tip" came when one of the board's investigators overheard the man's relatives discussing his "good idea."

GAO Check Praised

The General Accounting Office's doublecheck of Federal checks is one of the best methods of determining fraud, said Wharton. Another top method is checking on anonymous tips, provided by persons ranging from an irate wife separated from her husband to "nosy" neighbors, and occasionally, ordinary, public-interested citizens.

Many of the illegal claims, however, are honest errors, said Wharton. Some occur when a veteran believes his subsistence checks have stopped—when they have only been delayed—and applies for unemployment benefits.

Wharton, a World War II Marine Corps major, often lends a personal hand to fraud-busting in mimeographed "hints" placed in compensation check envelopes.

District, Federal Employes Unhappy Over Wage Increase

Pay-raise conversations turn almost any District government worker sour.

Interviews at scattered local Government units yesterday, found many workers casting a green eye toward soon-to-be-issued fatter pay envelopes for Federal workers.

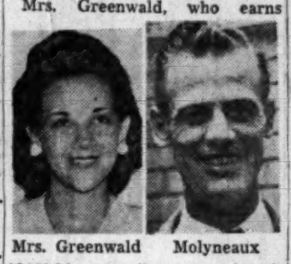
Almost to a man, District workers expressed "disappointment" over their failure at least to match the $330 annual wage boost won by Federal workers.

But laments came from Federal employes, who generally expressed the view that their latest pay raise is strictly a dud.

Mrs. Elizabeth Greenwald of 2351 14th st. se., District secretary, said:

"I don't think it's fair. We have to live just as Federal workers do—in the same town and paying the same prices."

Mrs. Greenwald, who earns



Mrs. Greenwald Molyneaux

$2460.24 annually says she is "afraid to quit work and try living on my husband's salary alone." It's 'tough enough to make ends meet with both of us working," she commented.

Although the $330 would have looked good to Mrs. Greenwald and others who got no raises, it was labeled "just a drop in the bucket" by many Federal employes.

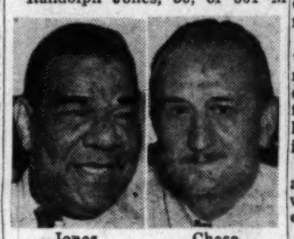
"It still doesn't bring down the price of eggs," commented James P. Molyneaux of 1700 52d ave., Coral Hills, Md.

Married and the father of one child, Molyneaux makes $2168 yearly as a mail clerk for the Coast and Geodetic Survey. His wife works, too.

The way prices are, he said, it's "impossible to save" and "we find it rough just getting by." Asked if he'd made any plans for using the increase, he grinned and said: "On $300? Are you kidding?"

Here are the views of other Government workers:

Randolph Jones, 50, of 301 M



Jones Chase

st. nw., a District employe for 26 years, now running an elevator:

"It was sort of a disappointment to us, not getting a raise. As it is we just about manage to squeeze by and that's mostly because my wife knows how to market wisely." He earns $2020 yearly.

Said William E. Chase, 42, of Riverdale, Md., a $3750-a-year administrative assistant to the District director of planning:

"I think it's pretty bad not getting a raise—same as everyone else around here does. But so far as I'm concerned another $330, like the Federal workers got, would be just a drop in the bucket—good for beer and cigarettes and that's about all."

Mrs. Eisenstadt Miss Del Re

Frances Del Re, 20, of 1445 15th st. nw., said she finds it "very difficult" to get along on her clerk's salary of $2168 a year, what with living in a rooming house and having to eat out.

Congressional failure to authorize a salary jump for District workers made her "feel gypped," she confided. As it is, she said, "it takes every bit of what I make to live on—and sometimes I'm even afraid to go to the movies because I might not have enough money to tide me over to the next pay day."

Mrs. Naum Eisenstadt of 1436 R st. nw., an accounting clerk for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, expressed sympathy for the plight of District workers, but held that her own pay increase "wasn't ample enough—although it will help some."

Adam Bonkowski, 30, of 203 Aevnue B, District Heights, Md., was explicit. "It's just not enough," he said, "not when you're married and have two children."

Bonkowski, a statistical clerk for the Federal Communications Commission, reported that "if prices continue skyrocketing, I'll have to find a side job." He said he had hoped to be able to study at night instead.

His "actual" increase will amount to not quite $10 every two weeks, Bonkowski said. His present salary is $2469 a year.

Miss Lucille Wilson of 1733 N st. nw., an Air Force clerk, the only one interviewed who voiced little complaint, said only that she certainly "can use" the increase. Unless "prices go up a great deal more," she said, "I hope to be able to buy some bonds—which I haven't been able to do up until now."

Vinson Halts Execution Of Griffin

Stay Is Granted As Final Plans Are Being Made For Electrocution

Chief Justice Fred Vinson last night stayed the execution of Baxter Griffin, 42, who was scheduled to be electrocuted at 10 a. m. today.

The stay, signed by the Chief Justice at 7:15 p. m., was reported to District jail officials as they were making final plans for the electrocution. And as the doomed man ate the special "last supper" he had requested, steak and hot biscuits.

Supreme Court Appeal

Late in the afternoon, Griffin gloomily heard that the United States Court of Appeals had denied a plea for a stay. Only a few hours later, he heard the best news of his life—an indefinite lease on life, pending outcome of an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Griffin was found guilty in March, 1947, of murdering Lee Hunter, 23, at the latter's home, 1718 9th st. nw. Griffin claimed during the trial that he had fired the fatal shots in self-defense.

Through his attorney, John M. Holzworth, Griffin now claims that vital evidence was suppressed during the trial. Holzworth maintains that Hunter had his hand on a knife in his pocket when shot and that perjured testimony was given during the trial.

"Murderers' Row" Jubilant

The news of Griffin's stay touched off a "jollification" in District jail, along the second-floor cell tier—murderers' row—where six other men live under the shadow of the electric chair.

Congratulations were shouted to Griffin by his jail companions, six convicted murderers. And then they serenaded him with Negro spirituals, Old Man River and The Last Roundup.

They asked jailers to spread a prison-style festive board for Griffin. They offered to share their chocolate and other candies with the man, who, like they, lives on borrowed time.

Earlier, when death still seemed imminent, Griffin had been granted what was to have been his last visit with his wife, Marie, and sister, Mrs. Annabell Warmack. Begging them not to cry, asking his sister to care for his wife, Griffin told them "I don't want to go—but I'm not afraid."

Then, awaiting word of his final chance for a stay, he prayed with the prison chaplain.

Series of Delay

Holzworth secured a series of earlier stays for his client. But if Chief Justice Vinson had turned down the stay plea, there would have been no further remedies for the doomed man, who recently was turned down by two lower courts. Also a plea for executive clemency had been denied by President Truman.

Meanwhile, Holzworth has pending in behalf of his client a suit filed in District Court which asks $150,000 damages from Griffin's former defense attorney and two members of the United States attorney's office.

The suit charges Griffin's trial lawyer, Robert I. Miller, did not competently defend him. It also alleges that United States Attorney George Morris Fay and his assistant, Grace Stiles, withheld evidence of the knife in Hunter's pocket and so caused illegal conviction of Griffin.

House of Mercy Offers Facilities to Many Unwed Mothers Throughout District Area

The Washington Post

AT LIFE'S BEGINNING—Mrs. Lena Whitman (left), nurse in charge, and an assistant, attend two infants born in the House of Mercy, Klingle rd. and Rosemont ave. nw.

"The quality of mercy is not strain'd,
"It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
"Upon the place beneath . . ."

—From Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice"

Perhaps the young farm girl who came to Washington from the South some months ago and got a job as a waitress here had never read these lines from Shakespeare but today she would know their meaning.

You need not know her name but you can hear her story.

She saved her money, several hundred dollars. Inexperienced in the ways of the world, she was swept into an affair with the man who owned the restaurant where she worked as a waitress. Her trust in him was complete, so complete that she invested her savings in his business.

Then came disillusionment—or to be more exact, pregnancy. The restaurant owner cooled and told the girl he had a wife. He refused to return to her the money she had invested in the business.

The expectant mother was desperate. She was penniless and friendless. Shame kept her from informing her parents back home of her predicament.

But she found that mercy extends even to girls "in trouble." She heard of the House of Mercy, an Episcopal home for unwed mothers. She went there timidly.

She was not of the Episcopal faith but that made no difference. The House of Mercy opens its doors to girls of all faiths.

Her fright slowly disappeared under the ministrations of kindly and sympathetic staff members. There, at the House of Mercy, she found refuge and proper medical care and spiritual advice.

Soon she had joined with other girls in the same plight in taking care of the daily household tasks at the House of Mercy—cleaning, cooking and laundry.

Soon plans had been started for adoption of her unborn child. Her fears and worries began to subside.

She had found mercy in this low, sprawling, stucco building, overlooking Rock Creek Park at Klingle rd. and Rosemont ave. nw.

The House of Mercy has been a haven for many unwed mothers. It is one of the few institutions in the Washington area that will offer help to girls who have lived here less than one year.

Girls are asked to make a token payment of $100. This is only a fraction of the actual cost for it costs about $125 per month for each girl and their average stay at the home is three months. For those who do not have the $100, even this is often overlooked.

The House of Mercy, which is under the direction of Miss Genrose Gehri, can accommodate comfortably 24 girls at a time, but often there are more there.

Most of the girls are taken in two months before delivery—those who need it are admitted earlier. They are kept there six weeks after the child is born.

Under the competent guidance of staff members, they take care of the daily household tasks—cleaning, cooking and laundry.

Volunteer workers teach them sewing and handicrafts. There is a large living room with a piano and radio, a chapel and an enclosed garden for their daily use. They sleep in neat home-like rooms, dormitory fashion.

Prenatal and dental care are given the girls at little cost. Their babies are delivered at a local hospital.

When they return to the House of Mercy five days later, they find a nurse there to teach them how to care for their babies.

It is left up to the young mother to decide whether she will offer her child for adoption. The home is always ready to help her in any case—either by arranging with the proper agencies for the adoption or by helping her make arrangements to care for her child when she leaves the home.

In a typical year (1947) at the House of Mercy, 84 girls, ranging from 15 to 33 years of age were cared for. Many were under 21 years old, most of them under 25.

Two of the youngest girls left before their babies were born because their families wanted them back. A third, more lucky than most, was married in the home's chapel to the father of her unborn child. Only one girl was asked to leave for disciplinary reasons.

More than half of the girls cared for were office workers, five were students, and the rest waitresses, sales girls, telephone operators and servants.

Of the babies delivered, 6 were placed immediately in the care of adoption agencies, 35 were given up later for adoption. Nineteen of the mothers decided to keep their children.

The idea of a home for unwed mothers originated with the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church of the Washington Diocese. Two years later they set-up a home called St. Saviour's House.

The present House of Mercy was a gift from Mrs. Julian James in 1911. It is not a Community Chest agency, but is supported largely by a generous endowment from Mrs. Annie Hurt and several smaller bequests.

The home also depends upon contributions to its annual "Phantom Dinner" and "Food and Apron Sales" for funds. Some of the girls make contributions when they are able after they leave.

Most of all the House of Mercy needs gifts from individuals and groups, in order to keep going the home, where a girl is welcomed without feeling she is an outcast from society.

Gambler Gets Limit After Sentence Is Cut in Half

Second Offender Originally Given Year on Advice Of Prosecutor

Municipal Court Judge George D. Neilson, notably tough on gambling offenders, yesterday mistakenly sentenced a man to serve one year in jail for possession of numbers slips.

He quickly amended the sentence to six months, however, after the defense attorney pointed out that was the maximum sentence of straight time that could be imposed for such an offense.

Court officials agreed it was still the heaviest sentence imposed for many years for possession of numbers slips.

The defendant was Newton Craig, 51, of 1137 6th st. ne., who was arrested July 1 at 7th and D sts. nw. by Pvt. Theodore R. Thomas of the vice squad, after the policeman made two bets with him with marked money.

Leniency Plea Disregarded

Craig pleaded guilty to the charge. His attorney, Thomas David, then asked for a light sentence on the grounds his client was only a small-time operator.

"The big-time operators thrive on small-time operators. We've got to nip the small-time boys in order to nip the big-time boys. The big-time operators never come out in the open," was Judge Neilson's reply.

David then protested that his client was finished with gambling and asked that a fine only be imposed on Craig, adding that he couldn't pay the fine anyway.

Judge Neilson answered, after learning that Craig had been convicted before on gambling charges:

"That's what he probably said the last time he was brought into court. They always manage to get the money somewhere to pay a fine. A fine is not the solution to this problem."

Advised by an assistant United States Attorney that the maximum sentence for possession of numbers slips is one year, Judge Neilson then said that he had warned repeaters often and sentenced Craig to a year.

David came back a short while later with a copy of the District Code. He informed Judge Neilson that a six months sentence is the maximum. Sentence was amended at once.

In another gambling case yesterday, United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage ordered Leroy Jamison, 39, of 2117 10th st. nw., held for grand jury action on charges of operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips. Bond was continued at $1500. Jamison was arrested Wednesday in Union Station.

Elton F. King, 37, of 441 Kenyon st. nw., and Robert T. Hill, 39, of 39 P st. sw., both charged with possession of numbers slips, were granted jury trials for August 10 by Judge Neilson, who set bond at $500 each.

Both men were arrested Wednesday in a grocery store in the basement of 525 15th st. ne.

Suburban Businessman Arrested as Gambler

Eddie Bratburd, 50, of 8869 Piney Branch rd., a Takoma Park, Md., businessman, yesterday was arrested by Montgomery County police and charged with illegal possession of numbers slips.

Detectives who arrested Bratburd identified him as operator of Takoma Decorators, 313 Cedar ave., Takoma Park. They said he had $500 in cash on his person as well as several hundred numbers slips when arrested.

Bratburd was released on $1000 bond pending a hearing July 13 in Silver Spring police court at 10 a.m.

Charged with a similar offense by Montgomery police was John B. Stewart, 51, of 818 8th st. ne.

Detectives said Stewart was picked up at Glen Echo, Md. Numerous slips were found in his possession, they said.

Stewart was released after posting $102.50 collateral on a charge of having gambling paraphernalia in his possession. Trial date was set for July 12 in Bethesda police court.

A man died at Freedmen's Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered in falling from the rear of a transfer truck June 28.

An autopsy disclosed that Robert Tyler, 40, of 2319 N st. nw., died of a fractured skull, Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy said. Tyler was believed to be a heat victim when he was admitted to the hospital in a semiconscious condition following the accident in the 700 block of Park rd. nw.

No serious injury was apparent at that time it was stated, but yesterday's post-mortem examination uncovered a fracture at the base of the skull. Tyler died at 2:30 a. m.

Driver of the truck was Samuel T. Lewis, 58, of 1239 Irving st. nw. No date was fixed for the inquest.

Two-Block Ride For Woman Costs Salesman $2200

Leo Domin, 31, of 614 Randolph st. nw., a used-car salesman, gave a woman a two-block ride in his car early yesterday—and it cost him $2200.

Domin told police he picked up the woman at about 2:45 a. m. in the 1300 block of 14th st. nw. He said she jumped from the car two blocks later after filching his billfold.

Domin said he pursued the woman and managed to recover the billfold which she had dropped. But the billfold was minus the $2200. Domin told police the woman was a light-skinned Negro of about 28, 5 feet 10, very slender and was wearing a dark dress and light turban.

40 D. C. Youngsters Enter Marble Tourney

Forty District youngsters will compete for cups and medals in the annual Metropolitan Police Boys' Clubs' marbles tournament at 10:30 a. m. today.

The public tournament will be held in a roped-off area on the East Ellipse across from the Department of Commerce. Marble masters from Police Boys' Clubs Numbers 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12 will participate.

Trial Ruled Out

Guard Tiff Washed Out By Gen. Cox

Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, National Guard commander, straightened out his colonels yesterday.

General Cox said there will be no court-martial of Col. Peyton G. Nevitt as a result of a squabble over command during the general's absence.

Charges filed at the White House by Col. Le Roy S. Mann, a contender for acting commander of the District Guard in the general's absence, have been "disapproved," Cox said. "No trial will be ordered."

It all started in May, when the general went to Europe on a business trip, leaving Colonel Nevitt, adjutant general, in charge. The latter issued an order making himself acting commander.

Colonel Mann, commanding officer of the 260th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group said he outranked his colleague by seniority, and that Nevitt, as a staff officer, could command troops only in his own branch.

Mann called on Nevitt to issue an order reiterating that he was commander in the general's absence and that orders signed by anyone else were "illegal and of no effect."

Mann appealed to the White House, because the President is the highest commander of the District Guard. There Mann's charges that Nevitt failed to obey the orders of a superior officer (Mann) were put in a drawer until General Cox's return.

Said the general, "I left an order naming Colonel Nevitt as commander during my absence."

Aaron Holman Quits Justice Dept. Post

Resignation of Aaron B. Holman as special assistant to the Attorney General and chief of the special claims unit of the Justice Department, was announced yesterday by Attorney General Tom Clark.

Holman, appointed as an attorney in the claims division, leaves the Government to become a member of the law firm of Powers & Holman, with offices in New York City and the District. He and his family plan to make their home in Newark, N. J.

Rent Increase Favored for Concord Units

An 8.66 per cent rent increase on Concord Gardens apartments, 5906-5912 13th st. nw., and 1301-1315 Missouri ave. nw., has been approved.

The Office of the Administrator of Rent Control had been asked for a 13 per cent rent increase by Concord Gardens, Inc., owner of the apartments.

William F. Mansfield, examiner, recommended the smaller rent increase after it was brought out at a hearing "that expenses, including taxes and water rent, had increased substantially."

The rents on adjustment will range from $53.50 to $65 per month. The previous range was $49.50 to $60 per month.

Traffic Safety Essay Prizes To Be Awarded

Traffic safety essay prizes will be awarded to 45 Greater Washington children at the District Building at 11 a. m. today.

The awards will be made on the steps of the District Building if weather permits, and in the Board Room if it rains.

The prizes will be presented by District Commissioner John Russell Young and Leon Chatelain, jr., president of the Washington Board of Trade. A. Julian Brylawski, chairman of the essay contest committee, will be master of ceremonies.

The contest was sponsored by the Commissioners Traffic Advisory Board and the District Department of Vehicles and Traffic.

Internes Again Ride District Ambulances

Gallinger Hospital internes have been assigned to ride the District Health Department's two emergency ambulances, officials said yesterday.

Use of internes in the ambulance crews was suspended during the war as a result of medical manpower shortages, and the ambulances since then have gone out with two drivers trained in first aid.

John P. Sanderson, director of the Hospital Permit Bureau, which participates in operation of the department's emergency ambulance service, recalled that several citizens groups had urged the restoration of interne service.

He said Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police, had joined in the recommendation several months ago. He said the move was delayed until the newest crew of internes arrived at Gallinger, July 1. They started riding the ambulances Tuesday, he said.

The ambulance duty will be part of the regular training program for internes at Gallinger, Sanderson said. They will be on 24-hour duty for three-week periods, he said, but with a chance to rest between runs in quarters in the New Municipal Center building. After a tour of duty on the ambulance runs, the internes will be given compensating time off, he said.

Sanderson said it was expected that drivers who will be replaced by internes will be transferred to other service. He said the assignment of internes to the ambulances is expected to result in better service. He said he had recommended such a move about a year ago, but at the time there were not enough internes available for the ambulance duty.

On Beer License

Police Give Conflicting Testimony

Police officers gave sharply conflicting testimony to the District Alcoholic Beverage Control Board on whether Oscar Mason, 61, was drunk on June 2.

The question of Mason's condition that day was at issue in a hearing on whether the beer license of Weaver's restaurant, 5914 Georgia ave. nw., should be revoked or suspended because a meal was served to Mason when he was alleged to be drunk.

Pvt. Richard K. Kallio of the Sixth Precinct testified he arrested Mason outside the restaurant when he saw the man staggering. Mason later forfeited $10 on an intoxication charge.

Pvt. George M. Brill of the same precinct testified that Mason sat beside him at the restaurant counter while both were having lunch. He said he noticed the odor of alcohol on Mason's breath, but "I didn't consider him drunk; he showed signs of drinking but not to the extent that I considered it my duty as a police officer to place him under arrest." Brill was in uniform and on duty at the time.

The restaurant is operated by Christ Liakos, and Thomas Franks. The latter conducted the defense, and presented testimony of several persons that the restaurant was operated in an orderly way, and that service was not given to intoxicated persons.

The testimony brought out that Mason had a spareribs lunch, with coffee, and no beer. Among the witnesses was Pvt. Joseph P. Murphy, also of No. 6, who described the restaurant as a "very respectable place—no beer parlor."

The board took the restaurant charge under advisement.

FSA Offices Here Will Be Reshuffled

Three Federal offices in Washington, employing roughly 45 persons all told, will be reshuffled in a reorganization plan announced yesterday by Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing.

The program, establishing 10 FSA regional offices to replace scattered regional and district offices, will shift from the local scene offices of Region No. 4, Social Security Administration, 700 12th st. nw.; the United States Employment Service regional unit, 1624 H st. nw.; the Vocational Rehabilitation Service, 4th and Independence ave. sw.

A spokesman for FSA said that "in so far as possible" local employes will be transferred to the new offices for the region embracing Washington, to be located in Richmond.

Heading up the Richmond unit, to cover Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia and North Carolina, in addition to the District, will be Dr. Erval R. Coffey, medical director for District 1, United States Public Health Service, for the past five years. Previously, he was regional consultant for the District, and before that served for four years as State health director for the State of Washington.

The FSA spokesman emphasized that residents here will be virtually unaffected by the prospective move, expected to take place in the next few months. Most of the offices slated to be transferred handle paper work, and do not deal directly with the public.

Ewing said the new offices "will assist our staff to serve the State governments more efficiently and out, the "various units of the out, the "various units of the agency have had differing geographical areas to work in."

Peppery Old Party Wins War on Lights

When a certain peppery old party strides across Thomas Circle these days, there must be a new springiness to his gait. And on his face, there must be a roguish smile that lights up, brighter than any neon sign.

You see, this distinguished-looking gentleman has been waging an all-out war against the neon "walk" and "don't walk" signs at the circle. There are, or rather, were, 12 of them. All are now on the blink, thanks to what citizens have said was a cane-swinging old gentleman, obviously determined, but far too spry ever to have been caught by the law.

Rather than give the one-man campaign against regimentation the green light for more cane swinging, the District Traffic Department, temporarily has had to admit defeat. There just aren't any more neon replacements immediately available.

Bus Route Approved

The District Public Utilities Commission yesterday approved a South Capitol st., bus route for the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc.

Club Defends Trees

Without cherry trees, Wisconsin ave. in Bethesda "would be barren, with old-fashioned, squatty buildings on both sides revealed in all their ugliness," the Men's Garden Club of Montgomery County fears.

These trees deserve a better fate, because they have since 1930 "beautified the street in springtime with their loveliness" and have "afforded citizens of Bethesda protection from the rain and sun," the club resolution declares.

Nats Lose to Bosox, 4-1; Wynn Hurt by Batted Ball

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

SOMEBODY HAS MADE a mess of the coaching situation in Washington's 12 high schools, white and colored, and the finger of suspicion points directly at the gentlemen of the Board of Education.

POVICH

Their insistence on the continuation of an unreasonable system of nonpaying "voluntary" coaching jobs brought the blow that fell—a mass walkout on their jobs by 43 of the teacher-coaches who have announced it's "goodbye, boys, we're through coaching for nothing."

And that's the miserable state of athletics in Washington high schools today. No coaches for the teams. And worse than having no teams is the suggestion by school officials that other teachers may be drafted as emergency coaches. Already some parents have declared they won't subject their sons to inexperienced coaching—the risk of injury is too great.

All the coaches wanted was pay for their extra hours of coaching in addition to their regular teaching assignments. In 51 other cities of more than 100,000 population, a survey shows, the coaches do get extra pay. In Washington they get a brush-off from the school officials.

THE SCHOOL PEOPLE were asking for the jolt that finally came when the coaches decided to quit their "voluntary" jobs. The board's defense that it has no funds from which to pay for extra coaching hours, is a lame one. School officials were warned on January 17, 1947, that the coaches would ask compensation for their extra coaching hours, approximately four hours each school day.

The School Board reacted as if it were a bluff. In any event it made no attempt to ask Congress for the funds which would meet the coaches' request. Theirs was a smug handling of the situation. A year ago they were faced with the same threat of a walk-out and had put it down. This, they apparently reckoned, was just another empty threat. But it wasn't.

The shameful item is that it's a comparatively trivial sum that is needed to cover the demands of the coaches for compensation. Approximately $50,000 would take care of the situation and there was a way to raise that sum even without going to Congress, but the board vetoed the idea of night football games that would produce enough gate receipts to pay the coaches.

THE SCHOOL PEOPLE are afraid of over-emphasis of school sports by night football games, but there has been no evidence of untoward incidents in the few night games that have been played. Without coaches, or with inexperienced coaches, they now have under-emphasis and a situation that is a disgrace to a metropolitan city.

It isn't a very pretty record of high school sports that the school officials can point to, anyway. Washington high school teams in most sports are far below the calibre of school teams of smaller cities, as is proven too often by the dismal results of inter-city games. It's a system that is palpably wrong somewhere, and we offer in evidence the fact that at Eastern High, Joey Kauffman, a former college football star with no experience at track, is coaching the track team, not the football team.

The School Board has pointed out that there are more applicants for the teacher-coaching jobs than there are coaching assignments, but that doesn't mean that the Washington schools command the better coaches. The better coaches prefer to take their talents to cities where they are compensated for their coaching in addition to teaching duties.

I WAS AT NEW ORLEANS a couple of years ago when a high school team from Washington was playing the Jesuit High team of New Orleans in a post-season game during the Sugar Bowl week Carnival. It wasn't a public high school team, it was Gonzaga High, and it took a fearful beating from the New Orleans lads.

A gray-haired man watching the game in the press box asked "Is this typical of Washington high school teams?" and I told him it was.

"Don't they have good coaching?" he asked.

I told him he might have hit upon one reason for the poor caliber of football in the Washington high schools. "Washington's high school coaches are teacher coaches who don't get paid for coaching," I answered. "And another thing," I added. "You can't get permanent status as a public high school coach in Washington unless you have a master's degree or its equivalent."

"Oh, gee, then I guess I'm not qualified to coach a Washington school team," said the late Jock Sutherland.

Highs Seek Volunteers In Faculty As Coaches

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

In the face of a threatened coaches' walkout, Assistant Superintendent of Schools Norman J. Nelson yesterday admitted that the future of the public high athletics is "clouded."

He said that the officers of the High School Board of Principals have sent out letters to the principals asking that a canvass be made of their faculties to determine how many teachers would volunteer to coach interscholastic teams.

The survey was necessitated by Wednesday night's meeting of coaches at which a 43-2 vote was recorded in favor of not "volunteering" to coach after 3 p. m., regular school closing time, unless compensatory pay was authorized.

Nelson said the recorded vote of 45 coaches did not represent the entire roster of physical education instructors in the White and Negro schools and that "there are about 15 apparently not accounted for."

He said that if there are not enough physical education instructors to coach all the sports, Latin, English, math and other teachers would be asked to volunteer to coach.

"Until we know by this canvass how many will agree to coach, I'd have to say the future of Interhigh sports is clouded," said Nelson.

Principal John Paul Collins of Eastern High said, "I am not alarmed over the coaches' statement that they'll not coach this year. I'm sure that Eastern will have a football team this year, and teams in all the other sports, even if we have to hire men outside of the school system to do the job."

Eastern's football coach, Dick Mentzer, and the football coaches at Woodrow Wilson and Anacostia were among those not present at the meeting of coaches. They said yesterday that they'd be back at their coaching jobs in the fall "as usual."

Kermit (Zuzu) Stewart, Anacostia grid coach summed it up for Mentzer and Joe Carlo of Wilson by saying, "we took our jobs with our eyes wide open. We knew we wouldn't be paid for our after-school coaching.

"I won't say that the demands for more pay aren't justified. I'll just say this. My principal, Mrs. Opal Corkery, has been very nice to me and I wouldn't want to put her in a spot by refusing to coach. Maybe we can get the extra money by other means, like further arbitration," said Stewart.

Three other football coaches, John Jankowski at Central, Fred Mulvey of Western and Gil Conn at Calvin Coolidge, stated that they would not take on the after-hours coaching work, "unless forced to."

Yanks Trip A's, 6-5, on Grand Slam

New York, July 8 (AP).—Tommy Henrich's bases-loaded homer off Carl Scheib helped the New York Yankees snap a four-game losing streak today with a 6-5 win over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Scheib had the Yankees at his mercy until Henrich belted his ninth homer with three on in the seventh. That tied the score at 5-5. The Yanks won it in the eighth on George McQuinn's double, a sacrifice and Cliff Mapes' long fly to right, scoring McQuinn. Elmer Valo made a fine leaping catch of Mapes' fly against the right field stands.

McQuinn hit a homer in the second for an early Yank lead, but the A's came back with two in the third on Scheib's triple, three walks and an outfield fly.

In the sixth, Philadelphia knocked out Allie Reynolds and scored three runs on five hits, including singles by Valo, Scheib, Barney McCosky and Ray Coleman and a double by Buddy Rosar.

Joe Page, third Yankee pitcher, received credit for his third victory in his thirtieth appearance of the season. It was Scheib's third loss.

Early Hit On Foot in 2d; X-Rays Set Today

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Boston, July 8.—Tonight the Nats lost the services of Early Wynn temporarily and a ball game permanently.

Wynn was hit on the right foot, below the ankle, by a batted ball as the Red Sox returned to form with a 4-1 victory over the Nats before 26,996.

Wynn's injury, the extent of which won't be determined until X-rays are taken in Washington tomorrow, happened in the second inning.

Catcher Birdie Tebbetts sent a scorcher through the box which hit Wynn on the leg. He hobbled off the field and was replaced by Lefthander Forrest Thompson who held the slugging Red Sockers to two runs and three hits in a terrific 7-inning relief job.

Parnell Holds Nats

Thompson's great rescue job was wasted, however, because the Nats couldn't dent Left-hander Mel Parnell with any degree of effectiveness.

Parnell, scoring his fourth decision and his second of the year over the Nats, restricted the Griffs to eight hits, the same as the Sox collected, but he spaced his while the Red Sox bunched theirs.

While Wynn may suffer a possible break in his leg, he suffered a definite fracture of his pitching record tonight. The defeat was tagged on him, his ninth against seven victories in this campaign.

Coan, McBride Gang Up

The Nats got a single in every inning except the second and seventh, but they may as well have been blanked in those frames also for all the good their singles did them.

Gill Coan and Tom McBride teamed to prevent a Griff shutout, parlaying their efforts to produce Washington's only run, in the first inning. Coan walked, stole second—his thirteenth theft of the year—and checked in as former Bostonian McBride rammed a single into center. After that the Nats could advance only two runners to second base against Parnell.

Al Evans reached there, and died there, in the second and the same thing happened to Carden Gillenwater in the third. Parnell, who lasted only one pitch against the Nats last night, was simply too much for them tonight.

DiMag Starts It

The Sox took the lead to keep in

Braves Stop Dodgers, 7-4; Stanky Hurt

Brooklyn, July 8 (AP).—Jimmy Russell's grand slam homer with two out in the eighth inning today assured the league-leading Boston Braves of a 7-4 verdict over Brooklyn in a game that cost each team a player via the injury route.

The blow also halted the Dodgers' winning streak at six games.

Eddie Stanky, Braves' second baseman, and Bruce Edwards, Dodger third baseman, both were hurt when the two collided as Edwards tried to tag out the Bostonian on a fielders' choice in the third inning.

Injury Forces Dodds Out Of Olympics

Evanston, Ill., July 8 (AP).—Gil Dodds, America's greatest distance runner, announced today that because of injuries he will not compete in final tryouts for the Olympic team and the United States Olympic track committee said it would not be possible to appoint him to the team.

"The Olympic committee has had a rule for more than two decades to the effect that a candidate must qualify in the final tryouts to gain representation on an Olympic team, said Kenneth L. Wilson, chairman of the committee, in a formal statement.

"This rule has applied in numerous cases in the past and necessarily must apply in this instance."

Dodds' Loss Painful

The loss of Dodds to the American team came on the eve of the final tryouts in Dyche Stadium to determine the squad which will be sent to London to represent the United States in the games of the fourteenth Olympiad.

Both he and his coach, Jack Ryder of Boston College, agreed that Dodds' injured left leg was too painful for him to compete in the final Olympic tryouts at Evanston, Ill., Saturday.

Dodds ran three quarters of a mile today and said he felt pain every step of the way. He said he was working harder this afternoon than he was yesterday when he covered the same distance 9 seconds faster.

Wheeler Loses, 11-10

W. B. Wright defeated Wheeler, 11-10, yesterday in a Walter Johnson School 12-and-under league game at Palisades Playground. Dick Lightfoot's six-hit pitching and triples by Wayne Shoemaker and George Speros were the leading factors in Wright's fifth straight league win.

Cadet Hanover Wins Laurel's Feature Race

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Harry Stout sneaked through on the rail with Cadet Hanover to win the feature race by a head last night and the form players began to breathe again.

It took a skillful ride by the 50-year-old up-State New Yorker to catch Tom Walters' Gallantdale, 12.50-to-1 shot, that almost stole the race.

Close Race

Gallantdale and Bobby Boniington, driven by Pat Hubbard, raced in that order most of the way in the mile pace. Cadet Hanover, 3-to-2 choice of the banner crowd estimated at 10,000, appeared hopelessly pocketed.

But Stout kept the 4-year-old chestnut horse on the rail, saving ground all the way. Then in the pay-off stretch drive he managed to slip past Gallantdale to take the photo decision. The tiring Gallantdale bore out barely a sulky's width, but that was all Stout needed.

The total handle, $194,312, didn't approach Wednesday night's record, $200,839.

In the sixth, a good thing got home. Miss Emma Majesty, owned and driven and bred by Walter Shinn of Mount Holly, N. J., made her first start a winning one, returning $13.20 for $2. The 4-year-old mare bested Harry Fry's Honeysuckle C and George Brenneman's Carbon Copy.

$28.40 Double

Close finishes were the order on the fine racing program and nearly every race had to be decided by the photo-finish camera.

The daily double returned $28.40 when favored Pack Up took the first race and Colonel Bars, driven by Willie Davis, beat the choice, Diamond Lee, in the second. Tonight's races sent the total handle for the meeting to $2,020,768.

We Were Treated Badly, Reports Johnny

Columbus, Ohio, July 8 (U.P.).—Johnny Bulla, back from the British Open today blasted England's Henry Cotton as "snooty and uppytish" and said the American golfers may boycott future British tournaments unless they get better treatment.

"The galleries as well as the British players seemed resentful of us," he said. "When an American golfer made a good shot, there was no show of enthusiasm. Only silence.

"But when a British golfer made a shot, no matter how mediocre, the applause was loud and long.

Bulla, a Phoenix, Ariz., professional here for the Columbus open which begins tomorrow, blamed Cotton as a precedent-setter for bad treatment of the Yanks.

Chicago, July 8 (AP).—Stanley (Bucky) Harris, manager of the American League All-Star team, today named his pitching staff for the contest with the National League All-Stars in St. Louis Tuesday.

Washington's Walter Masterson, Cleveland's Bob Feller and Bob Lemon, Hal Newhouser of Detroit; Joe Page and Vic Raschi of the New York Yankees; Joe Coleman of Philadelphia and Chicago's Joe Haynes comprise the American League's mound corps.

Behind this pitching staff, Harris has an infield squad made up of George McQuinn of New York and Mickey Vernon of Washington at first base; Boston's Bobby Doerr and Joe Gordon of the Indians at second; Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager, and Vern Stephens of Boston, at short, and Detroit's George Kell and Cleveland's Ken Keltner at third.

The powerhouse outfield at Harris' command includes Ted Williams, Boston; Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich of New York; Pat Mullin and Hoot Evers of the Detroit Tigers, and the Browns' Al Zarilla.

Behind the bat Harris has Buddy Rosar of the Athletics; the Yanks' Yogi Berra and Boston's Birdie Tebbetts to handle his star-studded pitching department.

Tribe Clings to Slim Lead By Thumping Chisox, 14-1

Cleveland, July 8 (AP).—The Indians turned their batting power on an old teammate, Al Gettel, today and drove their way to a 14-to-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox, retaining their slim lead over Philadelphia.

The Tribe knicked Gettel and two successors for 15 hits, including a pair of home runs and six doubles, to score their highest total of runs for the season and retain their American League lead.

Ken Keltner registered his twentieth round-tripper with two aboard in the seventh inning. Catcher Jim Hegan hit his fifth with one aboard in the third.

Cleveland gave Pitcher Gene Bearden his seventh win against three losses by opening up a five-run lead in the first inning.

Here's Angler Who Has It Tough on Bay

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

ALTHOUGH most reports on Chesapeake Bay fishing continue to be glowing, Washingtonian Dave Nicholas offers a loudly dissenting vote.

Nicholas, a star bowler who competes in four leagues, reported a disastrous day off Solomons Island. "Worst luck I've had in 20 years," he said.

Nicholas and a companion, Nicholas Lenden, pushed off in a rowboat at 4 a. m. the other day. After five hours, they hadn't had so much as a nibble. They pulled ashore, slept for an hour and a half and then tried again near Cedar Point Lighthouse.

Three more hours were spent fruitlessly before they decided to give up. "Eight solid hours of fishing and we didn't get a bite—not even a crab," Nicholas muttered, understandably a trifle bitterly.

The disgruntled fishermen decided that the porpoise had scared the fish away.

Payoff is that four D st. merchants recently told us about catching 137 rockfish chumming with live grass shrimp off the same Cedar Point Lighthouse. The party included Sam Hanlein, Max Zweig, Buddy Levenson and Sid Atlas.

The white marlin season is on in full force off Ocean City, Md., but fishermen are reluctant to give up the amazingly successful quest for blues. Abundance of bluefish off the coast has resulted in party catches of 200 and more. Last year, 60 would have been considered good.

MISCELLANY—The Associated Press had muskies in the news from northern Wisconsin yesterday. Two were duly mentioned when they were hooked by Secretary of Interior Julius A. Krug, who was visiting his son at a boy's camp . . . The other muskie tried to catch a 14-year-old boy who got away. The fish who went "boying" inhabits Amnicon Lake. When James Nagle jumped into 8 feet of water he popped to the surface with a howl and headed for shore. It wasn't so funny, at that, some 25 stitches were necessary to close a muskie bite across the arch of his left foot . . . In Wetzel County, W. Va., Officer Everett Price reports plenty of bass but says anglers are getting only a few. Reason he advances in the presence of 17-year locusts which are providing choice eating or the fish. J. W. Powell, of Taylor County, turned in a similar report . . . Fishing season in Shenandoah National Park ends Saturday, July 10 . . . Capt. Bill Ballou, champion amberjack angler of 1947 from Morehead City, N. C., recently broke his own record by landing a 60-pounder in the Gulf Stream. Last year's jack was 52½ pounds . . . It's refreshing to report a reduction in equipment, instead of the usual increase. Du Pont announced a 25 per cent cut in its wholesale prices for nylon monofilament in pound-tests of 30, 40, 50, and 60.

TODAY'S TIP—Plenty of tuna are off the Ocean City, N. J., coast.

Stretch Run Beats Out Dixie Yank

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Havre de Grace, Md., July 8.—Lilac Lady, owned by Mrs. R. H. Heighe, of Bel Air, Md., finally found a field she could whip in the Philadelphia Road Purse, featuring the Thursday program here on the south bank of the Susquehanna River.

Second six fimes in her 12 starts this year without reaching the winner's circle, the daughter of Purple Knight gave a bold display of speed thru the stretch today and won by five lengths.

A crowd of 7644 saw Lilac Lady forge to the finish line in rather easy fashion ahead of A. T. Allen's Dixie Yank. Two lengths behind the place came P. J. Carey's Chicle Clown to be third in the field of 10.

Winner Pays $16

With J. T. Gibson's Rough Ordy the heavily-played favorite, Lilac Lady paid a $16 mutuel. Running over a fast track and under clear, cool skies, the winner was clocked in 1.47 2/5 for the mile and a sixteenth.

Mrs. R. H. Heighe's colors also reached the winner's circle when Combustion, a first-time starter, showed the way to 11 other 2-year-olds in the third race, bouncing out of the maiden ranks with a convincing length and a half victory.

With Jockey Lloyd Knapp doing the riding, Combustion led G. S. Walden's White Hawk into the wire with Hazel B. MacCrowe's Bold Knot third. Combustion shook off Bold Knot early and held sway thereafter to pay a $14 mutuel. The filly was clocked in 1.07 4/5 for the five and a half furlongs.

A disqualification came after the thrilling finish of the fifth race. J. Mauro's Joe's Favorite, strongly played, finished first but bore out nearing the wire, for which he was disqualified.

A. Bonuomo's Bunk, a $46.60 shot, was bothered by Joe's Favorite and was moved into the winning position. L. J. Stephan's Canada was third in the field of eight.

Jockey M. Basile rode Bunk and made the objection against apprentice N. Shuk, who had the mount on Joe's Favorite.

Ex-Yale Ace Just Makes It

Ris, Carter and Ford Qualify In 100-Meter Olympic Swim

Detroit, July 8 (AP).—Wally Ris, national champion water sprinter from Chicago and the University of Iowa, won the first berth on the United States Olympic swimming team today in the 100-meter free style race at the final American trials.

The 100-meter event was the only final held today.

Crowding him to the finish touch in the 50-meter pool at River Rouge Park were Keith Carter, Purdue University ace who looks like he might be a twin of the husky Chicagoan, and ailing Alan Ford, the former Yale who ran afoul of food poisoning three days ago.

The three—Ris, Carter and Ford—thus became the first to win themselves Olympic berths for the international swims at Wembley, London.

Ris was timed at 58.4 seconds under a blazing sun after two false starts that were blamed for taking the edge off the eight highly primed finalists and slowing the race to a figure nearly a full second off the Olympic 100-meter record of 57.5 set by a Japanese, M. Taguchi, at Berlin in 1936.

Ohio State University's two diving stars, Bruce Harlan and Miller Anderson, breezed through the trials to rank first and third among six qualifiers for Friday's finals in the 3-meter springboard event.

Jimmy McLane, 17-year-old Andover Academy star from Akron, Ohio, led the eight qualifiers for 400-meter free style finals scheduled Friday. He won his heat in a brisk 4 minutes 46.7 seconds, just 2.2 seconds slower than the Olympic record.

Bill Smith, Ohio State Hawaiian, had the second best qualifying time — 4:53.7 — and Ralph Sala, Lodi, Calif., youngster from San Francisco Olympic club, surprised by finishing third in 4:55.8.

Kelly Easy Victor 2 Olympic Sculls

Princeton, N. J., July 8 (AP).—John B. Kelly jr., of Philadelphia, considered America's outstanding sculler, loafed to an easy victory over another Philadelphian, Arthur A. Gallager, in the first heat of the Olympic single sculls tryouts on Lake Carnegie today.

Kelly was timed in eight minutes five and four-tenths seconds for the 2000 meters under flat calm conditions. Gallagher was timed in 8:18.

Jack Trinsey, another 21-year-old Philadelphian, like Kelly a member of the Vesper Club, romped away from Joe Angyal, the Long Island City, N. Y., fireman who holds the national 145-pound championship, to win the second heat of single sculls by about three lengths: He was timed in 8:10.

Dave Johnsen, Leavens Gain Net Semifinals

Dr. Dave Johnson and Don Leavens advanced to the semi-final round of the District of Columbia men's tennis single championships with decisive victories at the Edgemoor Club yesterday.

Johnson defeated John Curtiss, 6—3, 6—3, and Leavens downed Grady Frank, 6—1, 6—4. The two men, by their triumphs joined Capt. Art Dreyer and Capt. Robin Hippenstiel in the round of four.

In today's matches, Johnson will face Dreyer at 5:30 p. m. and Leavens meets Hippenstiel at 6:15 p. m.

While the men were playing quarter-final matches, the women's division of the tournament moved at a faster pace, Willie Herbert, seeded first, defeated Sarah Moore, 7—5, 6—3, to advance to the final round along with Charlotte Decker.

Miss Decker beat back a severe challenge by Pearl McCoy to win 9—7,6—3 and join Mrs. Herbert in the title round.

The women's final will take place at 2:30 p. m. Saturday with the men's final at 4 p. m. on the same day.

Griffs Lose To Bosox, 4-1

the second inning when they literally batted Wynn out of the box. Bobby Doerr opened with a single and Bill Goodman followed with another single, chasing Doerr to third. Then Tebbetts rammed a mean grounder through the mound which drove Wynn out and Doerr across.

Without even a warmup pitch in the bullpen, Thompson came in to set the side down on three pitches, getting Parnell on a pop up and inducing DiMaggio to ground into a double play. Chubby Thompson threw left-handed confusion at the enemy for most of the remaining innings.

They touched him up for another run, stemming from a walk, a single and a fielder's choice, in the fourth and added their final marker in the eighth, a run which was strictly accidental.

Williams did it. When Ted was backing away from a close pitch. Thompson hit his bat and the ball landed in short center field. While Gillenwater stood there flabbergasted, Williams hot-footed it to second and beat the throw by an eyelash to come up with one of the flukiest doubles he'll ever list.

Spence's sacrifice and Doerr's fly scored him. The Nats made a gesture to duplicate their fireworks of last night when they scored five in the ninth to win the game, but it was only a gesture. Vernon opened with a single, but Kozar, Evans and Pinchhitter Angel Fleitas expired easily and swiftly, ending the game and enabling the Nats to catch their 12 o'clock train with time and another defeat on their hands.

IN SHORT—Sid Hudson (3-8) will open the series against the Yankees in Griffith Stadium tomorrow night . . . Gus Niarhos, the Yanks' Greek catcher, will receive a car from Ahepa, Washington Greek fraternal organization, before the game.

Homestead Grays Win 1st Half Title

Ashville, N. C., farmteam of the Washington Homestead Grays, defeated Fichmond, 10-2, last night before 2500 Griffith Stadium patrons to clinch the first half Negro American Association championship.

Costello Wins, 5-0

A home run by Eddie Moyle and the three-hit pitching of Bob Stuart enabled Costello Post to eliminate Georgetown, 5-0, yesterday in Junior City League first-half competition at Taft Field.

The loss was the third in six games for Georgetown, which now has the same record as Costello. Hardesty and Marx meet today at 5:30 p. m. at Turkey Thicket. If Marx, with a 4-1 record, wins, it takes the first half title. If Hardesty, with 4-2, wins, it ties Marx for the first-half crown.

Winner's Short Game Decides It

Gene Wolfe of Montgomery Blair High School won the local Junior Board of Commerce Golf Tournament by defeating Stanley Mouser 1 up in yesterday's final round at Georgetown Prep.

In the semifinal round, Wolfe defeated his brother, 14-year-old Billy Wolfe, 3 and 2, and Mouser downed Dennis Bolster of Gonzaga, 2 up.

THE CARDS:
For out	443	454	434—35
Mouser	444	555	534—39
Wolfe	442	455	335—35
For in	443	454	434—35—70
Mouser	443	553	436—37—78
Wolfe	455	474	329—40—75

Wolfe wins, 1 up.

The final round saw some excellent golf by both boys—Wolfe having a medal score of 75 to Mouser's 76. Wolfe's sharp putting touch finally decided the match.

After leading 2 up at the turn, which he negotiated in 35 strokes to Mouser's 39, Wolfe faded soon after the second nine began. He dropped the eleventh and twelfth, and after rallying briefly to take No. 13, he lost the fourteenth and fifteenth holes to go 1 down to Mouser.

Wolfe then came through with his best golf of the day. He birdied the sixteenth with a fine second shot and a 6-foot putt to square the match, then went one-up as he birdied the seventeenth with an 8-foot putt for a deuce.

Wolfe became the winner on the next hole when both boys took sixes.

The finalists were awarded trophies by Howard Robinson of the Junior Board of Commerce. But their biggest prize is the trip to Lincoln, Nebr., to play in the National Junior Board of Commerce tournament August 3-7.

Beside Eugene Wolfe and Mouser, six other lads will make the trip. These include Bubby Worsham, who won the medal with a 69, Billy Wolfe and Bolster, the semifinalists, plus Bob Halcombe and Don Dedrick, both quarter-finalists with outstanding records in high school play. The alternate is John Eisinger, another quarter-finalist.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Badgered by Wife Who Insists He Doesn't Love Her, Man Tries Patiently to Explain That He Does, But She Won't Believe Him

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My wife and I have been having another of those discussions in which she says I don't love or like her enough, and by love we mean spiritual or every day affection as well as the physical side of it.

Liz says there is just one thing I don't do that would solve our problem; she says if I showed her enough love I never would have to ask for meals on time or complain about socks undarned.

I was brought up in a family where I had plenty of love and affection, whereas she was starved for love and affection because of a disrupted home life.

I tell Liz I don't like for anyone to ask me to love or like them; that this evokes only courtesy at best. I think love is the pinnacle of liking and if someone wants me to love or like him or her, he or she must do things that please me, or that I admire.

He Says Kind Acts Win Love

AT ANY RATE, I feel that Liz will get more love and affection from me if she will show more considerate interest in others, including me. She is well aware of her rights in life, but I don't think she realizes or remembers others' rights often enough.

I have no doubt that she loves me deeply, but she says I don't love her enough (I only wish I were capable of it), and that she doesn't know if she can stand living with me much longer if I don't change my attitude. We have three children, and I would appreciate your advice on how to settle our difference.

P. S.: After reading this, my wife says again that I don't love her. I do; but perhaps not enough, or not expressively enough, to satisfy her. R. F.

Central Fact Is, Wife Can't Love

DEAR R. F.: It seems plain to me that you are a devoted husband, but Liz can't believe her eyes or her ears in the matter of trying to evaluate the weight and worth of your actions and testimony which say that you love her.

This is due to the fact that she herself can't love, because, alas, she was starved for love in formative years; and the capacity to love—hence to know the meaning, and recognize the language of love—is only established by being abundantly loved, by sympathetic interested steadfast sources, from infancy until one's personality is substantially formed.

Unconsciously cognizant of her inhibited, frigid, negative temperament, which makes her a skeleton at the feast of emotional satisfactions, Liz takes a dim view of herself as a love-partner, and tends to vent her anxieties on her partner, in the form of resentment, as if to say, "Why don't you compensate for my deficiencies; if you

TASTY TIDBIT: Mrs. Walter Norblad, wife of the Representative from Oregon's First Congressional District, offers her young son, Albin Walter 3d, a smoked, Pacific oyster from among the appetizers she is preparing. Other ingredients she is using include smoked salmon, minced razor clams, and Tillamook blue cheese, Pacific Northwest delicacies

Mrs. Norblad Tells of Northwest Cookery

Oregon's Recipes Favor Pacific Seafood

This is the fifth of a series of articles on regional cookery, featuring favorite recipes and menus of Congressional wives.

By Lucia Brown

IF YOU read that rollicking best-seller of yesteryear, "The Egg and I," you probably recall long, mouth-watering passages about native foods of the Pacific Northwest—tiny Olympia oysters, pink Chinook salmon, Dungeness crab, and all the rest.

It's the heart of the area that produces this delicious abundance that is home for blonde, attractive Mrs. Walter Norblad, wife of the Representative from Oregon's First Congressional District.

Mrs. Norblad is a native of Astoria, a fishing community which stands with its back to the lush, green Cascade Mountains and faces the great grey-blue reaches of the Pacific. To the south is Tillamook County, settled by the Swiss and famous for its cheese and other dairy products.

Most of the residents of Astoria are of Scandinavian rather than Swiss descent, however. Mrs. Norblad, the former Elizabeth Bendstrup, has Danish forebears, while Mr. Norblad's ancestry is Swedish. His father is former Gov. Albin W. Norblad of Oregon, who now operates Columbia River salmon canneries.

AFTER practicing law in Astoria and serving as an Air Force Intelligence officer during the war, Walter Norblad was elected to Congress in January 1946. Here in Washington he, his wife and son live at 2102 Suitland tr. s.e., where they often please their friends by serving foods from their home State. Some of these are shipped to them by their families in Oregon and some are found on sale in Washington stores.

In the Swedish tradition is one of Mrs. Norblad's favorites, a Smorgasbord dish—molded salmon with cucumber sauce. She makes it with Columbia River Chinook salmon, which she says is the "best in the world," light pink, very rich and canned in its own juice. Here's her recipe:

MOLDED SALMON WITH CUCUMBER SAUCE

1 cup canned salmon
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon mustard
Dash of paprika
1½ tablespoons butter
¾ cup milk
2 egg yolks
¼ cup vinegar
¾ teaspoon gelatin

Remove skin and bones from salmon and separate into flakes. Mix all other ingredients except gelatin and cook until slightly thickened. Add gelatin, softened in 2 tablespoons cold water. Stir in salmon and pour in molds. When set, unmold and serve with the following sauce:

To ½ cup whipping cream (beaten until stiff), add ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of paprika, 2 tablespoons vinegar, and 1 large cucumber which has been pared, finely chopped and drained.

ANOTHER dish Mrs. Norblad likes to make is oysters with mushrooms. For this she uses, when possible, medium sized Pacific oysters, which are considerably larger than the little Olympias.

OYSTERS WITH MUSHROOMS

Brown 1 small chopped onion in 1 tablespoon butter. Add 1 cup chopped mushrooms and cook 10 minutes. Add ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley and 1 pint oysters. Cook for 2 or 3 minutes. Stir in ½ cup rich white sauce and turn into individual baking dishes. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake in 400-degree oven for 20 minutes.

SIMPLE ways of serving crab, salmon, or tuna are great favorites with the Norblads. Fresh tuna or salmon, brushed with melted butter and broiled or baked, is a main dish fit for a king, they believe. Big pieces of cracked Dungeness crab, served with mayonnaise flavored with cocktail sauce, a green salad, and hot biscuits, make a delicious light supper. Another simple supper menu that the family likes is the following:

Cold Flaked Salmon
garnished with pickled beets and sliced hard-cooked eggs
New Garden Peas
Creamed Potatoes
Rye Bread Green Onions
Chocolate Angel Food Cake
Coffee

APPETIZERS made with flavorful ingredients from the Pacific Northwest are usually the hit of the party when the Norblads entertain. Here are a few of those they serve:

Flaked, smoked salmon, served on rounds of rye bread spread with a combination of mustard and butter. Sprinkle chopped parsley over the salmon as a garnish.

How To Repair Aluminum Tray

I have a hammered aluminum tray which appears to have corroded. Is there anything I can do to repair it or any place that I can have it repaired? J. T.

If the corrosion has not gone too deeply, a firm which repairs metals could remove it and the discoloration. This treatment will leave a depression as deep as the metal was affected and will also remove the hammered appearance at the spot. Whether or not such a treatmen will restore the tray satisfactorily will therefore depend upon the extent of the corrosion. One store which does this kind of work can be reached by calling Metropolitan 1134.

I have a very large dining room with very high walls (10½ feet) and one large window. I want to put a mirror over the mantle. Should the mirror extend from the mantle to the ceiling? Would it be incorrect for the mirror to extend beyond the mantle? (The mantle is 5 feet wide.) What would be the best treatment? K. B.

In my opinion, the mirror should not extend from the mantel to the ceiling because: (1) The room is large and you do not need the large expanse of mirror to increase the spaciousness of the room; (2) If the mirror should reach to the ceiling, it would add to the feeling of height in the room and tend to dwarf the fireplace. You will achieve the best lines by having the mirror exactly as wide as the mantel. To add to the horizontal lines in the room, have the mirror a height which will give the rectangle pleasing proportions. For instance, a mirror 5 feet long and 3 to 3½ feet wide would be well proportioned.

I have been making the "chiffon" cakes so widely advertised at the present time. I find that whenever I bake the cake in a large tube pan I have no trouble at all in getting it out

What Price Pleasure?

Living Scale of Rich Is Contracted to Pay For Luxury Resort Costs

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 8.—What price pleasure is always interesting to those who have lots, and to those who have little. With costs zooming astronomically for plain citizens, the same increase—present-day staggering income taxes are discounted—hasn't disturbed the wealthy in proportion. They've merely shaved a few luxuries, contracted living to simpler scale.

In past decades Southampton summers were extraordinarily elaborate, everyone employing chauffeurs, a small army of servants, always sitting down to many course meals.

Today the bigger households run fairly smally staffed with four or five caterers helping out at parties while the few remaining chauffeurs double as mechanics, gardeners, general helpers around the house. Domestic payrolls run about as follows: $200 for butler, $150 for footmen, $200 for cook, $125 for maid. Hired-in butlers get $20 an evening, feminine washer-uppers around $10, additional waiters about the same. Monthly grocery bills for a household entertaining an average amount run between $600 and $700, while liquor bills depend on quantity and quality served.

Though rents for the brief season are lower than during the late '20s, they are still steep. Back in 1928 the late Charles Paysons paid $14,000 for Atwater Kent's handsome seaside palazzo. In depression years it rented for as low as $3000, and today a similar house rents for $10,000 the season.

Mme. Jacques Balsan, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, put $5000 on the line for a six-week occupancy of a five master bedroom ocean-fronting cottage.

Only a few give more than an occasional big dinner. Those who think nothing of having anywhere from 25 to 50 include the Angier Dukes, the Evader Schleys, the Harry duPonts, the Diego Saurezes, the Herbert Westons. Dinners mostly run to a modest 8 to 12, and buffet meals are the most popular form of party.

Kids' lives, too, are less expensive, less complicated. Only the occasional glamour girl has more than a few dresses in her wardrobe, makes out most of the day in shorts. They entertain cafeteria style at the Beach Club, and evening dances at the Meadow Club and Shinnecock are Dutch treat affairs with a lowly $3.50 cover charge.

of the pan, but that when I cut the recipe in half, and bake it in a 9-inch square cake pan, as the instructions specify, then I run into trouble. The cake sticks badly, and has to be literally torn from the pan, leaving the very bottom of the cake in the pan and ruining the appearance. The recipes for these cakes all say they must be baked in an ungreased pan. That is why I have hesitated to put even waxed paper in the bottom of the pan. Could I, in the case of the smaller cake in the square pan, line the pan with waxed paper, to make removal easier, or would this amount to greasing the pan? B. P. M.

Baking pans for angel food and sponge-type cakes are left ungreased so that the batter can adhere to the sides of the pan as it rises, thus helping to hold it up until the heat sets the cake. Therefore, I see no reason why a piece of paper cut to just fit the bottom of the pan, could not be used. When the cake is baked and cool, loosen it from the edges of the pan and the bottom of the cake should loosen easily.

Can kapok-filled pillows that have become flat and limp be restored to their original buoyancy or should they just be discarded after a few years use? R. T. B.

When kapok-filled pillows become flat and limp, the filling is broken and dried so that it is almost a powder. When it gets into this condition, there isn't any way to restore it to its original fluffiness so it must be discarded.

Can you tell me how to remove a long streak of brownish stain from a marble top where a mirror (framed mahogany) rested for many years? I have tried cleansers, acids, turpentine, etc., with no results whatsoever. M. S. K.

It's possible that this stain can be lightened and removed if you will apply a cleaning agent or bleach to it in such a way that it has ample time to penetrate the marble. Since we cannot be sure just what the stain is, you may have to try several agents in the poultice before one is successful. Start by mixing turpentine with hydrated lime, corn meal or something similar. Apply this paste an inch or two thick to the stain, cover it with a sheet of glass, metal or heavy cloth to check evaporation and let stand for a day or two. If this doesn't lighten the stain, try a poultice of household bleach mixed with the lime or cornmeal.

If the bleach doesn't remove the stain, the remaining solution is to rub the spot with a block of pumice stone, using plenty of water. This will be a slow process, but should in time completely remove the stain.

Should this treatment dull the polished finish, it can be renewed by rubbing with putty powder. Hard rubbing is required.

Is there any way to remove lint from black wool suede cloth? I have brushed and brushed and vacuumed to no avail. Have you ever heard of a magnetic lint remover? E. W. M.

The lint remover you refer to may be a brush which was recently put on the market by a large chain drug store. The brush is not magnetized, but it is made of a material which readily develops static electricity when rubbed across the fabric. It is reputed to be very successful for picking up lint, since this static electricity draws the particles to the brush.

Another method which has been suggested is to wrap electrician's friction tape (available at dime and hardware stores) around the handle of the brush. This tape is adhesive on both sides and when drawn across the fabric, the lint will stick to it.

Wife's Neurotic, Man's Realistic

EXPERT psychological assistance at firsthand would be necessary to establish better understanding, and more rapport, between you and Liz, for the reason that the difference about which you dispute is a difference between (1) a neurotic and (2) a healthy concept of love-relatedness.

Your wife's concept is neurotic, immature, and over-evaluates the supposed importance of sexual infatuation as a binding-power in marriage. She associates "true love" with ardent wooing, eloquent sweet talk, ineffable honeymoon bliss, etc., all keyed to Romeo-Juliet balcony scene pitch.

Your concept is rational, realistic, a down-to-earth acceptance of "togetherness," which of course derives from your early conditioning in a family situation replete with love and affection, where the sign and seal of true-blue devotion was considerate interest in the other fellow, expressed in plain unassuming "every day" behavior. Minced razor clams and cream cheese on toast rounds. Use 7-ounce can clams, 3 ounces Philadelphia cream cheese, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, pinch of dry mustard, 2 teaspoons onion juice and salt to taste, all mixed well. (The razor clam is a Pacific variety, long in shape, with a thin shell.)

Tillamook blue cheese, mixed with cream cheese and mayonnaise, spread on toast rounds, and garnished with paprika.

Chopped smoked oysters on lightly buttered toast rounds.

Pate of salmon liver and deviled egg on small round wafers. Spread half the wafer with the salmon liver (which is sold canned) and half with highly seasoned mashed hard-cooked egg. Top with a thin strip of pimiento.

On the Town

EIGHT or 10 years ago the entertaining of large groups like sororities, fraternities and clubs was a different thing than it is today. The only way then for people to get a chance to dance to a name band was to hire one for a club dance, usually at a pretty stiff rate. The admission price to members seldom dropped below five dollars per couple. If a fellow was able to take his girl to a big-time dance once or twice a year he was considered a social success.

Tempus fugits and today we have an entirely different situation in the big name band world. Instead of being able to dance to the rhythm of a big timer only once or twice a year, a fellow and his date can find someplace nearby that is featuring a big band almost any week.

One of the main reasons that we're having so many name bands booked in and around Washington can be credited to an organization called Name Bands, Inc., run by Kay Ford and Al Walters. Last year Kay and Al decided there was a potential market in this city if bands could be brought in at the right price and offered to large numbers of people, thereby cutting down the price of admission so that it would be within everyone's financial range. They formed Name Bands, Inc., and made arrangements to rent the National Guard Armory for dances.

The number of people who attended the dances confirmed their suspicions to the tune of a pretty well filled cash register at the end of each dance. Some of the bands booked were Tommy Dorsey, Vaughn Monroe, Johnny Long and Sammy Kaye, all of them top notchers. A lot of dancers were sorry to see them stop the bookings for the summer months. Their disappointment was great enough to warrant the booking of name bands for the summer, but in another spot.

Chesapeake Beach park, hearing of the success in Washington, decided to try their hand at featuring Saturday night dances. Manager Freddy Donovan contacted bookers Ford and Walters and asked them to line up a group of bands for the summer. All went well except that it took the public a few weeks to discover the spot. Ina Rae Hutton opened the summer, playing to a fairly small crowd, but each successive week has seen more and more people attending. Gene Krupa followed Hutton two weeks later and played to a large crowd. Tomorrow night Ted Weems, the "Heartaches" boy, will bring his orchestra in.

Later on Woody Herman, Johnny Long and Tony Pastor will be in the spot and there are possibilities that Vaughn Monroe, Tommy Dorsey and Carmen Cavallero will follow. The dances should continue through Labor Day.

Mrs. Rowell "Explains" Suburban Boundaries

The other day I expressed the opinion that one could probably swing a cat by the tail and have the poor creature pass through Bradley Village, Edgemoor and Battery Park. Mrs. E. J. Rowell of 407 Battery lane, Bethesda, Md., replies:

"It would have to be an exceptionally elastic feline.

"It's true that these three communities are fairly close together, but they do not overlap.

"As for the exact boundaries, Wilson lane separates Edgemoor and Battery Park. The north side of the street is Battery Park; the south side is Edgemoor.

"Bradley Village and Edgemoor are probably separated by Elm st. or Hampden lane. (The jury will please note that the lady isn't sure.—Ed.)

"I can't imagine where you got those confused listings, but I might point out that the 100 block of Exeter rd. is the only block of that street in Battery Park; when Exeter crosses Wilson lane, it goes from the 100 block to the 7200 block and becomes Edgemoor.

"Have you got it straight now?"

IRWIN

Frankly, no. And neither has the telephone company's special criss-cross directory, on whose brave but futile attempt to untangle these communities I based my original item.

However, the important thing is that the residents of the area are satisfied with the vagaries of its nomenclature, so I accept the explanation as enthusiastically as if I really understood it.

After all, those folks in Bethesda aren't nearly as bad off as some friends of mine in Kensington, who have to draw me a map every time they invite me out.

STORY OF A BAND

The other day we had an item about a lost pigeon which stopped off in Aldie, Va.

Sidney W. Earle of 7212 Bowdoin ave., College Park, Md., furnishes everything except the pigeon's name. (Sid is a member of the National Capital Pigeon Fanciers Association.)

The rubber band on one leg is marked "895y" on the outside. But if the finders will look on the inside of the rubber band, Sid says they'll find another number, which is time-clocked to keep an accurate record of the feats of racing pigeons.

The metal band on the other leg contains even more information for the initiated. The symbol "if-41" means it was issued by the International Federation of Homing Pigeon Fanciers in 1941, and "1601" is the bird's individual serial number. "Paterson, N. J." is the home town of the breeder.

The pigeon was probably forced to earth during a recent race, and is probably a valuable bird, "otherwise the owner wouldn't have kept it since 1941."

Taken as a group, District Liners seem to know just about everything.

GIVE-AWAYS

DEAR-SIR-YOU-CAD DEPT.

Our recent jest about people who list their religion as "Druid" brings me a stern letter of rebuke from W. H. Johnson, Grand Eagle of the local Druid cult, and Herbert J. Miller, Fallen Sparrow of same.

I am informed that this is no joking matter. Washington is the primal diocese of the cult, and the organization has spread to "such foreign lands as Mexico, the Philippines, Panama, Norway and Texas. Domestic chapters are currently holding services for an old friend of ours, an 88-year-old elephant who expired in Philadelphia on June 24, 1948."

Yeah—I also got suspicious at that point in the letter, and noted that Grand Eagle Johnson and Fallen Sparrow Miller listed their address as 1622 21st st. nw. It's the Sigma Nu House.

Ah, me—the way I let people push me around these hot days.

NEW YORK.—Eleanor Roosevelt, whose name was proposed last week as a possible nominee on the Democratic ticket, isn't as enthusiastic as Clare Boothe Luce about women as candidates for national office. "Whoever goes into public life has got to have a hide like a rhinoceros," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "A woman must be prepared to take all that men take, and a little more—because here we believe that all is fair in Love and Politics. Men can stand up under whispering campaigns a little better than women, because we still feel that women should have a different kind of reputation than men. If by some fluke a woman were nominated and elected, she could not hold her following."

The Rockefeller Foundation is trying to arrange an RFC loan for the United Nations, for funds with which to erect U. N. buildings here. Governor Dewey will serve as intermediary . . . Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., who wasn't selected as a New York delegate to the convention, will attend it as "a political observer" . . . Beatrice Lillie's shoulder ailment, which forced a cancellation of the matinee and evening performances of "Inside U. S. A." Monday, was the result of her weekend painting. Miss Lillie prefers to paint with her canvas on the floor. She spent so many hours stooped over, that she injured her shoulder.

Eisenhower's Career Reviewed

(Editorial Note—Drew Pearson today writes the first of two columns dissecting Dwight D. Eisenhower, the man who didn't want to be President.)

By Drew Pearson

Most spotlighted man in America today is Dwight D. Eisenhower. This column and the one that follows is an attempt to answer a deluge of questions received in this office asking what Eisenhower is really like, whether he's a brass hat at heart, and what might be his qualities as a civilian leader.

Eisenhower

I first knew Eisenhower when he was an inconspicuous major holding down a desk in the outer office of Assistant Secretary of War Frederick H. Payne. That was in the Hoover Administration, and Ike was working in cooperation with Bernard Baruch on taking the profit out of war.

Eisenhower got to know MacArthur at that time, and ghost-wrote MacArthur's farewell message as Chief of Staff—one of the most masterly statements ever issued by an American soldier to the Army.

MacArthur Fired Ike

Later MacArthur took Ike to Manila, along with several other bright boys, to help organize the Philippine Army. There they rowed, and Ike was sent home—probably the luckiest break he ever had. For he got back to the U. S. A. just as the clouds of World War II were rolling up and just in time to come to the attention of Franklin D. Roosevelt. If he had stayed in the Philippines he would have been just another commander under MacArthur, probably taken prisoner on Bataan.

Back in Washington, Eisenhower, then only a lieutenant colonel, jumped into the feverish job of building up an Army which in all too short a time might have to cope with Hitler.

Ike's Boyhood

However, for real insight into any man's character, you must examine his boyhood. For such examination I am indebted to J. W. Howe of Emporia, Kans., then publisher of the Abilene (Kans.) News, a member of the school board and probably a closer friend of young Eisenhower's than almost anyone outside his own family.

"Young Dwight," says Howe, "liked to read the exchange papers from out of town. He never complained about working, seeming to take that for granted. In school discussions, he was always for the underdog and contended we needed a somewhat better distribution of wealth."

At that time William Jennings Bryan had made several speeches in Abilene, was popular with young people, and had made some inroads among the Republicans. Young Eisenhower was a Bryan admirer. That perhaps, plus the fact that his family were Democrats, explains why Ike's first venture into politics occurred at the annual Democratic banquet in Abilene in November, 1909. The chief speaker was George H. Hodges, later Governor of Kansas, but young Dwight, then 19 and waiting to get into West Point, was picked to speak with him.

Ike's First Speech

Two themes ran through the speech of the 19-year old future commander of the Allied Armies in Europe—preparedness and helping the underdog. He also made an appeal to Republicans to come over to the Democrats.

"There is an old proverb," the young orator told his audience of Democrats, "that says 'as the twig is inclined, so the tree is bent.' A man after voting the straight ticket for several elections seldom changes from one side to the other.

"This fact is proved conclusively by the controversy now going on in the Republican Party. One branch is called the square-dealers, insurgents, and reformers. Although these men are loud in their denunciation of Cannon, Aldrich, and a few others who are hidebound party men, yet they refuse to join any other party and at election vote the Republican ticket.

"There is an inborn desire in all normal and healthy boys to help the smaller contestants in an even fight," Eisenhower continued. "A young man, in speaking of the political situation the other day, said: 'My father is a Republican and so was his father, but I am going to vote for the Democrats at the next election because I think they need me and the Republicans do not.'"

"A leader of a political party who is a clean and fearless fighter," concluded young Eisenhower, "and possesses a winning manner is undoubtedly the means of attracting a large number of votes. The young man sees that the more honest and fearless leaders have become disgusted with the actions of the leaders and the party proper. He admires these men greatly but he cannot help but think and remark that they are fighting for many of the principles which the Democratic Party advocated."

That was Dwight Eisenhower's first venture into politics. And unless the Democratic Convention stampedes his nomination next week, it will probably be his last. A few months after the Abilene speech Ike was in West Point where no one is supposed to be either a Democrat or a Republican.
